(b) Except when known or supposed to contain lottery matter, or found to contain contraceptive literature, articles brought into the United States contrary to law and placed in the mails shall, upon the production to the postmaster or postal employee of satisfactory evidence to that effect, be marked "imported contrary to law: Seizable." Unsealed articles in the regular mails which are not registered, and parcel post, when so marked, shall be delivered immediately to the nearest customs office to be treated as required by the customs laws and regulations. In the case of sealed articles and all registered articles (except parcel post) so marked but not indorsed (or labeled) as required by § 22.8 (a), before any such article is delivered to the nearest customs office, the postmaster shall detain the article and notify the addressee to furnish written authority for a customs officer to open the article in the presence of a representative of the postmaster where it is to be sent. If the addressee does not comply with such request within a period of thirty days, the article shall then be forwarded to the nearest customs office.

Amend paragraph (c) by inserting in the first sentence within the parentheses the words "or contraceptive literature", and delete the last sentence.

Add a new paragraph (e) reading as follows:

(e) Mail articles which, upon inspection or examination, are found to contain contraceptive literature shall be retained by the Postal Service or delivered to that service by the Customs Service, and submitted to the Solicitor of the Post Office Department for instructions as to disposition to be made thereof.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

[Docket No. 5404]

CUSTOM HOUSE PACKING CORP. ET AL.

NOTICE OF HEARING

In the matter of Custom House Packing Corporation, a corporation, and Julian G. Burnette, as President, and Frank J. Leard, as Vice President of Custom House Packing Corporation, and Wilbur-Ellis Company, a corporation, and Brayton Wilbur, as President, and Thomas G. Franck, as Vice President and Treasurer of Wilbur-Ellis Company.

Complaint. The Federal Trade Commission, having reason to believe that the parties respondent named in the caption hereof, and hereinafter more particularly designated and described, since June 19, 1936, have violated and are violating the provisions of subsection (c) of section 2 of the Clayton Act (U.S.C. Title 15, Sec. 13) as amended by the Robinson-Patman Act, approved June 19, 1936, hereby issues its complaint, stating its charges with respect thereto as follows:

PARAGRAPH ONE: Respondent Custom House Packing Corporation is a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal office and place of business located at 608 Ocean View Avenue, Monterey, California, and is engaged in the business of packing, selling and distributing seafood products, principally sardines, hereinafter designated food products.

PAR. TWO: Respondent Julian G. Burnette is an individual residing in Los Altos, California. He is now President of Custom House Packing Corporation and has been a substantial stockholder, and an officer of said corporation, since some time after June 19, 1936. After becoming an officer, and at the present time and for some time past as President, respondent Burnette has exercised, and still exercises, a substantial degree of authority and control over the business conducted by said corporation, including the direction of its distribution and sales policies.

PAR. THREE: Respondent Frank J. Leard is an individual residing in Monterey, California. He is now Vice President of Custom House Packing Corporation and has been a substantial stockholder, and an officer of said corporation, since some time after June 19, 1936. After becoming an officer, and at the present time and for some time past as Vice President, respondent Leard has exercised, and still exercises, a substantial degree of authority and control over the business conducted by said corporation, including the direction of the distribution and sales policies.

PAR. FOUR: Respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company is a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of California, with its principal office and place of business located of 430 California Street, San Francisco, California. Respondent has branch offices and places of business located in New York, New York, Chicago, Illinois, Los Angeles, California, and Seattle, Washington. Said respondent is engaged in the business of distributing food products canned or packed by a number of sellers, including Custom House Packing Corporation.

The stockholders of said respondent and the members of their respective families now own, and since June 19, 1936, have owned a controlling stock interest in respondent Custom House Packing Corporation.

Said respondent organized Connell Bros. Company, Ltd., some time prior to June 19, 1936, as a wholly-owned subsidiary to engage and which did thereafter engage in the business of distributing food products until it was legally dissolved on or about December 1941. The offices and places of business of said subsidiary were the same as those of said respondent. Shortly after such dissolution said respondent registered the words "Connell Bros. Company, Ltd." as a trade name and conducted some of its business under said trade name.

The business done by Wilbur-Ellis Company under its own name, as well as that done by and through its said subsidiary or under said trade name, is hereinafter referred to as having been done by respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company.

PAR. FIVE: Respondent Brayton Wilbur is an individual residing in San Francisco, California. He is now President of Wilbur-Ellis Company and has been a substantial stockholder, and an officer of that company, since some time after June 19, 1936. After becoming an officer, and at the present time and for some time past as President, respondent Wilbur has exercised, and still exercises, a substantial degree of authority and control over the business conducted by said company, including the direction of its distribution and sales policies.

Respondent Wilbur, together with several members of his family and other relatives, now owns, and for a considerable period of time since June 19, 1936, has owned, a substantial stock interest in Custom House Packing Corporation.

PAR. SIX: Respondent Thomas G. Franck is an individual residing in San Francisco, California. He is Vice President and Treasurer of Wilbur-Ellis Company, and has been a substantial stockholder, and officer of that company, since some time after June 19, 1936. After becoming an officer, and at the present time and for some time past as Vice President and Treasurer, respondent Franck has exercised, and still exercises, a substantial degree of authority and control over the business conducted by said company, including the direction of its distribution and sales policies.

Respondent Franck, together with several members of his family and other relatives, now owns, and for a considerable period of time since June 19, 1936, has owned, a substantial stock interest in Custom House Packing Corporation.

PAR. SEVEN: Respondent Custom House Packing Corporation, since June 19, 1936, has sold its food products to buyers exclusively by and through respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company as broker or agent.

Respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company, as exclusive broker and agent for respondent Custom House Packing Corporation, and as broker, or agent for other packers of food products, sells its principals' food products to buyers by two separate and distinct methods: (1) by selling some such food products to buyers through other brokers or agents, hereinafter designated sub-brokers, which method of doing business is not challenged herein; and (2) by selling some such food products directly to other buyers, without the intervention of sub-brokers, which method of doing business is challenged herein.

Such buyers who purchase direct from respondents are generally known to the trade as "buying brokers". These buyers designate themselves as brokers, but in such transactions do not function as brokers or sub-brokers but purchase for resale on their own account.

A representative but by no means complete list of respondents' "buying brokers" or direct buyers are:

Southgate Brokerage Co., Inc., Norfolk, Va.
Christian Brokerage Co., Inc., Atlanta, Ga.
Koehler-Spalding Co., Inc., Louisville, Ky.
James & Harwell, Houston, Tex.
Fridge & Nichols, Jackson, Miss.
J. A. Campbell Co., Savannah, Ga.

Such buyers transmit their own purchase orders for food products directly to the respondents. The respondents thereafter invoice and ship such food products directly to such buyers from whom the respondents collect the purchase price of the merchandise.

Respondent Custom House Packing Corporation and such other packers of food products grant and allow to respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company commissions or brokerage fees which respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company receives and accepts. Part of such commission or brokerage fees paid to respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company is retained by it as compensation for the brokerage services it performs and the remainder of which in those cases where sub-brokers are used is transmitted by respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company to such sub-brokers, and is received and retained by them as compensation for the brokerage services rendered in assisting respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company; and, in those cases where respondent sells directly to buyers without the intervention of subbrokers, the remainder of such commissions or brokerage fees is transmitted by respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company to such buyers who purchase such food products for resale on their own account.

The respondents pay such buyers who purchase food products direct from them commissions or brokerage fees on such purchases in an amount which is equal or approximately equal to the commissions or brokerage fees paid by the respondents to their sub-brokers by (a) deducting or allowing such amount from the invoice price of the food products purchased; (b) selling to such buyers at a net price which reflects such amount; and (c) remitting such amount by check after such buyers have accepted and honored respondent's draft for the purchase price.

PAR. EIGHT: The respondent Custom House Packing Corporation, and various other sellers, since June 19, 1936, through their duly appointed and legally constituted agent Wilbur-Ellis Company, in the course and conduct of their respective businesses, have directly or indirectly sold and distributed a substantial portion of their food products to buyers, located in states other than the states in which respondents are located and, as a result of said sales and the respondents' instructions, such food products are shipped and transported across state lines to such buyers so located.

PAR. NINE: The paying and granting of brokerage fees, directly or indirectly, by respondent Custom House Packing Corporation, acting by and through its President, respondent Julian G. Burnette, its Vice President, respondent Frank J. Leard, to its agent and broker, respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company, for transmittal by the latter to buyers, and the direct or indirect receipt and transmittal of such brokerage fees to such buyers by respondent Wilbur-Ellis Company, acting as said agent and broker by and through its President, respondent Brayton Wilbur, and its Vice President and Treasurer, respondent Thomas G. Franck, in the manner and under the circumstances hereinabove set forth, are in violation of subsection 2 (c) of the Clayton Act, as amended by the Robinson-Patman Act.

Wherefore, the premises considered; the Federal Trade Commission on this 27th day of November, A. D., 1945, issues its complaint against said respondents.

Notice. Notice is hereby given you, Custom House Packing Corporation, a corporation, and Julian G. Burnette, as President, and Frank J. Leard, as Vice President of Custom House Packing Corporation, and Wilbur-Ellis Company, a corporation, and Brayton Wilbur, as President, and Thomas G. Franck, as Vice President and Treasurer of Wilbur-Ellis Company, respondents herein, that the 4th day of January, A. D., 1946, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, is hereby fixed as the time, and the offices of the Federal Trade Commission in the City of Washington, D. C., as the place, when and where a hearing will be had on the charges set forth in this complaint, at which time and place you will have the right, under said act, to appear and show cause why an order should not be entered by said Commission requiring you to cease and desist from the violations of the law charged in the complaint.

You are notified and required, on or before the twentieth day after service upon you of this complaint, to file with the Commissioner an answer to the complaint. If answer is filed and if your appearance at the place and on the date above stated be not required, due notice to that effect will be given you. The rules of practice adopted by the Commission with respect to answers or failure to appear or answer (Rule IX) provide as follows:

Respondent by such answer shall be deemed to have waived a hearing on the allegations of fact set forth in said complaint and to have authorized the Commission, without further evidence, or other intervening procedure, to find such facts to be true.
> Contemporaneously with the filing of such answer the respondent may give notice in writing that he desires to be heard on the question as to whether the admitted facts constitute the violation of law charged in the complaint. Regional and District Office Orders.

[Region II Adopting Order G-1 Under Basic Order 1 Under Gen. Order 68]

WESTERN SOFTWOOD PLYWOOD IN NEW JERSEY, MARYLAND AND DELAWARE, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, AND EASTERN AND CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW YORK

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and under the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of Region II by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, by General Order 68, and by Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1, it is hereby ordered:

SECTION 1. What this order covers. This Adopting Order under Basic Order No. 1 under General Order No. 68 covers all retail sales of the sizes and types of plywood listed in the annexed price tables made by sellers located in the States of Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey, the District of Columbia and in the following portions of the states of New York and Pennsylvania: In the State of New York the entire state east of but not including the counties of Niagara, Erie and Cattaragus; in the State of Pennsylvania the entire state east and south of but not including the counties of Warren, Forest, Clarion, Armstrong, Westmoreland and Washington. All provisions of Basic Order No. 1 under General Order No. 68 are adopted in this order and are just as much a part of this order as if specifically set forth herein. If said Basic Order No. 1 is amended in any respect the provisions of said order as amended shall likewise without further action become part of this order. All persons subject to this Adopting Order are also subject to Basic Order No. 1 under General Order No. 68 and should be familiar with the provisions of said order.

SEC. 2. Definition of retail sale. A retail sale means any sale to the ultimate consumer, or to a contractor for installation rather than resale, except where the sale is made by a plywood manufacturer, or a plywood distribution plant who in 1941 received more than 20 percent of its dollar income from the sales of plywood or veneer of any kind. These latter types of sales remain subject to the provisions of 3rd RMPR 13.

SEC. 3. Maximum prices. Maximum prices as herein set forth are different for each of two classes of retailers:

Class I retailers are those who since June 20, 1945, purchased or purchase at least one carload of plywood on direct mill shipment. Any shipment which comes directly from the mill without becoming an integral part of the stock of a distribution plant or a retail yard is a direct mill shipment no matter who the seller is.

Class II retailers are all other retail sellers, principally those who buy their plywood from distribution plants.

Maximum prices for Class I retailers are set forth in Tables I–A and I–B. Maximum prices for Class II retailers are set forth in Tables II–A and II–B. Tables I–A, I–B, II–A, and II–B are hereby annexed to and made a part of this order.

SEC. 4. Additions for delivery. The above prices include all charges and additions for delivery in the seller's free delivery zone as recognized by him during March 1942. No deduction need be made if the purchaser elects to do his own delivery. If delivery is made outside the free delivery zone, the seller may add for delivery as prescribed in section 4 and 5 of 3rd RMPR 13, namely the amount computed by multiplying the estimated weights in section 22 of 3rd RMPR 13 by the applicable rail freight rate. Any addition for delivery must be shown separately on the invoice.

SEC. 5. Discounts and allowances. The maximum prices in this order include all commissions. All customary discounts for cash must be continued. Differentials in price based on quantity sold must be observed as set forth in the price tables.

SEC. 6. Relationship of this order to Basic Order No. 1 under General Order No. 68 and to 3rd RMPR 13. As previously stated all provisions of Basic Order No. 1 are adopted by this order. The maximum prices fixed by this order supersede any maximum price or pricing method previously established by any other regulation or order and specifically by 3rd RMPR 13. Except to the extent that they are inconsistent with the provisions of this order all other provisions of 3rd RMPR 13 shall remain applicable to sales covered by this order.

SEC. 7. Posting of maximum prices. Every seller making sales covered by this order shall post a copy of his list of maximum prices as fixed by this order in each place of business within the area covered by this order. Class I sellers shall post Tables I–A and I–B, and Class II sellers shall post Tables II–A and II–B. Posting of Tables II–A or II–B by Class I sellers is a violation of this order.

SEC. 8. Records and sales slips. The provisions of section (e) of Basic Order No. 1 covering sales slips and records are adopted in and applicable to this order as though specifically set forth herein; and also on any sale of $50.00 or more each seller regardless of previous custom, must keep records showing at least the following:

(1) Name and address of buyer
(2) Date of transaction
(3) Place of delivery
(4) Complete description of each item sold and price charged.

SEC. 9. Revocation or amendment. This order may be revised, amended, revoked or modified at any time by the Regional Administrator or the Price Administrator.

This order shall become effective December 18, 1945.

Issued this 3d day of December 1945.

LEO F. GENTNER,
Regional Administrator.

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to sections #13, 14, and 16 of Supplementary Order #119, It is ordered:

(a) Manufacturer's maximum prices. E. A. Laboratories, Inc., 144 Spencer Street, Brooklyn, New York may increase its maximum prices in effect immediately prior to the issuance of this order, for sales to each class of purchaser of bicycle accessories which it manufactures by 23.79% of each such maximum price.

(b) Maximum prices of purchasers for resale. This paragraph sets forth the methods by which persons purchasing the bicycle accessories referred to in paragraph (a) shall determine their maximum resale prices:

(1) If the purchaser for resale has already established his maximum prices under the General Maximum Price Regulation for his resales of these articles prior to the issuance of this order, he may increase such maximum prices by 23.79%.

(2) If the purchaser for resale has not established his maximum prices for the bicycle accessories under the General Maximum Price Regulation, he shall proceed to do so, and may increase the maximum prices established under § 1499.2 of that regulation by 23.79%. However, if the applicable pricing provision of the General Maximum Price Regulation is § 1499.3 (a) which requires his maximum prices to be determined on the basis of cost, the reseller shall use the actual invoice price to him as his cost, and the price so computed shall not be increased in any amount. Ceiling prices which will be established under § 1499.3 (c) of that regulation, if that is the applicable pricing provision, will be based upon the supplier's prices as adjusted by this order.

(c) Terms of sale. Maximum prices adjusted by this order are subject to each seller's customary terms, discounts, allowances and other price differentials on sales to each class of purchaser.

(d) Notification. At the time of, or prior to, the first invoice to a purchaser for resale showing a maximum price adjusted in accordance with the terms of this order, the seller shall notify such purchaser in writing of the methods established in paragraph (b) for determining adjusted maximum prices for resales of the articles covered by this order. [Region II Rev. Order G–53 Under RMPR 122]

PENNSYLVANIA ANTHRACITE IN NEW YORK REGION

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith, and under the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of the Office of Price Administration by §§ 1340.280 and 1340.259 (a) (1) of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 122, it is ordered:

(a) Who may take the increase provided by this order. Dealers making sales of the higher priced anthracite specified in Appendix A in communities subject to the area dollars-and-cents orders listed in Appendix B, have one of two options:

(1) They may automatically redetermine their maximum prices on a current basis subject to the conditions outlined in paragraph (b) hereunder, or

(2) They may automatically redetermine their maximum prices for a one month period based on their receipts of designated higher cost anthracite during the previous calendar month, subject to the conditions outlined in paragraph (c) hereunder.

(b) Automatic pricing provisions; segregation basis—(1) Filing statement of election to price under paragraph (b).

No dealer subject to this order may sell or deliver at the increased prices allowed by this paragraph (b) unless he first files with the District Office of the Office of Price Administration, within whose jurisdiction he sells anthracite, a statement that he elects to price under the automatic pricing provisions of this paragraph (b). The statement shall set forth (i) that the dealer will keep each kind of anthracite specified in Appendix A, which he may sell under the provisions of this paragraph, separate in storage and delivery from any other kind of solid fuel, and sell and invoice it under the name therein designated, and (ii) that he will not, as long as the election stands, increase his prices under the provisions of paragraph (c) of this order, and (iii) that he will file monthly reports as required by subparagraph (4) under this paragraph (b). A dealer who has filed an election to price under this paragraph (b) will be regarded as continuing to elect to price under paragraph (b) until he notifies the appropriate District Office of the Office of Price Administration that he has ceased to elect to price under paragraph (b). Dealers who elect to price under paragraph (b) of this order may not, at the same time, seek or obtain an increase under paragraph (c).

(2) Determination of automatic increases. Subject to the conditions and limitations set out below, dealers who sell anthracite specified in Appendix A within the territorial limits of the orders listed in Appendix B, and who have filed the required statement of election to price under paragraph (b), may add to the maximum per net ton price for designated sizes of anthracite established in those orders, an amount not to exceed the amount specified in Appendix A as the "permitted per net ton increase above applicable area ceiling price", for the kind and size of such anthracite as he sells.

(3) Conditions and limitations. To be eligible for the increases authorized by this paragraph (b), the dealer must keep each kind of anthracite specified in Appendix A, which he may sell under the provisions of this paragraph, separate in storage and delivery from any other kind of solid fuel, and sell and invoice it under the name therein designated.

(4) Reports. Every dealer who has availed himself of the automatic pricing provisions of paragraph (b) shall, between the first and tenth day of each month, file a monthly report to the District Office of the Office of Price Administration within whose jurisdiction he sells anthracite, showing the tonnage of specified anthracite (as contained in Appendix A) (i) on hand at the beginning of the previous calendar month, (ii) received by him during the previous calendar month, and (iii) sold by him during the previous calendar month. The dealer shall report such information in the following form: a separate report should be prepared for each kind of anthracite specified in Appendix A which the dealer sells under the provisions of this paragraph (b):

Report for month of _____ 194..:
(Previous calendar month)

Under paragraph (b) (4) of Revised Order No. G-53 (Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 122). Specified anthracite (appendix A) on hand, received and sold segregated from other solid fuels.

Kind (set forth designation as in appendix A e. g. "Jeddo" coal)	Size
	Broken, egg, stove, nut	Pea	Buckwheat	Rice	Barley
Inventory on hand at beginning of month.....net tons
Add—Receipts during month.....net tons
Total.....net tons
Deduct—Sales during month.....net tons
Inventory on hand at end of month.....net tons

(c) Alternative pricing provisions; commingled basis. Dealers making sales of the anthracite specified in Appendix A in communities subject to the area dollars-and-cents orders listed in Appendix B, who do not elect to price under paragraph (b) and who prefer to commingle such anthracite with other anthracite rather than keep it separate in storage and delivery, may redetermine their maximum prices for a one month period, commencing on the 11th day of the month and ending on the 10th day of the following month, based on their receipts of designated higher mine cost anthracite during the previous calendar month to compensate them for the increased cost of such anthracite, Provided, That the dealer files with the District Office of the Office of Price Administration, within whose jurisdiction he sells anthracite, before the sixth day of the month, a report in writing, which shall set forth the following:

(i) Total tonnage of all anthracite received by the dealer during the previous calendar month.

(ii) Tonnage of anthracite specified in Appendix A received during the previous calendar month, for each size of each kind.

(iii) Proposed increase above area ceiling prices on all sizes for the reporting period. This increase shall be calculated on the basis of the weighted average increase in supplier's maximum prices on dealer's total receipts during the previous calendar month. In calculating your weighted average increase, use the increases specified in Appendix A for each kind and size of anthracite. See illustration below for simple method of calculating and reporting proposed increase.

(iv) A statement declaring that the applicant did not segregate higher cost anthracite during the previous calendar month and avail himself of the automatic increases under paragraph (b) hereof.

(v) Any other pertinent information the District Director may request.

ILLUSTRATION FOR CALCULATING AVERAGE INCREASE

Total tonnage received during previous calendar month	1,000 tons
Standard price anthracite (all sizes) 710 tons	No increase
Designate supplier as in appendix "A" stove 50 tons×$0.25 increase	$12.50
Designate supplier as in appendix "A" nut 140 tons×$0.70 increase	98.00
Designate supplier as in appendix "A" buck 50 tons×$0.40 increase	20.00
Designate supplied as in appendix "A" rice 50 tons×$0.25 increase	12.50
Increase costs on 1,000 tons	143.00

$143.00÷1,000 tons=$0.143 or $0.15 per ton (rounding to nearest 5¢ is permitted).

The dealer's determination of the increase in his maximum prices under this paragraph (c), in the light of the average increase in supplier's maximum prices for anthracite based on dealer's total anthracite receipts during the previous calendar month as reported to the District Office of the Office of Price Administration on or before the sixth day of the month, shall be deemed to be approved by the Office of Price Administration unless the dealer is notified in writing within five days from the receipt of the required information or the eleventh day of the month (whichever is later) by the Office of Price Administration that his determination has been disapproved or revised by the District Director.

(d) Records. Every dealer making sales of solid fuels subject to this order shall preserve, keep and make available for examination by the Office of Price Administration complete and accurate records of the quantities of the specified anthracite purchased and sold hereunder, and a record of every sale of such fuel with respect to which an automatic increase was added under paragraph (b), showing the date of sale, the quantity sold, and the name and address of the buyer, (if known), the per net ton price charged, and the solid fuel sold. The solid fuel shall be identified in the manner in which it is described in this order.

(e) Invoices, sales slips receipts. If a dealer has charged more than the area dollars-and-cents ceiling price pursuant to paragraph (b) of this order, or pursuant to paragraph (c) of this order, the invoice, sales slip, or receipt required to be given in connection with sales of solid fuels shall: (1) designate the higher priced anthracite sold under paragraph (b), as described in Appendix A, (e. g. "Jeddo" coal, etc.) and (2) if the anthracite is sold under paragraph (b) or (c), carry the following statement: "Above price authorized by OPA Revised Order No. G-53".

(f) Definitions and explanations. When used in this Revised Order No. G-53 the terms (1) "Higher priced anthracite" shall mean anthracite that fully satisfies the description of the anthracite specified in Appendix A, as to the producer, source, preparation (breaker, etc.), and brand or trade name under which it is marketed, etc., where any or all of these elements are part of the description of the anthracite there specified.

(2) The sizes of anthracite described in Appendix A as broken, egg, stove, nut, pea, buckwheat, rice and barley, shall refer to the same sizes of the same fuel as were sold and delivered with such designations during December 1941.

(3) Appendix A and Appendix B herein shall refer to Appendix A and Appendix B under Order No. G-53 as revised and amended as of December 1, 1945.

(4) Except as otherwise provided herein, or as the context may otherwise require, the definitions set forth in §§ 1340.255 and 1340.266 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 122 shall apply to terms used herein.

(g) Right of amendment or revocation. The Regional Administrator or the Price Administrator may amend, revoke, or rescind this Revised Order No. G-53, or any provision thereof, at any time.

This Revised Order No. G-53 shall become effective December 1, 1945.

NOTE: The record-keeping and reporting requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

USED LUMBER IN MICHIGAN, OHIO AND INDIANA

For the reasons set forth in the opinion issued simultaneously herewith and under authority vested in the Regional Administrator of the Third Region of the Office of Price Administration by General Order No. 61, it is hereby ordered:

ARTICLE I—COVERAGE OF THIS ORDER

SECTION 1. Products, transactions and area covered. This order applies to sales or purchases by any person of the categories of used lumber for which maximum prices are established in this order, when made for delivery in the following area: All of the State of Michigan; all of the State of Ohio with the exception of Hamilton, Scioto and Lawrence counties; and all of the State of Indiana with the exception of the following counties: Lake, Posey, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Spencer, Perry, Crawford, Harrison, Floyd and Clark.

This order shall also apply to sales made from stock in this area for delivery outside of the area, if no dollar-and-cents ceiling prices have been issued under General Order No. 61 for the geographical location in which delivery is to be made.

ARTICLE II—DEFINITIONS

SEC. 2. Used lumber. Used lumber means lumber and lumber products which have been recovered from, and were at one time a part of, a building, structure or fabricated item made wholly or partially of lumber.

SEC. 3. Categories of used lumber. Maximum prices are established in this order for the categories of used lumber described below, including such lumber when run to standard or special patterns; but such descriptions are not intended to, and do not, include items customarily produced and sold as mouldings or millwork.

(a) Boards. Used lumber of less than 2" nominal thickness ("nominal thickness" means the thickness of the piece before planing. Actual thickness, after planing to produce an even and uniform surface, is generally ¼" to ⅜" less than nominal thickness).

(b) Dimension. Used lumber of 2" nominal thickness.

(c) Planks or small timbers. Used lumber of over 2" and up to and including 4" nominal thickness and of 12" or less nominal width; also nominal thicknesses over 4" up to and including 6" in all nominal widths up to and including 8".

(d) Large timbers. Used lumber of nominal sizes larger than 6" x 8" also nominal thicknesses of more than 2" when wider than 12".

(e) Flooring. Used lumber planed to approximately $^{25}/_{32}$" thickness, and which has tongue and groove or other construction commonly used for flooring.

(f) Plywood. Three or more thin layers of lumber, glued together with the grain of each layer at an angle to that of the adjoining layer, to form a material having the general characteristics of a thin board, and which has been used.

(g) Scrap lumber is used lumber of any of the other categories described in this section which, because of defects in quality or deficiencies in size, does not meet the grade specifications in Section 4.

SEC. 4. Grades. The following are the grades of used lumber for which maximum prices are established by this order.

(a) Grades of boards, dimension, planks and timbers. (1) First grade used lumber in the form of boards, dimension, planks or timbers, which individually are at least 2 feet in length, and which are sound, strong, of uniform width and thickness, suitable for substantial construction purposes, free from loose or rotten knots, knot holes, and rot, and without other defects which might materially impair the strength of the piece.

(2) Second grade is used lumber in the form of boards, dimension, planks, or timbers, which individually are at least 5 feet in length, and which, though failing to qualify as first grade, are reasonably good construction lumber. They must be free from rot, but may contain loose knots, knotholes or other defects which do not interfere with their use for construction purposes. Each piece must show more than 50 percent first grade lumber in lengths of at least 5 feet.

(b) Grades of flooring. (1) Reclaimed flooring is used flooring of standard $^{25}/_{32}$" thickness, entirely free of nails or other foreign matter and with upper surface whole or free from voids or splits. A tolerance of ⅛" in thickness will be permitted where flooring is worn or sanded. Not more than 25 percent of the tongue may be missing on any piece nor more than 25 percent of the lower surface representing the under part of the groove.

(2) Unreclaimed flooring is used flooring which meets the specifications for reclaimed flooring except that nails or other foreign matter have not been removed.

(c) Grades of plywood. (1) First grade is used plywood which is firmly bonded, free from rot, splits, foreign matter and holes other than nail holes, in pieces of square or rectangular shape at least four square feet in size, and having at least one smooth face suitable for painting.

(2) Second grade is used plywood in pieces at least two square feet in size, reasonably free from splits, holes and foreign matter, so that at least 75 percent of the piece meets the specifications for prime grade (except for size and shape).

SEC. 5. Persons. The term "person" includes an individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or their legal successors or representatives; the United States, or any government, or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of the foregoing.

SEC. 6. Sales. "Sale" includes a barter, exchange, lease or transfer, and an agreement or offer to sell, barter, exchange, lease or transfer.

SEC. 7. Established yard. Seller's established yard means premises occupied by the seller for the purpose of regularly and continually maintaining a stock of new and/or used lumber from various unrelated sources of supply.

ARTICLE III—SPECIFIED REQUIREMENTS

SEC. 8. Posting ceiling prices. Every person selling used lumber for delivery in, or from stocks located in, the area covered by this order shall obtain from the Office of Price Administration at least two copies of the price schedules fixed in this order. One copy of such order must be posted and maintained in a prominent place at or near each location in the area where used lumber is offered for sale, in such manner that it can be easily read, and that purchasers can approach it within a distance of two feet. One other copy must be kept available so that it may be shown to and read by any customer at his request.

SEC. 9. Sales slips and receipts. Where a sale of used lumber is covered by this order and the total price of the sale is $5 or more, the seller shall, regardless of his previous practice and whether or not requested by buyers, give to the buyer a sales slip, bill, receipt, or other written evidence of the sale, setting forth the following:

Name and address of seller.
Buyer's name.
Place of delivery.
Location from which stock is sold (seller's yard or site other than seller's yard).
Description of items sold and itemized prices (in terms of categories, grades, lengths, quantities and any other specification affecting the price).
Total price.
Additions (for delivery or other extra).

SEC. 10. Records and reports. Every person who makes a sale of used lumber shall keep a record of such a sale showing the name of the buyer and place of delivery, date of the sale, the grades sold, the quantities sold and the price charged in the same detail as required in section 9. Such records shall be kept for a period of two years or for the duration of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, whichever be the shorter.

ARTICLE IV—PROHIBITED PRACTICES AND PENALTIES

SEC. 11. Sales of used lumber at higher than maximum prices, prohibited. (1) On and after the effective date of this order, regardless of any contract or obligation, no person shall make a sale or delivery of used lumber of the varieties covered by this order and no person shall buy or receive such used lumber under a sale, at prices higher than the maximum prices fixed by this order; and no person shall agree, offer, or attempt to do any of these things.

(2) Prices lower than the maximum prices may, of course, be charged and paid.

SEC. 12. Prohibited practices. Any practice which is designed to get the effect of a higher than ceiling price is as much a violation of this order as a direct over-the-ceiling charge. Such practices include, but are not limited to, the following:

(1) Getting the effect of a higher price by changing the credit practices from what they were in March 1942. This includes decreasing credit periods, or making greater charges for extension of credit.

(2) Refusing to sell except in small quantities, or with or without delivery under circumstances which bring the seller an extra return.

(3) Wrongly grading used lumber for which maximum prices are fixed in this order; or incorrectly or incompletely recording the information required by section 9 to be set forth on the sales slip, receipt or other evidence of sale.

(4) Quoting a gross price above the maximum price, even if accompanied by a discount, the effect of which is to bring the net price below the maximum.

(5) Charging, paying or receiving a commission for the service of procuring, buying, selling or locating used lumber covered by this order, or for any related service which does not involve actual physical handling of used lumber, if the commission plus the purchase price results in a total payment by the buyer of such used lumber which is higher than the maximum price permitted by this order. For the purpose of this order, a commission is any compensation, however designated, which is paid, wholly or in part, for the procurement of lumber, and which is based directly or indirectly on the quantity, price or value of the lumber in connection with which the service is rendered.

SEC. 13. Penalties. (1) Any person violating any provision of this order is subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, suits for treble damages and proceedings for suspension of license provided for in the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

(2) Any person making a sale of used lumber covered by this order for which the total price is higher than $5 and who either fails to give the buyer a sales slip, paid bill, receipt or other evidence of sale, or, although such document is given, fails to set forth in it the information required to be set forth by Section 9, so that a determination can be made as to whether or not the price charged was proper, shall be limited to making a charge of $5 per M'BM for all lumber delivered under such sale. The application or enforcement of this provision to a sale or against a seller shall not exclude the application or enforcement of the penalties provided in paragraph (a) of this section.

ARTICLE V.—MAXIMUM PRICES

SEC. 14. Ceiling prices for any category of used lumber for which maximum prices are not fixed in this order are subject to the General Maximum Price Regulation.

SEC. 15. Maximum prices—(1) Local sales out of the seller's established yard. The maximum prices set forth in the table herewith shall apply to all sales of used lumber of the categories covered by this order, when the used lumber, at the time the order is taken, is part of a stock at the seller's established yard, and delivery is made either at the yard, or by truck, within a radius of 40 miles of such yard. If rail shipment, either by the seller or buyer, is to be made, see paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

(2) Local sales from site other than the seller's established yard: When a sale is made for delivery from stock located at a site other than the seller's established yard, and delivery is made either at the site, or by truck within a radius of 40 miles of such site, the maximum prices applicable to such sale shall be $2 per M'BM less than the prices set forth in the table below. If rail shipment, either by the seller or buyer, is to be made, see paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

(3) Other than local sales—(a) When delivery is by truck. When a sale is made for delivery by truck to the buyer at a point located farther than 40 miles from the place where the shipment originates, the maximum price applicable to such sale shall be $5 per M'BM less than the price fixed for a local sale from such place under paragraphs (a) or (b) above.

(b) When rail transportation is involved. When a sale is made which involves shipment by rail of used lumber, either by the buyer or seller, from the seller's established yard or from a site other than such yard, the maximum price applicable to such sale shall be $5 per M'BM less than the price fixed for a local sale from such place under paragraphs (a) or (b) above.

SEC. 16. Additions for delivery. (1) If the buyer requests delivery within a free delivery zone which the seller recognized during March 1942, the seller may not charge for making the delivery.

(2) If the buyer requests delivery outside the free delivery zone which the seller recognized during March 1942, the seller may add a charge for delivery as follows:

(a) Where delivery is by common or contract carrier, the actual amount paid to the carrier by the seller may be charged.

(b) Where delivery up to 100 miles is by truck owned or controlled by the seller, the amount added for delivery may not be higher than ten cents per M'BM for each mile to place of delivery, but not for any part of the return trip. When truck delivery over 100 miles is to be made, the addition may not be more than ten cents per M'BM for each mile from the point of origin to the nearest possible point of rail loading-out plus the amount of rail transportation from there to destination.

(c) A minimum charge of 75 cents may be made on any delivery, where permissible charges do not amount to 75 cents.

(3) If the buyer elects to take delivery at the site of the lumber or at the seller's established yard, no reduction in price shall be required for that reason.

A. Boards, dimensions, planks and timbers. When cleaned of nails, bolts and other foreign material. Maximum prices per thousand board feet f. o. b. seller's yard.

TABLE I

When not cleaned of nails, bolts and other foreign material, deduct $5 per M b. m. from the above prices.

Where boards or dimension of first grade are remanufactured from timbers at the seller's "established yard" to American lumber standards, and newly surfaced on at least two opposite sides, an addition of $7 per M b. m. may be made to the prices in the table. When this addition has been made, the invoice must clearly indicate the item so reworked.

[Region III Order G-2 Under Gen. Order 61]

USED LUMBER IN WEST VIRGINIA, KENTUCKY, OHIO AND INDIANA

For the reasons set forth in the opinion issued simultaneously herewith and under authority vested in the Regional Administrator of the Third Region of the Office of Price Administration by General Order No. 61 it is hereby ordered:

ARTICLE I—COVERAGE OF THIS ORDER

SECTION 1. Products, transactions and area covered. This order applies to sales or purchases by any person of the categories of used lumber for which maximum prices are established in this order, when made for delivery in the following areas: All of the State of West Virginia; all of the State of Kentucky; that part of Ohio covered by Hamilton, Scioto and Lawrence Counties; and the following counties of Indiana: Posey, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Spencer, Perry, Crawford, Harrison, Floyd and Clark.

This order shall also apply to sales made from stock in this area for delivery outside of the area, if no dollar-and-cents ceiling prices have been issued under General Order No. 61 for the geographical location in which delivery is to be made.

ARTICLE II—DEFINITIONS

SEC. 2. Used Lumber. Used lumber means lumber and lumber products which have been recovered from, and were at one time a part of, a building, structure or fabricated item made wholly or partially of lumber.

SEC. 3. Categories of used lumber. Maximum prices are established in this order for the categories of used lumber described below, including such lumber when run to standard or special patterns; but such descriptions are not intended to, and do not, include items customarily produced and sold as mouldings or millwork.

(a) Boards. Used lumber of less than 2" nominal thickness ("nominal thickness" means the thickness of the piece before planing. Actual thickness, after planing to produce an even and uniform surface, is generally ¼" to ⅜" less than nominal thickness).

(b) Dimension. Used lumber of 2" nominal thickness.

(c) Planks or small timbers. Used lumber of over 2" and up to and including 4" nominal thickness and of 12" or less nominal width; also nominal thicknesses over 4" up to and including 6" in all nominal widths up to and including 8".

(d) Large timbers. Used lumber of nominal sizes larger than 6" x 8"; also nominal thicknesses of more than 2" when wider than 12".

(e) Flooring. Used lumber planed to approximately $25/32$" thickness, and which has tongue and groove or other construction commonly used for flooring.

(f) Plywood. Three or more thin layers of lumber, glued together with the grain of each layer at an angle to that of the adjoining layer, to form a material having the general characteristics of a thin board, and which has been used.

(g) Scrap lumber. Used lumber of any of the other categories described in this section which, because of defects in quality or deficiencies in size, does not meet the grade specifications in section 4.

SEC. 4. Grades. The following are the grades of used lumber for which maximum prices are established by this order.

(a) Grades of boards, dimension, planks and timbers. (1) First grade is used lumber in the form of boards, dimension, planks or timbers, which individually are at least 2 feet in length, and which are sound, strong, of uniform width and thickness, suitable for substantial construction purposes, free from loose or rotten knots, knot holes, and rot, and without other defects which might materially impair the strength of the piece.

(2) Second grade is used lumber in the form of boards, dimension, planks, or timbers, which individually are at least 5 feet in length, and which, though failing to qualify as first grade, are reasonably good construction lumber. They must be free from rot, but may contain loose knots, knotholes or other defects which do not interfere with their use for construction purposes. Each piece must show more than 50 percent first grade lumber in lengths of at least 5 feet.

(b) Grades of flooring. (1) Reclaimed flooring is used flooring of standard $25/32$" thickness, entirely free of nails or other foreign matter and with upper surface whole or free from voids or splits. A tolerance of $\frac{1}{8}$" in thickness will be permitted where flooring is worn or sanded. Not more than 25 percent of the tongue may be missing on any piece nor more than 25 percent of the lower surface representing the under part of the groove.

(2) Unreclaimed flooring is used flooring which meets the specifications for reclaimed flooring except that nails or other foreign matter have not been removed.

(c) Grades of plywood. (1) First grade is used plywood which is firmly bonded, free from rot, splits, foreign matter and holes other than nail holes, in pieces of square or rectangular shape at least four square feet in size, and having at least one smooth face suitable for painting.

(2) Second grade is used plywood in pieces at least two square feet in size, reasonably free from splits, holes and foreign matter, so that at least 75 percent of the piece meets the specifications for prime grade (except for size and shape).

SEC. 5. Persons. The term "person" includes an individual, corporation, partnership, association or any other organized group of persons, or their legal successors or representatives; the United States, or any government, or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of the foregoing.

SEC. 6. Sales. "Sale" includes barter, exchange, lease or transfer, and an agreement or offer to sell, barter, exchange, lease or transfer.

SEC. 7. Established yard. Seller's established yard means premises occupied by the seller for the purpose of regularly and continually maintaining a stock of new and/or used lumber from various unrelated sources of supply.

ARTICLE III—SPECIFIC REQUIREMENTS

SEC. 8. Posting ceiling prices. Every person selling used lumber for delivery in, or from stocks located in, the area covered by this order shall obtain from the Office of Price Administration at least two copies of the price schedules fixed in this order. One copy of such order must be posted and maintained in a prominent place at or near each location in the area where used lumber is offered for sale, in such manner that it can be easily read, and that purchcasers can approach it within a distance of two feet. One other copy must be kept available so that it may be shown to and read by any customer at his request.

SEC. 9. Sales slips and receipts. Where a sale of used lumber is covered by this order and the total price of the sale is $5 or more, the seller shall, regardless of his previous practice and whether or not requested by buyers, give to the buyer a sales slip, bill, receipt, or other written evidence of the sale, setting forth the following:

Name and address of seller
Buyer's name
Place of delivery
Location from which stock is sold (seller's yard or site other than seller's yard)
Description of items sold and itemized prices (in terms of categories, grades, lengths, quantities and any other specification affecting the price)
Total price
Additions (for delivery or other extra)

SEC. 10. Records, and reports. Every person who makes a sale of used lumber shall keep a record of such sale showing the name of the buyer and place of delivery, date of the sale, the grades sold, the quantities sold and the price charged in the same detail as required in section 9. Such records shall be kept for a period of two years or for the duration of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, whichever be the shorter.

ARTICLE IV—PROHIBITED PRACTICES AND PENALTIES

SEC. 11. Sales of used lumber at higher than maximum prices prohibited. (a) On and after the effective date of this order, regardless of any contract or obligation, no person shall make a sale or delivery of used lumber of the varieties covered by this order and no person shall buy or receive such used lumber under a sale, at prices higher than the maximum prices fixed by this order; and no person shall agree, offer, or attempt to do any of these things.

(b) Prices lower than the maximum prices may, of course, be charged and paid.

SEC. 12. Prohibited practices. Any practice which is designed to get the effect of a higher than ceiling price is as much a violation of this order as a direct over-the-ceiling charge. Such practices include, but are not limited to, the following:

(d) Quoting a gross price above the maximum price, even if accompanied by a discount, the effect of which is to bring the net price below the maximum.

(e) Charging, paying or receiving a commission for the service of procuring, buying, selling or locating used lumber covered by this order, or for any related service which does not involve actual physical handling of used lumber, if the commission plus the purchase price results in a total payment by the buyer of such used lumber which is higher than the maximum price permitted by this order. For the purpose of this order, a commission is any compensation, however designated, which is paid, wholly or in part, for the procurement of lumber, and which is based directly or indirectly on the quantity, price or value of the lumber in connection with which the service is rendered.

SEC. 13. Penalties. (a) Any person violating any provision of this order is subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, suits for treble damages and proceedings for suspension of license provided for in the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

(b) Any person making a sale of used lumber covered by this order for which the total price is higher than $5 and who either fails to give the buyer a sales slip, paid bill, receipt or other evidence of sale or, although such document is given, fails to set forth in it the information required to be set forth by section 9, so that a determination can be made as to whether or not the price charged was proper, shall be limited to making a charge of $5 per M'BM for all lumber delivered under such sale. The application or enforcement of this provision to a sale or against a seller shall not exclude the application or enforcement of the penalties provided in paragraph (a) of this section.

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 5th day of December 1945.

Notice is hereby given that an application-declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder by Buffalo Niagara Electric Corporation ("Buffalo Niagara"), a subsidiary of Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, in turn a subsidiary of The United Corporation, a registered holding company. All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration which is on file in the offices of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Buffalo Niagara proposes to issue and sell, pursuant to the competitive bidding provisions of Rule U-50, 350,000 shares of preferred stock having a par value of $100 per share. Each bid for the stock shall specify the dividend rate, which shall be a multiple of 1/10th% but not greater than 4%, and the price to be paid to the company, which shall be not less than par value nor more than 102¾% of such par value.

The proceeds from the sale of such preferred stock together with other funds of the company are to be used to redeem the 350,000 outstanding shares of the company's Preferred Stock, 5% series, at the redemption price of $105 per share plus accrued dividends.

According to the filing, the approval of the Public Service Commission of the State of New York will be obtained with respect to the issue and sale of such preferred stock.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interests of investors and consumers that a hearing be held with respect to said application-declaration and that said application-declaration shall not be granted or permitted to become effective except pursuant to further order of the Commission;

It is ordered, That a hearing on said application-declaration under the applicable provisions of the act and the rules of the Commission thereunder be held on December 18, 1945, at 11 a. m., e. s. t. in the office of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. On such day the hearing room clerk in Room 318 will advise as to the room in which such hearing shall be held.

It is further ordered, That Charles S. Lobingier or any other officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose shall preside at such hearing. The officer so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of said act and to a trial examiner under the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve, by registered mail, a copy of this order on Buffalo Niagara, Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, The United Corporation and the Public Service Commission of the State of New York; and that notice of said hearing be given to all other persons by publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Any person desiring to be heard in connection with these proceedings, or proposing to intervene herein, shall file with the Secretary of the Commission, on or before December 14, 1945, his request or application therefor, as provided by Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That without limiting the scope of the issues presented by said application-declaration, particular attention will be directed at said hearing to the following matters and questions:

(1) Whether the proposed issue and sale of preferred stock by Buffalo Niagara is solely for the purpose of financing the business of the company and has been expressly authorized by the State Commission of the state in which the company is organized and doing business.

(2) Whether the fees, commissions and other remuneration to be paid in connection with the proposed transactions are reasonable;

(3) Whether the proposed redemption by Buffalo Niagara of its outstanding Preferred Stock, 5% series, would affect the financial integrity of the company or would otherwise be detrimental to the public interest or the interests of investors or consumers or would tend to circumvent the provisions of the act or the rules, regulations or orders thereunder.

(4) Whether the accounting entries to be recorded in connection with the proposed transactions are proper and conform to sound principles of accounting and meet the standards of the act.

(5) Whether it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors or consumers to impose terms and conditions with reference to the proposed transactions and, if so, what the terms and conditions should be.

By the Commission.

PORTLAND ELECTRIC POWER CO. AND PORTLAND GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.

NOTICE OF FILING AND ORDER FOR HEARING AND CONSOLIDATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 6th day of December, 1945.

In the matter of Portland Electric Power Company, Portland General Electric Company, File No. 70-1194; Portland Electric Power Company, Portland General Electric Company, File No. 50-12.

Notice is hereby given that joint declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by Portland General Electric Company (PGE) and Portland Electric Power Company (PEPCO), registered holding companies.

All interested persons are referred to said joint declaration, which is on file in the office of said Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized as follows:

PGE and PEPCO propose to sell their capital stock interest in Seattle Gas Company (Seattle), a public utility subsidiary of PGE and PEPCO, together with the capital stock interest in Seattle held by Cazadero Real Estate Company, a subsidiary whose entire capital stock is owned by PEPCO, which holdings aggregate 13,400 shares of Second Preferred stock and 2,840 shares of Common stock of Seattle. The joint declaration does not disclose the proposed consideration to be received for such securities nor does it disclose the person or persons to whom such securities are to be sold.

It is stated in the joint declaration, among other things, that Seattle is not a part of an integrated utility system such as exists in the properties of PEPCO and its subsidiaries; that it is contrary to the intent and purpose of section 11 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 for PEPCO and PGE to own and hold such stocks of Seattle; that the proposed sale of the Seattle securities would not impair the advantages of any localized management or the effectiveness of regulation in that the declarants are subject to the regulation of the Public Utility Commissioner of Oregon, and Seattle is subject to the regulations of the Department of Public Service of the State of Washington.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate and in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that a hearing be held with respect to said joint declaration and that said joint declaration should not be permitted to become effective except pursuant to further order of this Commission; and

It further appearing to the Commission that evidence bearing on the matters recited above and upon the questions to be determined is contained in the record of the proceedings before this Commission entitled "In the Matter of Portland Electric Power Company and Portland General Electric Company, File No. 50-12;" and

It further appearing that the trial examiner heretofore designated to preside at the hearing (File No. 50-12) is unable to preside at the time hereinafter mentioned and that a new trial examiner should be designated at the consolidated hearings herein:

It is ordered, That the proceeding in this matter (File No. 70-1194) and the proceeding heretofore instituted by the Commission (File No. 50-12) be and they hereby are consolidated and that a consolidated hearing under the applicable provisions of the act and rules of the Commission promulgated thereunder be held on December 20, 1945, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania, in such room as the hearing-room clerk in Room 318 will at that time designate. All persons desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate in the consolidated proceedings shall file with the Commission, on or before December 18, 1945, a written request relative thereto, as provided by Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve notice of this order by mailing copies thereof by registered mail to Portland General Electric Company, Portland Electric Power Company, Thos. W. Delzell and R. L. Clark, Independent Trustees of Portland Electric Power Company, Debtor, Seattle Gas Company and to the Public Utility Commissioner of the State of Oregon and the Department of Public Service of the State of Washington, and that notice shall be given to all other persons by publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

It is further ordered, That Richard Townsend, or any other officer or officers of the Commission designated by the Commission for that purpose, be, and he is hereby, designated to preside at such consolidated hearing, in lieu of the trial examiner heretofore designated to preside at the hearing entitled "In the Matter of Portland Electric Power Company and Portland General Electric Company, File No. 50-12", and the said Richard Townsend is hereby granted all the powers heretofore granted to the trial examiner so heretofore designated.

It is further ordered, That without limiting the scope of the issues presented by said joint declaration, particular attention will be directed at the hearing to the following matters and questions:

1. Whether the consideration to be received, if any, is fair and reasonable.

2. The identity of the purchaser, if any, and his interest, if any, in any public utility or holding company.

3. Whether competitive conditions have been or will be maintained.

4. Whether, in the light of the plan of recapitalization filed by Seattle under section 11 (b) of the act and now pending before the Commission, and in which proceeding the rights of the Second Preferred and Common stocks of Seattle are to be determined, it would be in the public interest and the interest of investors or consumers to permit the proposed sale by PEPCO and PGE of their securities in Seattle before the rights of the Second Preferred and Common stocks of Seattle are determined in said recapitalization proceeding.

5. The propriety of the accounting entries to be made on the books of the declarants in connection with the proposed transactions.

6. What terms and conditions, if any, are necessary or appropriate in the public interest or the interest of investors or consumers, to insure compliance with the requirements of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 or any rules or regulations or Orders promulgated thereunder.

7. Generally, whether the proposed transaction is in the public interest and in the interest of investors or consumers and will not tend to contravene or circumvent any provisions of the act or the rules, regulations, or orders promulgated thereunder.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be and is hereby reserved to separate, whether for hearing, in whole or in part, or for disposition, in whole or in part, any of the issues, questions or matters hereinbefore set forth or which may arise in these proceedings, or to consolidate with these proceedings other filings or matters pertaining to said consolidated proceedings or to take such other action as may appear conducive to an orderly, prompt and economical disposition of the matters involved.

By the Commission.

The Commission, by order adopted on November 20, 1945, pursuant to section 19 (a) (4), having summarily suspended trading in the Common Stock, $1 Par Value, of Interstate Home Equipment Co., Inc. on the New York Curb Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade for a period of ten days in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, and said security having been similarly suspended from trading on said exchanges for an additional period of ten days by order adopted on November 29, 1945;

The Commission being of the opinion that the public interest requires the summary suspension of trading in such security on such exchanges and that such action is necessary and appropriate for the protection of investors; and

The Commission being of the opinion further that such suspension is necessary in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, with the result that it will be unlawful under section 15 (c) (2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Commission's Rule X-15C2-2 thereunder for any broker or dealer to make use of the mails or of any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce to effect any transaction in, or to induce or attempt to induce the purchase or sale of, such security otherwise than on a national securities exchange:

It is ordered, pursuant to section 19 (a) (4) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, that trading in such security be summarily suspended on the New York Curb Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, this order to be effective for a period of ten (10) days from the opening of the trading session on December 10, 1945.

All interested persons are referred to said applications or declarations (or both) which are on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which may be summarized as follows:

1. NY PA NJ will purchase from New York State for $272,500 in cash 2,725 shares of the no par value non-cumulative participating preferred stock of Staten Island. Such shares constitute all the outstanding shares of preferred stock of Staten Island and are its sole voting stock.

2. The 2,725 shares of such preferred stock of Staten Island are to be reclassified into 2,725 shares of voting no par value common stock.

3. At present, Staten Island has outstanding 360,000 shares of non-voting no par value common stock, all of which are registered in the name of Day & Co., of which 100,000 shares are held in the treasury of Staten Island and the remaining 260,000 shares are beneficially owned by NY PA NJ. The 100,000 shares of treasury stock will be cancelled and eliminated and the 260,000 shares are to be reduced and reclassified into 130,000 shares of voting no par value common stock which will be registered in the name of NY PA NJ.

5. Staten Island will declare and pay, from the unearned surplus-special account, a dividend of $995,437.50 upon the 132,725 shares of new common stock.

6. The balance of $8,446,462.29 in the unearned surplus-special account of Staten Island, after payment of the above dividend, will be retained to absorb losses not otherwise provided for which may be inherent in the accounts of Staten Island as at October 31, 1945.

Applicants-declarants have designated sections 6 (a) (2), 7, 9 (a), 10, 12 (c), and 12 (f) of the act and Rules U-43 and U-46 as applicable to the proposed transactions and state that no Federal commission other than this Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions and that the Public Service Commission of the State of New York, but no other state commission, has jurisdiction over certain of the proposed transactions.

1. Whether the consideration to be paid by NY PA NJ and received by New York State for the 2,725 shares of preferred stock of Staten Island is reasonable.

2. Whether the acquisition by NY PA NJ of the preferred stock of Staten Island will serve the public interest by tending toward the economical and efficient development of an integrated public utility system.

3. Whether the proposed reclassification of the preferred and common stocks of Staten Island and the accompanying accounting reorganization will result in an unfair or inequitable distribution of voting power among the holders of its securities or is otherwise detrimental to the public interest or the interest of investors or consumers.

4. Whether the proposed dividend payment by Staten Island is consistent with the applicable provisions of the Act and the rules promulgated thereunder.

5. The propriety of the proposed accounting treatment of the several transactions on the books of the respective applicants-declarants.

§ 944.1 Purpose and scope of this regulation; definitions. This regulation states the basic rules of the Civilian Production Administration which apply to all business transactions unless they are covered by more specific regulations or orders of the Civilian Production Administration which are inconsistent with this regulation. It includes transactions which are not subject to priority control in any other way than by this regulation. The following definitions apply for purposes of this regulation and any other regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration, unless otherwise indicated.

(a) "Person" means any individual, partnership, association, business trust, corporation, governmental corporation or agency, or any organized group of persons, whether incorporated or not.

(b) [Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.]

(c) "Material" means any commodity, equipment, accessory, part, assembly or product of any kind.

§ 944.1b [Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.]

§ 944.2 Rules for acceptance and rejection of rated orders. Every order bearing a preference rating must be accepted and filled regardless of existing contracts and orders except in the following cases:

(a) A person must not accept a rated order for delivery on a date which would interfere with delivery on equal or higher rated orders which he has already accepted, or if delivery of the material ordered would interfere with delivery on an order which the War Production Board or Civilian Production Administration has directed him to fill for that material or for a product which he makes out of it.

(b) A person must not accept a rated order (except an AAA order) for delivery on a date which can be met only by using material which was specifically produced for delivery on another rated order, and which is completed or is in production and scheduled for completion within 15 days.

(c) If a person, when receiving a rated order bearing a specific delivery date, does not expect to be able to fill it by the time requested, he must not accept it for delivery at that time. He must either (1) reject the order, stating when he could fill it, or (2) accept it for delivery on the earliest date he expects to be able to deliver, informing the customer of that date. He may adopt either of these two courses, depending on his understanding of which his customer would prefer. He may not reject a low rated order just because he expects to receive conflicting higher rated orders in the future, nor because he would for any reason prefer to have higher ratings.

(d) If a person receives a rated order which is not required by § 944.8 to bear a specific delivery date and which he cannot fill promptly, he must accept it as long as he expects to be able to fill it within a reasonable time, unless he makes a consistent practice of not carrying a backlog and rejecting orders which cannot be promptly filled. He may treat different classes of customers differently in this respect, but only if there is a reasonable basis for the distinction. For example, he may make a regular practice of rejecting unfillable orders from all retailers but holding for backlog orders from all industrial customers.

(e) A rated order need not be (but may be) accepted in the following cases, but there must be no discrimination in such cases against rated orders, or between rated orders of different customers:

(1) If the person seeking to place the order is unwilling or unable to meet regularly established prices and terms of sale or payment. (When a person who has a rating asks a supplier to quote his regularly established prices and terms of sale or payment or the earliest date on which he could make delivery on that rating, the supplier must do so, except that if this would require detailed engineering or accounting work, he may give his best estimate without such work and state that it is not binding. However, the supplier need not quote if he is not required to accept the rated order and knows that he will not do so if he receives it. Any quotation as to delivery date to a person whose order has not been received will be subject to the effect on the supplier's deliveries of rated orders received by him after making the quotation and before he receives the firm order from the person making the inquiry.)

(For status of OPA ceiling prices under this section see Interpretation 2. For rule covering types of sales and types of purchases see Interpretation 3.)

(2) If the order is for the manufacture of a product or the performance of a service of a kind which the person to whom the order is offered has not usually made or performed, and in addition if either (i) he cannot fill the order without substantially altering or adding to his facilities or (ii) the order can readily be performed by someone else who has usually accepted and performed such orders.

(3) If the order is for material which the person to whom the order is offered produces or acquires for his own use only, and he has not filled any orders for that material within the past two years, except on "special sales" as permitted in Priorities Regulation 13. If he has, but the rated order would take more than the excess over his own needs, he may not reject the rated order unless filling it would interfere with equal or higher rated orders already on hand, or orders which the War Production Board or Civilian Production Administration has directed him to fill, for the material or for a product which he makes out of it.

(4) If filling the order would stop or interrupt his production or operations during the next 40 days in a way which would cause a substantial loss of total production or a substantial delay in operations.

(For types of contracts which must be deferred see Interpretation 1b. For rule as to deferment of orders on steel, copper and aluminum producers, see Direction 11.)

(f) Any person who fails or refuses to accept an order bearing a preference rating shall, upon written request of the person placing the order, promptly give his reasons in writing for his failure or refusal.

(g) Some orders of the Civilian Production Administration provide special rules as to the acceptance and rejection of orders for particular materials. In such cases, the rules stated above in this section are inapplicable to the extent that they are inconsistent with the applicable order of the Civilian Production Administration. In addition, the Civilian Production Administration may specifically direct a person in writing to fill a particular purchase order or orders. In such cases he must do so without regard to any of the above rules in this § 944.2, except that he may insist upon compliance with regularly established prices and terms of payment.

§ 944.3 Report to Civilian Production Administration of improperly rejected orders. When a rated order is rejected in violation of this regulation, the person who wants to place it may file a report of the relevant facts with the Civilian Production Administration, which will take such action as it considers appropriate after requiring an explanation from the person rejecting the order.

§ 944.4 Assignment of preference ratings. Preference ratings may be assigned to contracts, orders or deliveries by means of preference rating certificates, or by rules, regulations or orders of the Civilian Production Administration assigning ratings to particular orders or deliveries or to specified classes of orders or deliveries. Such ratings may be assigned to accepted contracts or orders, and also to orders which have not been placed or accepted at the time the rating is applied for. Ratings are also assigned by certain governmental agencies, authorized by the Civilian Production Administration, to their own purchase orders or contracts. In some cases the Civilian Production Administration will raise or lower ratings already assigned and in that event the rules of Priorities Regulation 12 (§ 944.33) apply. Specific orders may also be issued as to particular deliveries or as to the use of particular facilities, without assigning ratings thereto.

§ 944.4a Cancellation of preference ratings. If a preference rating which has been assigned to a named person is revoked, he must immediately, in the case of each order to which he has applied the rating either cancel the order or inform his supplier that it is no longer to be treated as rated. If a regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration which assigns a rating to a class or group of persons without naming them individually, is revoked they may not apply the rating to orders placed after the revocation. Orders to which they have already applied the rating for delivery within three months after the revocation remain validly rated, but, in the case of each order which they have placed for delivery after three months from that date, they must either cancel the order or withdraw the rating. If any person receives notice from his customer or otherwise that the customer's order is no longer rated or that the customer's order is cancelled, he must immediately withdraw any extensions of the rating which he has made to any order placed by him for more than $25 worth of material. The Civilian Production Administration may specify different rules for the treatment of outstanding ratings at the time it revokes them.

(For the rules about transferring preference ratings when contracts are assigned, see Interpretation 5.)

§ 944.5 Sequence of preference ratings. Preference ratings in order of precedence are: AAA, MM, and CC. All other WPB or CPA preference ratings have no effect, and any order bearing such ratings must be treated as an unrated order unless specifically rated AAA, MM, or CC.

§ 944.6 Doubtful cases. Whenever there is doubt as to the preference rating applicable to any order, the matter is to be referred to the Civilian Production Administration for determination, with a statement of all pertinent facts.

§ 944.7 Sequence of filling rated orders. (a) Every person who has rated orders on hand must schedule his operations, if possible, so as to fill each rated order by the required delivery or performance date (determined as explained in § 944.8). If this is not possible for any reason, he must give precedence to higher over lower rated orders and to all rated over unrated orders. However, material specifically produced for a rated order may not be used to fill a higher rated order (except AAA) subsequently received if the material is completed or is in production and scheduled for completion within 15 days. A low rated order bearing an earlier delivery or performance date must be filled before a higher rated order bearing a later delivery or performance date if it is possible to fill both of them on the required dates.

(b) As between conflicting orders which bear the same preference rating, precedence must be given to the order which was received first with the rating. As between conflicting orders received with the same preference rating on the same date, precedence must be given to the order which has the earlier required delivery or performance date.

(c) If a rated order or the rating applicable to an order is cancelled when the supplier has material in production to fill it, he need not immediately stop to put other rated orders into production if doing so would cause a substantial loss of total production. He may continue to process that material which he had put into production for the cancelled order to a stage of completion which would avoid a substantial loss of total production, but he may not incorporate any material which he needs to fill any rated order on hand. He may not, however, delay putting other rated orders into production for more than 15 days.

(For the effect of changes in customers' orders, see Direction 1 to this regulation. For further explanations of paragraph (b) see Interpretation 1c. For an explanation of how to determine the date on which a purchase order is received, see Interpretation 12).

§ 944.8 Delivery or performance dates. (a) Every rated order placed after March 18, 1944, must specify delivery or performance on a particular date or dates or within specified periods of not more than 31 days each, which in no case may be earlier than required by the person placing the order. Any order which fails to comply with this rule must be treated as an unrated order. The words "immediately" or "as soon as possible", or other words to that effect, are not sufficient for this purpose. There are three exceptions to this rule, where a rated order need not bear a required delivery or performance date as long as it is understood that delivery or performance is required as soon as practicable or customary: (1) Orders placed with or by persons who normally take physical delivery of the item ordered to hold it in stock for resale; (2) orders for not more than $100; (3) orders rated AAA.

NOTE: Subparagraph (1) deleted and subparagraphs (2), (3) and (4) redesignated (1), (2) and (3), respectively, Dec. 11, 1945.

(b) The required delivery or performance date, for purposes of determining the sequence of deliveries or performance pursuant to § 944.7, shall be the date on which delivery or performance is actually required. The person with whom the order is placed may assume that the required delivery or performance date is the date specified in the order or contract unless he knows either (1) that the date so specified was earlier than required at the time the order was placed, or (2) that delivery or performance by the date originally specified is no longer required by reason of any change of circumstances. A delay in the scheduled receipt of any other material which the person placing the order requires prior to or concurrently with the material ordered, shall be deemed a change of circumstances within the meaning of the foregoing sentence.

(c) If, after accepting a rated order which specifies the time of delivery, the person with whom it is placed finds that he cannot fill it on time or within 15 days following the specified time, owing to the receipt of higher rated orders or for other reasons, he must promptly notify the customer, telling him approximately when he expects to be able to fill the order. Inability to fill the order on time or within fifteen days following the specified time does not authorize a supplier to cancel the order.

§ 944.9 Report to Civilian Production Administration of improper delay of orders. When delivery or performance of a rated order is unreasonably or improperly delayed, the customer may file a report of the relevant facts with the Civilian Production Administration, which will take such action as it considers appropriate after requiring an explanation from the person with whom the order is placed.

§ 944.10 Effect of other regulations and orders. Specific allocations or other directions of the Civilian Production Administration for delivery of material or the use of facilities must be complied with regardless of ratings, unless otherwise specified. If restrictions under two or more regulations or orders of the Civilian Production Administration apply to the same subject matter, the most restrictive controls unless otherwise expressly provided. Rated orders are not exempt from restrictions on the amount of materials that may be made or delivered unless expressly so stated.

§ 944.10a Effect of revocation of orders and regulations. (a) When an order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration is revoked, all published amendments, schedules, appendices, and directions to that order or regulation are revoked, unless otherwise stated in the instrument revoking the order or regulation.

(b) All directions, authorizations, production or delivery schedules and other instruments addressed to named persons pursuant to any order or regulation which was revoked before October 1, 1945, are revoked on October 1, 1945. Whenever an order or regulation of the CPA is revoked on or after October 1, 1945, all directions, authorizations, allocations, production or delivery schedules and other instruments addressed to named persons pursuant to that order or regulation are revoked, unless otherwise stated in the instrument of revocation. Any material which was obtained by means of any such revoked direction, authorization, allocation, etc., may be used or disposed of only as permitted under paragraph (b) of § 944.11.

NOTE: The instrument of revocation for many orders is Priorities Regulation 31.

(c) "Suspension orders" and "consent orders" issued on the basis of a violation of orders and regulations of the War Production Board or Civilian Production Administration remain in effect after revocation of such orders and regulations, unless otherwise provided. If you are subject to a suspension order or consent order which you think should be lifted or modified because of the lifting of the restriction on which the violation was based, you may address a request for relief to the Chief Compliance Commissioner, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 944.11 Use or disposition of material acquired with priorities assistance. (a) Any person who gets material with priorities assistance must, if possible, use or dispose of it (or of the product into which it has been incorporated) for the purpose for which the assistance was given. This restriction applies to material obtained by means of a preference rating (AAA, MM or CC), allocation, specific direction, or any other action of the War Production Board or Civilian Production Administration. Physical segregation is not required as long as the restrictions applicable to any specific lot of material or product are observed with respect to an equivalent amount of the same material or product. The above restriction does not apply in the following two cases, but the rules on further use or disposition in paragraph (b) below must be observed: (1) When a material, or a product into which it has been incorporated, can no longer be used for the purpose for which the priorities assistance was given (for example, when the priorities assistance was given to fill a particular contract or purchase order and the material or product does not meet the customer's specifications or the contract or purchase order is cancelled); (2) when the material was obtained by means of a rating in the AA series or a CMP allotment, or by means of any order, regulation, rating, allocation, specific direction or other action of the WPB or CPA which has been revoked or cancelled, unless otherwise stated in the instrument of revocation or in any other action of the CPA (for example, Direction 12 to Priorities Regulation 1).

(b) A material or product subject to paragraph (a) (1) or (2) above may be used or disposed of only as follows:

(1) If the holder acquired or made the material or product for use and not for sale or resale and is not regularly engaged in the business of selling it, a proposed sale by him is a special sale covered by Priorities Regulation 13 and he may sell or transfer it only as provided in that regulation.

(2) If the proposed sale is not a special sale described by paragraph (b) (1), the holder may sell as long as he complies with all requirements of other applicable sections of this regulation and of other orders and regulations of the Civilian Production Administration. This is true of all such sales of any material including scrap.

(3) The holder may, within the limitations of paragraph (f) of Priorities Regulation 32 (inventory restriction on processing), use the material or product himself in any manner or for any purpose as long as he complies with all applicable CPA orders and regulations. If the intended use is prohibited or restricted, he must appeal or otherwise apply for permission under the applicable order or regulation.

§ 944.12 Intra-company deliveries. When any rule, regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration prohibits or restricts deliveries of any material by any person, such prohibition or restriction shall, in the absence of a contrary direction, apply not only to deliveries to other persons, including affiliates and subsidiaries, but also to deliveries from one branch, division or section of a single enterprise to another branch, division or section of the same or any other enterprise under common ownership or control.

(For rule as to effect of inventory and small order provisions on separate operating units of same company see Interpretation 8.)

§ 944.13 Scope of regulations and orders. All regulations and orders of the Civilian Production Administration (including directions, directives and other instructions) apply to all subsequent transactions even though they are covered by previous contracts. Regulations and orders apply to transactions in the territories or insular possessions of the United States unless the regulation or order specifically states that it is limited to the continental United States or to the 48 states and the District of Columbia. However, restrictions of Civilian Production Administration orders or regulations on the use of material or on the amount of inventory shall not apply when the material is used or the inventory is held directly by the Army or Navy outside the 48 states and the District of Columbia, unless otherwise specifically provided. Regulations and orders do not apply to transactions in the Philippine Islands unless they specifically state that they do. Exports and deliveries of material to be exported may be made regardless of any CPA order or regulation restricting inventories of material or uses thereof in manufacture or otherwise, or requiring certificates with respect to such inventories or uses, insofar as such inventories are maintained or such uses occur in the country to which such material is to be exported, but shall be subject to such restrictions with respect to inventories maintained or uses occurring within the United States prior to export.

(For applicability of certain restrictions in CPA orders to exports, see Interpretation 18.)

§ 944.13a Defense against claims for damages. No persons shall be held liable for damages or penalties for any default under any contract or order which shall result directly or indirectly from compliance with any rule, regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration, notwithstanding that any such rule, regulation or order shall thereafter be declared by judicial or other competent authority to be invalid.

§ 944.14 Inventory restrictions. No person may deliver or receive into inventory more of any material than is permitted under Priorities Regulation 32. That regulation takes the place of the rules formerly in this section.

§ 944.14a Delivery for unlawful purposes prohibited. No person shall deliver any material which he knows or has reason to believe will be accepted, redelivered, held or used in violation of any order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration.

§ 944.15 Records. Each person participating in any transaction to which any rule, regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration applies shall keep and preserve for at least two years accurate and complete records of the details of each such transaction and of his inventories of the material involved. Such records shall include the dates of all contracts or purchase orders accepted, the delivery dates specified in such contracts or purchase orders, and in any preference rating certificates accompanying them, the dates of actual deliveries thereunder, description of the material covered by such contracts or purchase orders, description of deliveries by classes, types, quantities, weights and values, the parties involved in each transaction, the preference ratings, if any, assigned to deliveries under such contracts or purchase orders, details of rated orders (or other orders required by the Civilian Production Administration to be filled) either accepted or offered and rejected, and other pertinent information. Records kept by any person pursuant to this section shall be kept either separately from the other records of such person and chronologically according to daily deliveries by such person, or in such form that such a separate chronological record can be promptly compiled therefrom. Whenever a regulation or order requires a person to restrict his operations in proportion to his operations in a base period (for example, an order may forbid him to use more of a certain kind of material than he used in the fourth quarter of 1942) he must determine, as accurately as is reasonably possible, his base period operations and preserve a written record of any figures and work sheets showing how he made his calculations for inspection by Civilian Production Administration officials as long as the regulation or order remains in force and for two years after that. Whenever a person is restricted as to the quantity of material he may use in production or the amount he may produce, under quota restrictions, limitation orders, authorized production schedules, special directions or similar provisions, he must keep reasonably adequate records of the material consumed and of production to show whether he is complying with the restrictions. This record-keeping requirement has been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(Photographic copies of records may be kept. See Interpretation 6.)

§ 944.16 Audit and inspection. All records required to be kept by this regulation or by any rule, regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration shall, upon request, be submitted to audit and inspection by its duly authorized representatives.

§ 944.17 Reports. Every person shall execute and file with the Civilian Production Administration such reports and questionnaires as it shall from time to time require, subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942. The rules on filing reports are explained in Priorities Regulation 8.

§ 944.18 Violations. Any person who violates any provision of this regulation or any other rule, regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration, or who, by any statement or omission, wilfully falsifies any records which he is required to keep, or who otherwise wilfully furnishes false or misleading information to the Civilian Production Administration, and any person who obtains a delivery, an allocation of material or facilities, or a preference rating by means of a material and wilful, false or misleading statement, may be prohibited by the Civilian Production Administration from making or obtaining further deliveries of material or using facilities under priority or allocation control and may be deprived of further priorities assistance. The Civilian Production Administration may also take any other action deemed appropriate, including the making of a recommendation for prosecution under section 35 (A) of the Criminal Code (18 U. S. C. sec. 80), or under the Second War Powers Act (Public No. 507, 77th Congress, March 27, 1942).

§ 944.19 Appeals for relief in exceptional cases. Any person who considers that compliance by himself or another with a rule or regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration would work an exceptional and unreasonable hardship on him may appeal for relief. The rules for the filing and handling of appeals are given in Priorities Regulation 16.

§ 944.20 Notification of customers. Any person who is prohibited from or restricted in making deliveries of any material by the provisions of any rule, regulation or order of the Civilian Production Administration shall, as soon as practicable, notify each of his regular customers of the requirements of such rule, regulation or order, but the failure to give notice shall not excuse any customer from the obligation of complying with any requirements applicable to him.

INTERPRETATION 1A: Revoked August 28, 1945.

INTERPRETATION 1B

TYPES OF EXISTING CONTRACTS WHICH MUST BE DEFERRED

Section 944.2 of Priorities Regulation 1, as amended, makes compulsory the acceptance and filling of rated orders for any material "regardless of existing contracts and orders". The "existing contracts" referred to include not only ordinary purchase contracts but other arrangements achieving substantially the same results, though in form they may concern the use of production facilities rather than the material produced. Preference ratings are applicable to facilities as well as materials.

Examples of such "existing contracts" which must be subordinated to higher rated orders are (1) arrangements whereby a producer, regularly engaged in producing a given product for sale to others, leases a portion of his plant, or the whole of it for a relatively short period, as a going concern to one of his customers and operation is continued under the producer's management and with the producer's regular personnel; and (2) arrangements whereby such a producer, in lieu of buying raw materials and selling the product, accepts raw materials belonging to a customer for processing pursuant to a toll agreement or similar undertaking. If the deliveries to be made to such customer carry a preference rating, the sequence of deliveries as compared with deliveries to other persons placing orders with the producer is to be determined as provided in § 944.7 of Priorities Regulation No. 1. (Issued Mar. 18, 1944.)

INTERPRETATION 1C

SEQUENCE OF DELIVERIES AND PRODUCTION FOR RATED ORDERS

The provisions of § 944.7 (b) of Priorities Regulation No. 1, as amended, with respect to the sequence of deliveries bearing the same preference rating, are applicable only in cases where different deliveries bearing the same preference rating cannot be made on schedule. If material supply and available facilities permit deliveries bearing the same rating to be made on schedule, Regulation No. 1 does not have any particular effect on the sequence of production for such deliveries. Where it is necessary to choose between deliveries bearing the same preference ratings, delivery to the customer from whom the order was first received with the rating is to be preferred and production schedules must be adjusted accordingly. For example, suppose a rated order is received from one customer in January for August delivery and another order bearing the same rating is received from a second customer in June calling for July delivery. If both deliveries cannot be made on schedule, the second customer is not permitted to get the material away from the first customer. The producer must defer production on the second order to the extent necessary to make delivery on the first order on the August delivery date. If, on the other hand, both deliveries can be made on schedule, it is not necessary to produce or make delivery on the first customer's order ahead of that of the second. (Issued Mar. 18, 1944.)

INTERPRETATION 1D: Revoked June 28, 1945.

INTERPRETATION 1E

ARMY INCLUDES PANAMA CANAL—NAVY INCLUDES COAST GUARD

(a) The definition of defense orders formerly appearing in § 944.1 (b) has been deleted since a blanket rating of AA–5 is no longer assigned to such orders. However, any reference to the Army without any other definition in any order of the Civilian Production Administration also applies to the Panama Canal, and a reference to the Navy, to the Coast Guard. (Issued Oct. 1, 1945.)

INTERPRETATION 2

REGULARLY ESTABLISHED PRICES AND OPA CEILING PRICES

An order bearing a preference rating may not be rejected on the ground that the price is below the regularly established price, if the purchaser offers the OPA ceiling price.

Section 944.2 of Priorities Regulation 1 makes the acceptance of rated orders mandatory except in the several situations specified in the section. The only exception dealing with price is contained in paragraph (e) (1) which states that a rated order need not be accepted "if the person seeking to place the order is unwilling or unable to meet regularly established prices and terms of sale or payment".

"Regularly established prices" cannot be higher than OPA ceiling prices. They may, however, be lower. (Issued Mar. 18, 1944.)

INTERPRETATION 3

REJECTION OF RATED ORDERS FOR FAILURE TO MEET ESTABLISHED PRICES AND TERMS

(a) Section 944.2 of Priorities Regulation 1 states that every order bearing a preference rating must be accepted and filled with certain exceptions listed in the section. One exception is where a buyer does not "meet regularly established prices and terms of sale or payment". This exception applies to a seller who receives a rated order for quantities which are less than the minimum which he regularly sells. For example, a manufacturer who has been selling only in carload lots may reject a rated order for a less than carload lot.

This exception applies similarly to a person who regularly sells only in multiples of a specified quantity and receives a rated order for a number which is not a multiple of that quantity. For example, a manufacturer who regularly sells his product only in standard shipping packages containing one dozen receives a rated order for 40. He may fill the whole order or he may fill it to the extent of 36 and reject it for 4.

A further problem arises when a manufacturer receives such an order with split ratings. For example, suppose the manufacturer who sells his product only in standard shipping packages of a dozen receives an order for 30 rated MM and 20 rated CC. In such a case the general rule is that amounts in excess of a multiple of the standard shipping package ordered at higher ratings may be included with amounts ordered at lower ratings if the manufacturer wishes to adhere to his standard shipping package and not fill the order as received. He may then, in the case supposed, treat the order as one for 24 items rated MM and 24 rated CC and reject it for 2 of the items. Of course, he may fill the order as placed if he prefers to do so; but, if he does not he must fill it as illustrated above.

(b) The exception also applies to the seller who regularly sells only to certain types of trade purchasers, such as wholesalers, jobbers or retailers. He may reject orders from other types of purchasers but only if it is practicable to obtain the merchandise in the required quantity through regular trade channels.

(c) The exception applies to a manufacturer who receives a rated order which, together with orders on hand, totals less than his minimum production run of a product which is mass produced and cannot be filled from inventory. It makes no difference that he has regularly sold in quantities as small as that ordered. For example, suppose a manufacturer's minimum production run is 1,000 units, but he has regularly sold in lots of 10 units. At a time when he has none of the particular product in inventory and no orders on hand, he receives a rated order for 600 units. He may reject the order. If, however, he has on hand a previously accepted order for 400 units, he would be required to accept the order for 600 units.

(d) It should be noted that paragraph (e) of § 944.2 in which the above exception appears includes the requirement that "there must be no discrimination in such case against rated orders, or between rated orders of different customers." This means, for example, that a seller who sells principally at wholesale but also at retail to one or more customers may not reject rated retail orders from other customers. However, if a manufacturer or wholesaler has an exclusive distributor, either for all sales or for a particular territory, he may reject orders from other purchasers provided the exclusive distributor is in a position to fill the orders promptly. (Issued Oct. 1, 1945.)

INTERPRETATION 4: Revoked October 1, 1945.

INTERPRETATION 5

EFFECT OF ASSIGNMENT OF A RATED ORDER OR CONTRACT ON SEQUENCE OF DELIVERY

When a rated contract is assigned, the rating remains applicable to the contract as assigned if, but only if, the assignee uses the material covered by the contract for substantially the same purpose for which the rated contract was placed.

Examples. (1) The Navy places a rated order with A and A extends the rating to B. Later the Navy and A cancel the contract and the Navy enters into a new contract with C for delivery of the same product at the same time and applies the same rating to it. A assigns to C his contract with B. The rating which A had extended to B remains valid as of the time it was extended by A, and B must honor it in making delivery to C.

(2) A steel mill places an order for a repair part rated CC. The steel mill finds that it does not need the part but another steel mill needs the same and asks the first mill to assign its contract for the part. The second mill could also apply a CC rating to the delivery. However, it prefers to use the first mill's rating so as to come ahead of the orders which have been placed since the first mill placed its order. The second mill may not make this use of the rating, since the rated order was placed for the repair of the first mill's facilities and the purpose of the order has thus been changed.

(3) The Civilian Production Administration assigns a rating on a Form WPB 541A to a textile manufacturer to buy some textile machinery. He places an order with a machinery manufacturer and applies the rating to the order. He decides he does not need the machinery but finds another textile producer who does need the machinery and is willing to purchase the same from him. He therefore assigns the contract for the machinery to the second textile producer. The rating does not apply to the delivery to the second producer since it was assigned by the Civilian Production Administration only for the purpose of filling a specific need shown by the first textile producer. (Issued Oct. 1, 1945.)

INTERPRETATION 6

MICROFILM RECORDS

Records required to be kept by § 944.15 of Priorities Regulation No. 1 or by any other order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration may be kept in the form of microfilm or other photographic copies instead of the originals. (Issued Aug. 14, 1943.)

INTERPRETATION 7: Revoked August 28, 1945.

INTERPRETATION 8

EFFECT OF INVENTORY AND SMALL ORDER PROVISIONS ON SEPARATE OPERATING UNITS OF THE SAME COMPANY

(a) If an individual plant, branch store, division or other operating unit normally keeps separate inventory from the rest of the corporation or firm, inventory restrictions in Civilian Production Administration orders and regulations apply to it separately. Thus, although another unit may have exceeded an inventory limit, this does not prevent a unit which has not exceeded it from acquiring additional inventory within the limit.

(b) Likewise, if an order of the Civilian Production Administration provides an exemption for small purchases, an operating unit which normally buys separately need not consider purchases made by other units in determining whether it comes within the exemption.

(c) It may happen that the same operating unit will be treated separately for purposes of inventory restrictions but not for purposes of small order exemptions. For example, if a distributor purchases centrally for direct shipment to several outlets which keep separate inventories, the outlets are treated separately for purposes of inventory restrictions but the central purchasing agency must include all its purchases in determining whether a transaction comes within a small order exemption.

(d) This interpretation applies only in cases where a contrary rule is not expressly stated in the applicable Civilian Production Administration order or regulation. Also it only applies where the regular business practice of the unit in question is to keep a separate inventory or to buy separately. It does not apply if the regular practice has been changed just for the purpose of coming within this interpretation. (Issued Nov. 22, 1944.)

INTERPRETATION 9: Revoked March 18, 1944.

INTERPRETATION 10

EFFECT OF CANCELLATION OF A PURCHASE ORDER ON DIRECTIVE REQUIRING ITS IMMEDIATE PRODUCTION

In many instances, the Civilian Production Administration has issued directives to producers and manufacturers requiring them to produce particular orders ahead of their normal place on the producers' or manufacturers' schedules. Typical of such directives are directives requiring them to produce certain orders by a given date, regardless of the effect of doing so on the production of other orders. If and when the particular orders are cancelled, the directives lose all effect. This is so since the reason for issuing the directives, namely, the urgent need for a particular product, no longer exists when the order for the product has been cancelled. (Issued Oct. 1, 1945.)

INTERPRETATION 11

PLACING AND ACCEPTANCE OF ORDERS FOR FUTURE DELIVERY CONDITIONED ON REMOVAL OF CPA RESTRICTIONS

(a) Some orders and regulations of the Civilian Production Administration forbid the placing or acceptance of purchase orders for certain materials or products unless the purchase orders bear specified preference ratings, or unless they are accompanied by special authorization or unless they meet some other condition. Such provisions do not, however, prohibit the placing or acceptance of a purchase order which by its express terms, is not to be filled until after removal of such restrictions by the Civilian Production Administration.

(b) A manufacturer may not, of course, schedule such orders for production or place material in production to fill such orders until after the applicable CPA restriction is removed. He may order materials needed to fill such orders, but his own orders must call for delivery at a future time when the material can be received under Priorities Regulation 32. Also, if he is ordering a material which is itself subject to a restriction on placing or accepting of orders, that purchase order must as well be conditioned on the removal of the restriction.

INTERPRETATION 13

APPLICABILITY OF ORDERS AND REGULATIONS TO USED OR SECOND-HAND MATERIALS AND PRODUCTS

(a) Every order or regulation of the Civilian Production Administration applies to materials and products in used or second-hand form (other than scrap) to the same extent as to new items, unless the order or regulation or a published interpretation of it expressly states otherwise.

(b) [Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.]

(Issued Oct. 1, 1945.)

INTERPRETATION 15: Revoked August 28, 1945.

INTERPRETATION 16

APPLICABILITY OF PRIORITY RULES TO SUPPLIERS OF COMPLETE PRODUCTS AND PARTS FOR THE COMPLETE PRODUCTS

(a) Applicability of rules regarding acceptance of orders. A person who supplies parts for a complete product, as well as the complete product itself, may not accept an order for the complete products calling for delivery on a date which would interfere with delivery of equal or higher rated orders for parts which he has already accepted. In other words, he must comply with the rules in § 944.2 of Priorities Regulation 1 in accepting orders for complete products and orders for parts only. Thus if he gets a rated order for complete products calling for delivery on June 1, 1945, and cannot fill this order without using parts which are required for delivery on an equal or higher rated parts order previously accepted, calling for delivery on June 1, 1945, he may not accept the order for the complete products. In such a case, he must either (1) reject the order, stating when he could fill it, or (2) accept it for delivery on the earliest date he expects to be able to deliver, informing the customer of that date.

(b) [Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.]

(c) [Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.]

(Issued Oct. 1, 1945.)

INTERPRETATION 17: Revoked August 28, 1945.

DIRECTIONS TO PR 1

The following directions to PR 1 are still in effect (Dec. 11, 1945):

1. Changes made by customers in orders placed with manufacturers.

2. Transfer of title in financing rated orders.

9. Use of ratings or authorizations for machine tools or other facilities when related military procurement programs or contracts are cancelled or cut back.

11. Special rules for placing and scheduling rated orders for steel, copper and aluminum.

12. Use by ship chandlers and other ship suppliers of materials obtained by means of ratings assigned on WPB–846.

PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATION OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

[Priorities Reg. 1, Interpretation 12, as Amended Dec. 11, 1945]

DATE ON WHICH PURCHASE ORDER IS RECEIVED

The following amended interpretation is issued with respect to Priorities Regulation 1:

(a) Section 944.7 (b) provides that between conflicting orders which bear the same preference rating, precedence must be given to the order which was received first with the rating. Some questions have arisen as how to fix the date when the order was "received", due to the fact that occasionally specifications are not sent to the manufacturer with the customer's order. The word "order" as used in § 944.7 (b) means a purchase order accompanied by specifications in sufficient detail to enable the manufacturer to put the product in production. Not until such specifications have been furnished is there an "order". The date on which such specifications are furnished to the manufacturer is the date on which the order is "received". This date, and not the date on which the order without specifications was first received by the manufacturer, controls the position the order takes in the manufacturer's schedule.

For example, where an engine manufacturer on February 1st receives a rated order for fifty engines for July delivery but the customer does not, until March 1st, furnish the specifications as to carburetors, pumps, or other equipment, necessary before the engines can be put into production, March 1st is the date the "order was received" for the purposes of § 944.7 of Priorities Regulation No. 1.

(b) With respect to unrated orders which are subsequently rated, the order is not "received" for the purposes of § 944.7 until the supplier receives the application or extension of the rating properly certified. The date of the rated order is not retroactive to the time the original unrated order was placed. Similarly, where an order originally rated in the AA series became unrated after September 30, 1945, the subsequent application or extension of a AAA, MM or CC rating to the order does not relate back to the time the order was originally rated.

PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATION OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

SUMMARY OF CPA CONTROLS REGARDING IDLE OR EXCESS INVENTORIES

Introduction

The following amended interpretation is issued with respect to Priorities Regulation 1:

(a) Purpose of this interpretation. This interpretation summarizes some of the important rules on what to do when you have materials or products which are idle or excess in your inventory because of a termination or cut-back in your war contracts or other changes in your operations. These are not new rules on this subject, nor are they necesarily complete, but they are intended to be convenient references to rules which are now effective in CPA orders and regulations. As these orders and regulations are revised from time to time, you should be sure to look at the latest copies.

(b) General rule. The general rule is that if you got a material or product by using a preference rating, or other WPB or CPA priorities assistance, you must if possible use or dispose of it (or of the product into which it has been incorporated) for the purpose for which the assistance was given. This is the rule of § 944.11 (a) of Priorities Regulation 1, which also states the conditions under which physical segregation of inventory is not required. Two exceptions to this rule, i. e., when the material or product can no longer be used for the original purpose, or when the rating or other assistance has been revoked, are explained in paragraphs (a) (1) and (2) of § 944.11.

Disposition or Use of Excess

(c) In general. If you have a termination, cut-back, or other reduction in your operations, it may be impossible to use the material or product for the purpose for which the priorities assistance was given. In this case, or if the rating or other assistance has been revoked, you may dispose of it as explained in paragraphs (b) (1) and (b) (2) of § 944.11 of PR–1, or you may use it as explained generally in paragraph (b) (3) of that section. These rules are summarized in paragraphs (d) and (e) below.

(d) Disposition—(1) Special sales. If you want to sell the excess material or product to someone else, and you acquired or made it for your own use and you do not sell it in the regular course of your business, you should look at Priorities Regulation 13 for the rules governing such "special sales". These include special sales as scrap (other than plant generated scrap). Also, all sales of surplus materials or products by Government agencies are special sales.

(2) Other sales. If the sale of the particular material or product, including scrap, is not a special sale, it is permitted as long as you comply with all requirements of CPA orders and regulations which apply to the material or product you are selling. For example, you are usually required to accept rated orders and observe the sequence of preference ratings; and if the material or product may be sold or scrapped only on specific CPA authorization as described in the applicable order or regulation, you must do what the order says.

(e) Use—Must be in compliance with applicable CPA orders. If you want to use the excess material or product, you must always comply with all applicable CPA orders and regulations governing its use, inventory, etc., and you may have to appeal if the intended use is not a permitted use. To find out what orders or regulations are applicable to the particular material or product, it may be helpful to look at the CPA publication, "Products and Priorities," or you can ask your nearest CPA field office.

(2) [Deleted Dec. 11, 1945.]

(3) [Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.]

(4) [Deleted Dec. 11, 1945.]

(f) [Deleted Oct. 1, 1945.]

(g) Special provision for transfer among war contractors. If you have a war contract which has been terminated or modified, and another contractor is producing similar products for the same procuring agency, he may be able to receive excess materials (from you, your suppliers, or the procuring agency) in excess of inventory limits. This is permitted when authorized by the procuring agency to the extent described in Direction 1 to Priorities Regulation 32. This direction covers both the inventory exceptions necessary to receive excess materials of this kind, and also the sale or exchange of the materials.

Bringing Inventory Back to Normal

(h) Inventory limitations. If the termination or cut-back results in your having a bigger inventory than you need, the mere possession of it is not prohibited as long as the particular material or product was properly acquired. This is explained in Interpretation 5 to Priorities Regulation 32. However, you may not receive further deliveries of the particular material or product held in excess, nor may you fabricate above permitted inventory levels, except as provided in the applicable regulations or orders. The general inventory rules are in Priorities Regulation 32, and specific inventory limits on particular materials or products or relating to particular classes of persons are indicated in Tables 1 and 2 of that regulation. In general, upon any reduction in operations, outstanding orders for the items which constitute an excessive inventory must be promptly adjusted, or, if necessary, cancelled. However, certain further deliveries may be received to the extent permitted by paragraph (h) of Priorities Regulation 32, and special items may be received as permitted by that paragraph and by Direction 3 to that regulation. A limited inventory exception in the case of items bought on special sales is provided in PR–13.

(i) Cancelling ratings. In cutting back or cancelling orders as described above you will probably have to cancel your ratings to the extent described in § 944.4a of PR–1.

PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATION OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

[Priorities Reg. 1, Interpretation 18]

APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN RESTRICTIONS IN CPA ORDERS TO EXPORTS

The following interpretation is issued with respect to Priorities Regulation 1:

The last sentence of § 944.13 (formerly Priorities Regulation 15) does not in any way relax restrictions in limitation or conservation orders in so far as they apply to manufacture within the United States or to the maintenance of inventory within the United States. The only effect of the sentence is to lift such restrictions as may be based upon the size of an inventory maintained in a foreign country or on a use (including use for manufacture) which is to take place in a foreign country.

Of course, no orders of the Civilian Production Administration directly limit the size of inventory or the manner of use of an article in a foreign country. Nevertheless, there are some orders which, in the absence of this provision in § 944.13, might impose such limitations indirectly. Orders which provide that a person may not sell a particular material if he knows or has reason to believe that the purchaser will, upon receipt, have an inventory exceeding some stated amount or use the material for a particular purpose would, in the absence of this provision, prevent certain sales by subjecting sellers to possible liability even though the inventory existed or the use occurred in a foreign country. § 944.13 has the effect of relieving sellers of such liability in the limited situation described.

Furthermore, it is only restrictions which are expressed as based upon size of inventory or manner of use which are affected by this section. Where an order requires administrative action, such as an allocation or an express authorization, that requirement is not waived and must be met before the material can be delivered, acquired or used.

ADJUSTMENT PROVISIONS FOR SALES OF INDUSTRIAL MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this supplementary order, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

AUTHORITY: § 1305.170 issued under 56 Stat. 23, 765; 57 Stat. 566; Pub. Law 383, 78th Cong.; Pub. Law 108, 79th Cong.; E.O. 9250, 7 F.R. 7871; E.O. 9328, 8 F.R. 4681, E.O. 9599, 10 F.R. 10155; E.O. 9651, 10 F.R. 13487.

SECTION 1. General purposes. This supplementary order provides methods of adjusting the maximum prices for any product and is applicable to all products (except automotive trucks, motorcycles, buses, and house and truck trailers) covered by any of the following regulations: Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136—Machines, Parts and Industrial Equipment; Maximum Price Regulation 67—New Machine Tools; Maximum Price Regulation 246—Manufacturers and Wholesale Prices for Farm Equipment; Maximum Price Regulation 351—Ferrous Forgings; Maximum Price Regulation 523—Plastics Products; Maximum Price Regulation 82—Wire and Cable, and Maximum Price Regulation 581—Industrial Services.

Insofar as the provisions of this order differ from the adjustment provisions contained in any of the above-listed regulations, those provisions are superseded by this order.

SEC. 2. Individual applications.—(a) Qualifications. Adjustments will be given under the provisions of this section only to essential suppliers. An essential supplier is one whose output or supply of a product cannot be reasonably expected to be replaced at prices lower than the proposed adjusted maximum price. No adjustment will be granted a supplier under the provisions of this section unless it can be found that the maximum price of the product is at such a level that (taking into account the cost thereof, and the nature of his business) production or supply of the product is impeded or threatened.

(b) How adjustments will be computed. In general, the OPA will treat adjustments in three different categories. The first category is called the "over-all adjustment." This will apply where the applicant submits his application for adjustment in the maximum prices of all his products which are governed by any of the regulations listed in section 1, on the basis of his over-all profit and loss statement.

The second category is called the "divisional adjustment." This adjustment will apply whenever the applicant applies for a price adjustment on a single line or several single lines of products, on the products of a division of his business, or on the products of one of his plants.

The third category is called the "individual item adjustment," and will be used wherever the applicant applies for the adjustment of the maximum prices of one or more single items of his line or lines of products.

These three different adjustment categories will in turn be treated upon two different bases. The first basis will be used where OPA finds that the applicant's recent operating experience can be considered normal. The second basis is where the OPA finds that the recent operating experience cannot be considered normal.

In determining whether or not the recent operating experience can be considered normal, OPA will examine:

(1) Whether the sales of the products covered by the application, during the most recent acceptable accounting period, approximated the 1941 level, and whether there has been a significant change in the level of sales during the most recent accounting period from the level of the sales during the immediately preceding period.

(2) Whether the sales for the recent period of the major groups of products of the applicant were approximately the same proportions as (i) were sales in the fiscal year ended nearest to December 31, 1941, or (ii) anticipated sales for the ensuing year.

(3) Whether the profit and loss statement for the most recent acceptable accounting period reflects any abnormal conditions of major significance.

Generally speaking, where the applicant's recent operating experience may be considered normal, the adjustment will be based upon adjusted current costs. Where, however, the applicant's recent operating experience cannot be considered normal, a projection of the applicant's 1941 costs from his 1941 profit and loss statement will be used in estimating the cost basis for the adjustment.

In the case of the over-all adjustment, the applicant will, in general, be allowed adjusted total costs plus a reasonable margin of profit. In the case of "divisional adjustments", the applicant will be allowed adjusted total costs, and in the case of "individual item adjustments", the applicant will be allowed adjusted factory costs.

In making any of these adjustments, OPA will also consider whether an industry price increase factor, for one or more of the applicant's products or product lines, has been announced, or an industry survey is in process.

In stating the methods of adjustment, it has been assumed that the year 1941 will represent, for the applicant, the last normal pre-war year, but the applicant may demonstrate to the OPA that, due to the impact of war orders or governmental restrictions on the manufacture of products or the use of materials or facilities, sales for the year 1941 were not representative of normal peacetime operations. In such cases, a more representative peacetime year may be selected by the applicant, subject to OPA approval.

If a seller has received an adjustment of his maximum prices on the over-all adjustment basis under the provisions of this paragraph, he may not thereafter apply under the provisions of this paragraph for adjustment of his maximum prices on the divisional or individual item adjustment basis, and if a seller has received an adjustment under the provisions of this paragraph on the divisional adjustment basis, he may not thereafter apply under the provisions of this paragraph for an adjustment on the individual item adjustment basis for any product falling within the product line or manufactured by the division or plant for which he has received adjustment, unless, in either case, the seller can show to the satisfaction of the OPA that there has been a substantial change in his cost structure since the date of his last application.

In computing adjusted costs, where the OPA finds that the applicant's operating experience can be considered normal, the OPA will recognize only the following wage increases:

(1) Any wage or salary increases lawfully made, or approved by the appropriate wage stabilization agency, before August 18, 1945.

(2) Any wage or salary increase made on or after August 18, 1945, satisfying the requirements of General Order No. 30 of the National War Labor Board (relating to increases up to 55¢ an hour).

(3) Any wage or salary increases approved by the appropriate wage or salary stabilization agency on and after August 18, 1945, pursuant to Executive Orders 9599 and 9651, and such directives and instructions thereunder as are issued by the Stabilization Administrator.

In computing adjusted costs, where the OPA finds that the applicant's operating experience cannot be considered normal, the OPA will recognize wage or salary increases approved by an appropriate wage stabilization agency before November 27, 1945, and any increases in the costs for materials (including purchased parts and subassemblies) purchased in the same quantities from the same source of supply from which the applicant customarily purchased such materials during the six months' period immediately preceding October 1, 1941, but not costs in excess of the maximum price of such materials in effect on November 27, 1945. The applicant may report to the OPA any increases in costs of materials and wage or salary increases occurring subsequent to November 27, 1945, but the recognition of such increases in the computation of adjusted costs shall be subject to the provisions of Executive Orders 9599 and 9651, such directives and instructions thereunder as are issued by the Stabilization Administrator, and the applicable standards of the OPA.

(c) Applications based upon an appropriate decrease of other prices. (1) Upon application of the seller, the OPA may make an adjustment of the maximum price of a product if the seller agrees to make and (simultaneously with an increase in the maximum price that may be authorized under this paragraph (c) accepts as new maximum prices a reduction in other selling prices which will equal or exceed the total dollar amount of the adjustment granted under this paragraph.

(2) The OPA, upon its own motion or upon application from the seller, may also make an adjustment of the maximum prices of products for which the seller has made application or has received adjustment under paragraph (b) on the over-all or divisional adjustment basis so that the price increase allowed may be applied in varying amounts to several products or lines of products. In making such adjustments, OPA may consider (i) the general level of prices of the products for which adjustment is proposed; (ii) the cost of the products for which adjustment is proposed; (iii) the average profitability of all the seller's products; (iv) the effect of the adjustment upon price control with respect to other commodities.

(3) An application for price adjustment under this paragraph (c) must show that if the proposed adjustment is granted the gross dollar amount of sales of the products affected by the adjustment will not be greater than it would have been in the absence of the adjustment, and that the general level of the prices of these products to the ultimate users will not be increased by reason of this adjustment under this paragraph. Whenever the OPA grants such an adjustment, it may require appropriate reports relating to the products affected.

(d) Resellers. Orders issued under this section may establish new maximum prices or a method of determining new maximum prices for sales by resellers of the products covered by such orders. Such new prices or methods of determining prices will supersede maximum prices established by the applicable regulations for such sales and will be consistent with the standards applied by the OPA to resellers.

(e) How the seller proceeds in applying for an adjustment under this section—(1) Application forms. A seller who desires to apply for an adjustment may apply at the same time for an adjustment under paragraphs (b) and (c) if the facts of his case warrant it. In such cases, the office considering his application will give the adjustment under paragraph (b) before applying paragraph (c). An application for adjustment shall be filed in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1 and shall be made on copies of Form OPA-6083:2644, Form OPA-6083:2645, or Form OPA-6083:2646, set out in Appendix A of this order, if the application is filed under paragraph (b). No stated form of application is provided for applications under paragraph (c).

(2) Where to file. Applications shall be filed in the OPA National Office, except in cases where the seller's total sales of all commodities during the previous year were less than the following amounts: if the applicant includes products under Maximum Price Regulation 246, the amount is $300,000; otherwise, the amount is $500,000. All other applications shall be filed with the Regional Office of the OPA located in the same region in which the seller's business is located.

(3) Application based on proposed wage or salary increase to be approved by authorized Federal agency. A seller who believes that the conditions for an adjustment set forth in paragraph (b) would exist if an authorized Federal agency should approve a pending application for wage or salary increase pursuant to Executive Orders 9599 and 9651 and such directives and instructions thereunder as are issued by the Stabilization Administrator, may file an application for adjustment under this paragraph.

(f) Prices for deliveries made pending disposition of the application. A seller who has filed an application under paragraph (e) for adjustment of maximum prices under paragraph (b) may contract or agree that deliveries made during the pendency of the application shall be at a specific price which is higher than the existing maximum price which the seller wants to have adjusted. However, no payment in excess of that existing maximum price may be received until final disposition is made of the application. Where the application is disposed of by an order issued under this section, the price received for deliveries made subsequent to the filing of the application may not exceed the maximum price as determined by the OPA. Where the application is disposed of by an order of general applicability, payment in excess of the maximum price in effect at the time of delivery may be made for deliveries made pending disposition of the application, only as expressly authorized by order of the Price Administrator. The provisions of this paragraph are not applicable to sellers applying under paragraph (c).

A seller who wishes to enter into such an arrangement must specifically state to the buyer the following:

(1) The maximum price for the product;

(2) The fact that the appropriate application for an adjustment of that maximum price has been filed with the OPA; and

(3) The fact that the specific price quoted by him is subject to the approval of the OPA.

This Supplementary Order No. 142 shall become effective December 11, 1945.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILING APPLICATION UNDER SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER NO. 142

S. O. 142 provides a procedure by which manufacturers of products covered by the following regulations may apply for adjustment in the prices of such products:

Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136—Machines, Parts, and Industrial Equipment (except automotive trucks, motorcycles, buses, and house and truck trailers).
Maximum Price Regulation 67—New Machine Tools.
Maximum Price Regulation 82—Wire and Cable.
Maximum Price Regulation 246—Manufacturers' and Wholesale Prices on Farm Equipment.
Maximum Price Regulation 351—Ferrous Forgings.
Maximum Price Regulation 523—Plastic Products.
Maximum Price Regulation 581—Industrial Services.

Your application for price adjustment under S. O. 142 may be made on any one of four bases as described in the table below. In each case the data which you must submit is dependent on whether or not you have had recent normal operating experience. The table indicates which one of three application forms should be used in each situation.

Basis of adjustment	Extent of price adjustment which will be allowed (if any)	Application form to use: Where recent normal operating experience	Application form to use: Where no recent normal operating experience
1 Over-all profit and loss statement.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense) plus a normal profit margin. An "increase factor" will be determined to apply to all the products of the company which are covered by the above regulations.	Use Application Form I (OPA Form No. 6083-2644).
2 Profit and loss statement for a division (or plant) of the company for which separate accounting records are kept.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense). An "increase factor" will be determined to apply to all the products of the division (or plant) which are covered by the above regulations.
3 Unit cost data for representative items of a line (or group) of products.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense) for the representative items taken as a whole. The computed "increase factor" will be made to apply to all the items of the line, or group of products.	Use Application Form IIA (OPA Form No. 6083-2645).	Use Application Form IIB (OPA Form No. 6083-2646).
4 Unit cost data for individual items.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total manufacturing costs for each item. New prices are computed by the applicant to become effective 20 days after OPA acknowledges the application (unless notification to contrary is given by OPA).	(These forms may be used only if you maintain unit costs which can be supported by your records.)

You should use this form only if you are applying on the basis of (1) or (2) above.

If your own prepared statements are presented the profit and loss statement should contain as a minimum the following items: net sales, costs of goods, net operating profit and net profit before taxes.

b If not previously filed, submit your most recent balance sheet and your balance sheet as of the end of the fiscal year ended nearest December 31, 1941, on OPA Financial Reporting Form A or your own prepared statement.

Footnotes on following page.

INSTRUCTIONS

[A] If you do not consider the year ended nearest 12-31-41 as one of normal pre-war production, submit similar data on a separate sheet for the year ended nearest 12-31-40.

[B] This period should be at least three months in length.

[C] If the content of "direct labor" for the recent period differed in any important respects from its content for the fiscal year ended nearest 12-31-41 because of a change in accounting procedure, explain fully on a separate sheet. (This need not be done if you are using the "Projected Basis" as described below.)

[D] If you are applying on the "Current Basis" as described below you may omit breakdown of "total other factory expense" and fill in line b (vi) only—omitting lines b (iii), (iv), and (v).

[E] If the content of "General, Administrative and Selling" expense for the recent period differed in any important respects from its contents for the fiscal year ended nearest 12-31-41 because of a change in accounting procedure, explain fully on a separate sheet. (This need not be done if you are using the "Projected Basis" as described below.)

[F] If you have granted any "unapproved" wage increases since August 18, 1945, as defined in Executive Orders 9599 and 9651 (and in directives issued thereunder by the Stabilization Director) you must indicate the amount by which "direct labor" should be reduced so as to reflect its cost without these unapproved increases. This does not apply to recognized increases including: (1) increases approved by the appropriate wage and salary stabilization agency under Exec. Orders 9599 and 9651; (2) increases lawfully made or approved by the appropriate wage stabilization agency before 8-18-45; and (3) increases made after 8-18-45, under WLB Gen. Order 30, relating to increases up to 5¢ per hr. If you have granted only recognized increases, a statement to this effect should be made in your application.

IMPORTANT

Schedules I and II above must be filled in completely by all applicants. If you have had recent normal operating experience as defined below you need not submit the information requested in schedules III, IV, and V. If you have not had recent normal operating experience as defined below complete the rest of form.

If your company has available recorded data which accurately reflects normal operating experience, use is made of such data in determining any allowable price increases. This is referred to as the "Current Basis." If no such data is available, use is made of pre-war data projected to reflect certain basic changes which have occurred since that time (referred to as "Projected Basis"). To assist OPA in determining which basis to use in your case, check the answers to the following questions:

	Yes	No
1. Do you have available for the company or accounting division (whichever is applicable) a recent profit and loss statement of at least three months duration which reflects normal operating experience for the products for which relief is requested?	☐	☐
2. Were "Net Sales" in this statement at an annual rate in excess of 75% of "Net Sales" for the fiscal year ended nearest 12-31-41? (See Sch. II.)	☐	☐
3. Were "Net Sales" in this statement at an annual rate in excess of 75% of "Net Sales" for the three immediately preceding months? (Show here net sales for this previous 3 months period $_____.)	☐	☐
4. Were sales of the major products for which relief is requested for the "recent" period (Column 3 Sched. I) in approximately the same proportions as you expect for the coming year? (Note: If answer is "Yes" and expected sales for this period are in different proportions from sales for 1941, explain fully on separate sheet why these proportions are expected to continue.)	☐	☐
5. Were sales made to different classes of purchasers of the products for which relief is requested in the "recent period" in approximately the same proportions as you expect for the coming year? (Note: If answer is "Yes" and the expected proportion of sales to different classes of purchasers for this period varied considerably from the proportions of 1941, explain fully on a separate sheet why these changed proportions are expected to continue.)	☐	☐
6. Do your costs of production in the "recent accounting period" accurately reflect methods of production which you plan to use in the next year? Answer "No" for instance if the amount of subcontracted work was higher than is anticipated for next year, or if inefficient methods necessitated by war conditions were still being reflected in costs of production for recent period.	☐	☐

If you have answered "No" to any of the above questions proceed with schedules III, IV, and V. If you have answered "Yes" to all questions you need not proceed beyond this point. In case of doubt it will be best to fill in schedules III, IV, and V.

SCHEDULE III—CHANGES IN PRICES OF DIRECT MATERIAL AND PURCHASED PARTS

The purpose of this Schedule is to determine a weighted average percentage increase from October 1, 1941 to November 27, 1945 in the prices paid for direct material and parts as purchased by you for manufacture into the products produced by the company (or division of the company) whose operations are described in Schedule II. In determining the "Value of Materials Used" in Col. (1) of the Schedule proceed as follows:

1. If a wide variety of products are produced, use the first available of the following which can be determined accurately:
   (a) The value of the materials actually used during the prewar period of Schedule II.
   (b) The value of the materials purchased during the prewar period.
   (c) An estimate of the materials used during the prewar period.
2. If a comparatively small number of similar products are produced:
   (a) Select a representative product which uses the principal materials in amounts bearing a reasonable relation to the totals for the entire company (or division) and determine the "Value of Materials Used" from a bill of materials for this product.
   (b) If no one product fills the requirements of 2 (a) you may select and add together the bills of materials of several products.

NOTE: If (2) is used, give name of product on which materials increase was based and indicate the volume of sales of that product in the pre-war period used in Schedule II.

INSTRUCTIONS

[A] "Description of Material" may refer either to individual items or to groups of items where a wide variety of such items are purchased (such as castings, forgings, or various types of steel or lumber). In the case of individual items the "Description of Materials" should be specific and complete for each item setting forth the name of the material, form, size, etc., for raw materials, and the name and supplier's designation for component parts and subassemblies. Where a wide variety of items is referred to, give the class of products under the "Description" and show average prices in columns (2) and (3) if such averages have significance. Otherwise make entries only in Columns (1) and (4). Wherever practical, the first method should be used.

[B] See introductory statement above.

[C] Show October 1941 price paid per unit of the material or part. This should be the price you actually paid your principal supplier in October 1941 in a normal or regular purchase. If you did not make a purchase in October, give the price quoted to you by your principal supplier in October 1941 (on your usual size purchase).

[D] Report prices as of November 27, 1945 whenever such prices are known. If the current price is in excess of the November 27, 1945, price you may report such an increase on a separate sheet but recognition of such increases are subject to Executive Orders 9599, 9651, such directives as are issued thereunder, and the applicable standards of OPA. Where November 27, 1945, prices are unknown, report current prices (not to exceed legal maximum prices) of your principal supplier for purchases in the same quantities as used in determining the price in Column 2 of those materials and parts which are currently on the market and OPA will make the necessary adjustment. For any materials and purchased parts which have not been obtained recently report your prospective supplier's lowest quotation and indicate with an asterisk (*) all such prices which have not received OPA approval.

[E] Name of recent supplier should be given if materials have been obtained recently; otherwise give name of 1941 supplier. Place a check mark (√) opposite the name of the recent supplier if different from the base period supplier.

[F] "All Other" if possible, should not account for more than 25% of the total. Give an estimate of the percentage increase in the column provided for this purpose.

SCHEDULE IIIA—CHANGES IN PRICES OF INDIRECT MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Give estimate of average increase in legal prices of indirect materials and supplies ——%. If estimated increase is more than 12%, fill out schedule similar to Schedule III for indirect materials and supplies.

INTRODUCTION TO SCHEDULES IV AND V—CHANGES IN BASIC WAGE RATES

Either Schedule IV or Schedule V may be used to obtain data necessary to measure certain increases in your basic wage rates of factory employees from October 1, 1941, to November 27, 1945. This refers to increases in single rates, or in ranges of rates (measured from the midpoint of the old range to the midpoint of the new) for one or more job classifications, as distinguished from increases affecting single employees. If Schedule II is filled out for a division (or plant) of the company, "factory employees" refers to all workers included in "direct labor" (line 1b ii). If Schedule II is filled out for the entire company "factory employees" includes "indirect labor" as well as "direct labor". Ordinarily this should include, in addition to productive workers, the maintenance, supervisory and other indirect workers. Sales and administrative employees should not be included. The OPA will recognize any increases in wages or salaries approved by the appropriate stabilization agency on or before Nov. 27, 1945. You may report any increases since that time but the recognition of such increases in the computation of adjusted costs shall be subject to the provisions of Executive Orders 9599, 9651, such directives as are issued thereunder by the Stabilization Director, and the applicable standards of OPA.

The following lists of recognized increases show types of increases which may be included and those which may not be included.

Types of increases which may be included.—1. A plant-wide or any other general increase affecting a considerable portion of the positions in the plant which provides (a) a uniform change in cents per hour or per piece, (b) a uniform percentage change for all jobs covered by the action, or (c) a systematic list of differential increases among jobs.

2. Increases in cents per hour, or percent, to one or more job classification rates, rate ranges, piece rates or incentive wage rates.

3. Changes in the structure of incentive plans which affect the amount that can be earned for the same quantity and quality of work as represented by the average worker affected as of the date the changes were made.

4. An action in which the War Labor Board awards have provided for internal readjustment of wage rates amounting to a specified average increase.

5. Increases to equalize job rates for women, or for other groups of persons with rates for work of equal quantity or quality already paid generally, but in no case shall the weight given such a change exceed the proportion of the plant's employees in those groups previously paid at lower rates on the payroll period covering most of October 1-15, 1941.

Types o increases which will not be included.—1. In-grade promotions or any change in wage for the individual as distinguished from a change in the rate for the job.

2. Changes in vacation policies, nonproduction bonuses, or pay for overtime.

3. Increases granted automatically for length of service at stated intervals or after given periods.

4. Increases in earnings because of greater worker productivity under an incentive plan.

5. Changes in piece rates resulting from drastic changes in products, unless there has been a specific bargaining agreement to increase earnings during the process of revision.

6. Higher shift differentials except for plants which have multiple shifts in the major part of the plant's operations in 1941.

Methods which may be used.—You may determine your increase in basic wage rates by either one of two methods: (1) by an analysis of individual wage actions (Schedule IV), or (2) by a comparison of occupational wage rates as of October 1, 1941 and the present time (Schedule V).

SCHEDULE IV—CHANGES IN BASIC WAGE RATES (ANALYSIS OF WAGE ACTIONS)

This method should be used wherever possible. If you had established job classifications on October 1, 1941, you should be able to fill in A below completely. If no such job classifications were in effect on October 1, 1941, fill out the schedule for the period from October 2, 1942, to November 27, 1945, and data obtained from B will be used to measure the change from October 1, 1941 to October 2, 1942. B should be filled in completely in either case.

3 Total earnings at straight time rates. [G]	$	$	$
4 Average straight time hourly earnings (line 3÷line 2).	$	$	$

INSTRUCTIONS (FOR SCHEDULE IV)

[A] An entry should be made for each separate occasion of a wage increase among the factory employees for the organization unit of the business reported in Schedule II. The change might involve only one job, or might include several job classifications, or even the whole of a department or plant.

[B] If an entry in this column covers more than one job classification, rate or rate range receiving nonuniform increases, the amount reported should represent the weighted average of all the increase. The weighted average may be determined by multiplying the amount of each separate increase by the number of employees receiving the increase.

[C] Fill in this column only in case the increase in column (3) is stated in percent. Select a pay-roll period immediately preceding the date of the adjustment and determine the average hourly earnings during that period for the group of employees receiving the increase.

[D] This operation is for the purpose of converting any increases expressed in percentage in column 2 into cents per hour.

[E] Compute the percentage of workers affected by dividing the number of employees to which the rate change applies by the total number of factory employees on the payroll at the time the change was effected.

[F] For each adjustment since October 2, 1942, the WLB office approving such adjustment and the order number and date must be listed for each adjustment requiring specific WLB approval. For other adjustments, such as those made under WLB General Orders, indicate the type of authorization.

[G] Total earnings of employees at straight-time rates means earnings (1) before deductions for social security, withholding taxes, insurance, hospitalization dues, e.g., (2) inclusive of regularly recurring bonus payments, such as production bonuses, and (3) exclusive of extra payments for overtime, and bonus payments that are not a part of regular earnings.

SCHEDULE V—CHANGES IN BASIC WAGE RATES (ANALYSIS OF OCCUPATIONAL WAGE RATES)

This alternative method may be used when the method of Schedule IV cannot be used without excessive difficulty.

[A] List the most important occupation or job classifications of factory employees on pay roll during last period prior to October 1, 1941, for the organizational unit reported in Schedule II. Account for at least 75% of the total employees.

[B] Give number of employees in each occupation or job classification for this same period.

[C] If there existed an established range of rates for the job during the period specified, list the minimum and maximum straight-time rates in the appropriate columns.

[D] If entries were made in the two previous columns, enter here the midpoint between these maximum and minimum rates. Otherwise enter the specific straight-time rate applicable to the job for the period specified.

I certify that the facts submitted in this application are true and correct.

Name of firm.....

Address of firm.....

Phone number..... Date.....

(File two copies of this application with your Regional OPA Office if your total sales for the previous year were less than $500,000 ($300,000 in case of MPR 246). Otherwise, file with the Machinery Branch, OPA, Washington 25, D. C.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILING APPLICATION UNDER SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER NO 142

S. O. 142 provides a procedure by which manufacturers of products covered by the following regulations may apply for adjustment in the prices of such products:

Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136—Machines, Parts and Industrial Equipment (except automotive trucks, motorcycles, buses and house and truck trailers):
Maximum Price Regulation 67—New Machine Tools
Maximum Price Regulation 82—Wire and Cable
Maximum Price Regulation 246—Manufacturers and Wholesale Prices for Farm Equipment
Maximum Price Regulation 251—Ferrous Forgings
Maximum Price Regulation 523—Plastics Products
Maximum Price Regulation 561—Industrial Services

Your application for price adjustment under S. O. 142 may be made on any one of four bases as described in the table below. In each case, the data which you must submit is dependent on whether or not you have had recent normal operating experience. The table indicates which one of three application forms should be used in each situation.

Basis of adjustment	Extent of price adjustment which will be allowed (if any)	Application form to use
		Where recent normal operating experience	Where no recent normal operating experience
1 (Over-all profit and loss statement).	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense) plus a normal profit margin. An "increase factor" will be determined to apply to all the products of the company which are covered by the above regulations.	Use Application Form I (OPA Form No. 6083-2644).
2 Profit and loss statement for a division (or plant) of the company for which separate accounting records are kept.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense). An "increase factor" will be determined to apply to all the products of the division (or plant) which are covered by the above regulations.
3 Unit cost data for representative items of a line (or group) of products.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense) for the representative items taken as a whole. The computed "increase factor" will be made to apply to all the items of the line, or group of products.	Use Application Form IIA (OPA Form No. 6083-2645).	Use Application Form IIB (OPA Form No. 6083-2646).
4 Unit cost data for individual items.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total manufacturing costs for each item. New prices are computed by the applicant to become effective 20 days after OPA acknowledges receipt of the application (unless notification to the contrary is given by OPA).	(These forms may be used only if you maintain unit costs which can be supported by your records.)

WHEN THIS FORM IIA IS TO BE USED

You may use this form if you are applying on the basis of either (3) or (4) above, maintain unit costs which can be supported by your records, and if you have available current cost data reflecting normal cost experience for the items, or line of product, for which price adjustment is desired. You are considered to have had normal operating experience for an item if all the following conditions are met: (a) sales for the last three months were at an annual rate in excess of 75% of sales for the year 1941, (b) sales for the last three months were in excess of 75% of sales for the immediately preceding three months' period and (c) current costs reflect methods of production such as will be in use for the coming period. (You do not meet this test, for instance, if current costs reflect an abnormal amount of subcontracting work, or if the use of inefficient methods of production necessitated by war conditions, have not been eliminated.)

SCHEDULE I—SALES INFORMATION

In the following schedule allow one line to an item. If application is being made for a line (or group) of products, select representative items which accurately reflect the average cost-price relationship of the line (or group) and fill in the requested information for these items, including the two "Total Columns." The items selected should account for at least 25% of total sales in 1941, but you need not submit data for more than eight items if these are truly representative. If you are not able to select a representative sample of items for the line, all of which meet the tests for recent normal operating experience (lines 4 and 5 below), obtain copy of Application Form IIA and fill out for other representative items which do not meet the tests for normal operating experience.

	Identify each item (name, catalog numbers, etc.) in the spaces below				Total of cols. (1), (2), (3), and (4)	Total sales of entire line
	(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)

2 Sales—3 previous months × 4.
3 Sales—year ended 12/31/41.
4 Line 1÷line 2.
5 Line 1÷line 3.

INSTRUCTIONS

[A] If your sales of these items are seasonal so that sales for the period are not truly representative, you may submit additional data to demonstrate that sales of the items are actually at a rate in excess of 75% of normal sales for the year 1941.

PART A—COMPUTATION OF NEW MAXIMUM PRICES FOR INDIVIDUAL ITEMS

SCHEDULE II—COMPUTATION OF AVERAGE DISCOUNT

The purpose of this schedule is to determine for the last three months period the average discounts from list (or gross) prices for each item listed in Schedule I, when such items were sold to more than one class of purchaser. If sales to different classes of purchasers for this period are not representative of anticipated sales for the coming year, you may submit supplementary information relating to this for consideration by OPA.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SCHEDULE III

[A] If the current content of "direct labor" differs in any important respects from its content on the base date, make adjustments needed to express current and base date "direct labor" and "factory overhead" on the same basis and explain fully on a separate sheet.

[B] If you have granted any "unapproved" wage increases since August 18, 1945, as defined in Executive Orders 9599 and 9651 (and in directives issued thereunder by the Stabilization Director), you must indicate (on a separate sheet) the amount by which "direct labor" should be reduced so as to reflect its cost without these unapproved increases. This does not apply to recognized increases including: (1) wage increases approved by the appropriate wage and salary stabilization agency under Executive Orders 9599 and 9651, (2) increases lawfully made or approved by the appropriate wage stabilization agency before August 18, 1945, and (3) increases made after August 18, 1945, under W.L.B. General Order 30 relating to increases up to 55 cents per hour. If you have granted only recognized increases, a statement to this effect should be made in your application.

[C] If the current method of allocating "factory overhead" is different in any important respects from the method used on the base date, make adjustments needed to express current and base date factory overhead on the same basis, and explain fully on a separate sheet.

NOTE.—If cost data in part A above are for representative items of a line (or group) of products, fill in part B below. If cost data in part A are for individual items, you need not fill in part B.

PART B—NEW MAXIMUM PRICES FOR A LINE (OR GROUP) OF PRODUCTS

SCHEDULE IV—ADDITIONAL DATA REQUIRED

If application is being made for "representative items" of a line, or group, of products, fill in the following schedule. In this case, OPA will determine the amount of increase, if any, and notify you accordingly.

1 Selling, general, and administrative expense for representative items	[A] Columns refer to corresponding columns of Schedule I
	(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)
a Base date selling, general and administrative expense
b Current selling, general and administrative expense
2 Sales and expense data for division of company producing representative items	For Period Including Base Date (at least 3 months in length)		For Recent Period (at least 3 months in length)
a Total net sales for period shown
b Total selling, general and administrative expense for division

NOTE.—If any expenditures classified as selling, general or administrative expense on the base date are now classified as factory overhead, or vice versa, explain fully.

I certify that the facts submitted in this application are true and correct.

APPLICATION FOR ADJUSTMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICES UNDER SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER NO. 142

APPLICATION FORM IIB

(For use in applying for price adjustment of individual items or lines of products on basis of unit cost data when company has had no recent normal operating experience.)

Name of firm.....
Phone number..... Date.....

(File two copies of this application with your OPA Office if your total sales for the previous year were less than $500,000 ($300,000 in the case of MPR 246). Otherwise file with Machinery Branch, OPA, Washington 25, D. C.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILING APPLICATION UNDER SUPPLEMENTARY ORDER NO. 142

S. O. Order No. 142 provides a procedure by which manufacturers of products covered by the following regulations may apply for adjustment in the prices of such products:

Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136—Machines, Parts and Industrial Equipment (except automotive trucks, motorcycles, buses, and house and truck trailers).
Maximum Price Regulation 67—New Machine Tools.
Maximum Price Regulation 82—Wire and Cable.
Maximum Price Regulation 246—Manufacturers' and Wholesale Prices of Farm Equipment.
Maximum Price Regulation 351—Ferrous Forgings.
Maximum Price Regulation 523—Plastic Products.
Maximum Price Regulation 581—Industrial Services.

Your application for price adjustment under Supplementary Order No. 142 may be made on any one of four bases as described in the table below. In each case the data which you must submit is dependent on whether or not you have had recent normal operating experiences. The table indicates which one of three application forms should be used in each situation.

Basis of adjustment	Extent of price adjustment which will be allowed (if any)	Application form to use: Where recent normal operating experience	Application form to use: Where no recent normal operating experience
1 Overall profit and loss statement.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense) plus a normal profit margin. An "increase factor" will be determined to apply to all products of the company which are covered by the above regulations.	Use Application Form I (OPA Form No. 6083-2644)
2 Profit and loss statement for a division (or plant) of the company for which separate accounting records are kept.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense). An "increase factor" will be determined to apply to all the products of the division (or plant) which are covered by the above regulations.
3 Unit cost data for representative items of a line (or group) of products.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total costs (including selling and administrative expense) for the representative items taken as a whole. The computed "increase factor" will be made to apply to all the items of the line, or group of products.	Use Application Form IIA (OPA Form No. 6083-2645).	Use Application Form IIB (OPA Form No. 6083-2646).
4 Unit cost data for individual items.	Prices will be increased sufficiently to cover allowable total manufacturing costs for each item. New prices are computed by the applicant to become effective 20 days after OPA acknowledges the receipt of application (unless notification to the contrary is given by OPA).	(These forms may be used only if you maintain unit costs which can be supported by your records.)

When this form IIB is to be used.—You should use this form if you are applying on the basis of either (3) or (4) above, maintain unit costs which can be supported by your records, but do not have available current unit cost data reflecting normal cost experience for the items, or lines of products, for which price adjustment is desired. You are considered not to have normal operating experience for an item if any of the following conditions exist: (a) sales for the last three months were at an annual rate less than 75% of sales for the year 1941, (b) sales for the last three months were less than 75% of sales for the immediately preceding three month period, and (c) current costs reflect abnormalities which will not exist in the coming year (such as, an abnormal amount of subcontracting work, or the use of inefficient methods of production, necessitated by war conditions which have not as yet been eliminated). To indicate your position in these respects fill in Schedule I below. The percentage comparisons are indicated in lines (3) and (4).

SCHEDULE I—SALES INFORMATION

In the following schedule allow one line to an item. If application is being made for a line (or group) of products select representative items which accurately reflect the average cost-price relationship of the line (or group) and fill in the requested information for these items, including the two "total columns." The items selected should account for at least 25% of total sales in 1941, but you need not submit data for more than eight items if these are truly representative. In selecting a sample you may include on this application form items for which you have costs reflecting recent normal operating experience, as well as for those for which you do not have such experience.

	Identify each item (name, catalog numbers, etc.) in the spaces below				[A] Total of Col. (1), (2), (3) and (4)	Total sales of entire line
	(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)

2 Sales—3 previous months x 4
3 Sales—year ended Dec. 31, 1941
4 Line 1÷line 2
5 Line 1÷line 3

[A] If your sales of these items are seasonal in nature so that sales for the period are not truly representative, you may submit additional data to demonstrate that sales of the items are actually at a rate in excess of 75% of normal sales for the year 1941.

PART A—COMPUTATION OF NEW MAXIMUM PRICES

SCHEDULE II—COMPUTATION OF AVERAGE DISCOUNT

The purpose of this schedule is to determine for the year 1941 or some significant part thereof the average discounts from list-(or gross) prices for each item listed in Schedule I, when such items were sold to more than one class of purchaser. If sales to different classes of purchasers for this period were not representative of anticipated sales for the coming year, you may submit supplementary information relating to this for consideration by OPA.

PART B—ALLOWABLE INCREASES IN COSTS

SCHEDULE IV—COMPUTATION OF PERCENTAGE INCREASES IN PRICES OF DIRECT MATERIALS

For the completion of line 5a of Schedule III you must determine the percentage increase since the applicable base date in the covering regulation in the prices of materials, parts and subassemblies. Where several items are listed in Schedule 1, separate percentages may be determined for each item if such items are quite dissimilar with respect to the materials used and the proportions in which they are used. Otherwise fill out the schedule on the basis of all of the bills of materials of the items listed in Schedule 1.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILLING OUT SCHEDULE IV

[A] "Description of Materials" may refer either to individual items or to groups of items where a wide variety of such items are purchased (such as castings, forgings or various types of steel or lumber). In the case of individual items the "Description of Materials" should be specific and complete for each item setting forth the name of the material, form, size, etc., for raw materials, and the name and supplier's designation for component parts and subassemblies. Where a wide variety of items is referred to, give the class under the description and make entries only in Columns (1) and (4). Wherever practical, the first method should be used.

[B] Indicate here the value of the material or part in the bill of materials, or if the schedule applies to several items, the total value of the materials as indicated in all the bill of materials combined.

[C] Show base date price paid per unit of the material or part. This should be the price you actually paid your principal supplier or the applicable base date of the covering regulation in a normal or regular purchase. If you did not make a purchase in October, give the price quoted to you by your principal supplier in the base date month (on your usual size purchase).

[D] Report prices as of November 27, 1945 whenever such prices are known. If the current price is in excess of the November 27, 1945 price you may report such an increase but recognition of such increases are subject to Executive Orders 9599, 9651, such directives as are issued thereunder, and the applicable standards of OPA. Where November 27, 1945 prices are unknown report current prices (not to exceed legal maximum prices) of your principal supplier for purchases in the same quantities as used in determining the price in Column 2 of those materials and parts which are currently on the market and OPA will make the necessary adjustments. For any materials and purchased parts which have not been obtained recently report your prospective supplier's lowest quotation and indicate with an asterisk (*) all such prices which have not received OPA approval.

[E] "All Other" if possible, should not account for more than 25% of the total. Give an estimate of the percentage increase in the column provided for this purpose.

SCHEDULE V—COMPUTATION OF PERCENTAGE INCREASE IN BASIC WAGE RATE SCHEDULE

For the completion of line 5b of Schedule III you must determine the percentage increase from the applicable base date of the covering regulation to November 27, 1945 in the basic wage rates of your direct factory workers employed in the division of your business in which the items given in Schedule I are produced. Two alternative methods are provided below for determining this percentage increase. Choose the one which best suits your purpose. Full instructions for filling out the form are given below.

1. Percentage increase in basic wage rate schedules by analysis of individual wage actions.

a. Analysis of individual wage actions:

Department, occupation or job classification affected	Date of adjustment	Adjustment (cents per hour or per cent)	Average straight time hourly earnings before adjustment, omit if Col. (3) is in cents	Percent in Col. (3) times amount in Col. (4)	Percent of total workers in division receiving inc.	Amount in Col. (3) or Col. (5) x per cent in Col. (6)	WLB authority

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILLING OUT SCHEDULE V

Either Schedule V (1) or (2) above may be used to obtain data necessary to measure certain increases in your basic wage rates of factory employees since the applicable base date in the covering regulation. This refers to increases in single rates, or ranges of rates (measured from the midpoint of the old range to the midpoint of the new) for one or more job classifications as distinguished from increases affecting single employees. "Factory employees" refers to all the workers included in "direct labor" (line 4b of Schedule II).

The OPA will recognize any increases in wages or salaries approved by any appropriate stabilization agency on or before November 27, 1945. You may report any increases since that time but the recognition of such increases in the computation of adjusted costs shall be subject to the provisions of Executive Orders 9599, 9651, such directives as are issued thereunder by the Stabilization Director, and the applicable standards of OPA.

The following lists show types of recognized increases which may be included, and those which may not be included:

Types of changes which may be included. 1. A plant-wide or any other general increase affecting a considerable portion of the positions in the plant which provides (a) a uniform change in cents per hour or per piece, (b) a uniform percentage change for all jobs covered by the action, or (c) a systematic list of differential increases among jobs.

2. Increases in cents per hour, or percent, to one or more job classification rates, rate ranges, piece rates or incentive wage rates.

3. Changes in the structure of incentive plans which affect the amount that can be earned for the same quantity and quality of work as represented by the average worker affected as of the date the changes were made.

4. An action in which the War Labor Board awards have provided for internal readjustment of wage rates amounting to a specified average increase.

5. Increases to equalize job rates for women, or for persons of certain races with rates for work of equal quantity or quality as already paid to men, or to persons of other races, but in no case shall the weight given such a change exceed the proportion of the plant's employees in these groups previously paid at lower rates in the pay-roll period immediately preceding the base date.

Types of changes which may not be included. 1. In-grade promotions or any change in wage for the individual as distinguished from a change in the rate for the job.

2. Changes in vacation policies, non-production bonuses, or pay for overtime.

3. Increases granted automatically for length of service at stated intervals or after given periods.

4. Increases in earnings because of greater worker productivity under an incentive plan.

5. Changes in piece rates resulting from drastic changes in products, unless there has been a specific bargaining agreement to increase earnings during the process of revision.

6. Higher shift differentials except for plants which have multiple shifts in the major part of the plant's operations on the base date.

Methods which may be used. You may determine your increase in basic wage rates by either one of two methods: (a) by an analysis of individual wage actions (Schedule V (1)) or (b) by a comparison of occupational wage rates as of the base date and the present time (Schedule V (2)).

FOOTNOTES—SCHEDULE V

[A] An entry should be made for each separate occasion of a wage increase among the factory employees for the division of the business in which the items are produced. The change might involve only one job, or might include several job classifications, or even the whole of a department or plant.

[B] If an entry in this Column covers more than one job classification, rate or rate range receiving nonuniform increases, the amount reported should represent the weighted average of all the increase. The weighted average may be determined by multiplying the amount of each separate increase by the number of employees affected and dividing the sum of these products by the total number of employees receiving the increase.

[C] Fill in this Column only in case the increase in Column 3 is stated in percent. Select a pay-roll period immediately preceding the date of the adjustment and determine the average hourly earnings during that period for the group of employees receiving the increase.

[D] This operation is for the purpose of converting any increase expressed in percentage in Column 2 into cents per hour.

[E] Compute the percentage of workers affected by dividing the number of employees to which the rate change applies by the total number of factory employees on the pay roll at the time the change was affected.

[F] For each adjustment since October 2, 1942, the WLB Office approving such adjustment and the order number and date must be listed for each adjustment requiring specific WLB approval. For other adjustments, such as those made under WLB General Orders, indicate the type of authorization.

[G] Total earnings of employees at straight-time rates means earnings (1) before deductions for Social Security, withholding taxes, insurance, hospitalization dues, etc., (2) inclusive of regularly recurring bonus payments, such as production bonuses, and (3) exclusive of extra payments for overtime, and bonus payments that are not a part of regular earnings.

[H] List the most important occupation or job classification of factory employees on pay-roll during last period prior to the applicable date of the regulation for the division producing the item. Account for at least 75% of the total employees.

[I] Give number of employees in each occupation or job classification for this same period.

[J] If there existed an established range of rates for the job during the period specified, list the minimum and maximum time rates in the appropriate columns.

[K] If entries were made in the two previous columns, enter here the midpoint between these maximum and minimum rates. Otherwise, enter the specific straight-time rate applicable to the job for the period specified.

I certify that the facts submitted in this application are true and correct.

PART 1407—RATIONING OF FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

[2d Rev. RO 3,[1] Amdt. 50]

SUGAR

A rationale for this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Second Revised Ration Order 3 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 19.5 (c) (2) is amended to read as follows:

(2) The amount of the provisional allowance of sugar for use in canning or bottling fruit juices shall be computed in the following way separately for each kind of fruit juice:

(i) For each kind of fruit juice (other than citrus juice) the number of gallons of that kind of fruit juice (other than citrus juice) which the applicant expects to make from the date of application to the end of the quarterly period for which application is made is multiplied by 80% of the average number of pounds of sugar which he used per gallon for that kind of fruit juice (other than citrus juice) during 1941.

(ii) For each kind of citrus juice the number of gallons of that kind of citrus juice which the applicant expects to make from the date of application to the end of the quarterly period for which application is made is multiplied by 90% of the average number of pounds of sugar which he used per gallon for that kind of citrus juice during 1941.

(iii) The resulting figures for each kind of fruit juice are added together and the result is his provisional allowance for canning and bottling fruit juices. The District Office shall issue to him a check for the amount of his provisional allowance less any unused balance of his last provisional allowance of sugar issued for canning and bottling fruit juices.

2. Section 19.5 (d) is amended to read as follows:

(d) Restriction on use. If an industrial user receives a provisional allowance under this order for canning and bottling any kind of fruit juice, he may use that provisional allowance only for the purpose of canning and bottling that kind of fruit juice. For any packing season beginning after June 15, 1945, or for any part of a packing season not ended by that date he may not use more sugar in canning or bottling any fruit juice (other than citrus juice) than 80% of the average amount of sugar he used per gallon for that kind of fruit juice (other than citrus juice) in 1941; moreover, for any packing season for that fruit juice which began before but was not ended by June 15, 1945, his use of sugar per case in the production of that fruit juice may not, in any event, exceed 90% of the average amount of sugar he used per gallon in 1941 for that kind of fruit juice. Furthermore, for any packing season beginning December 11, 1945, or for any packing season not ended by that date, he may not use more sugar in canning or bottling any citrus juice than 90% of the average amount of sugar he used per gallon for that kind of citrus juice in 1941.

3. Section 20.1 is amended by changing the words "grapefruit segments" listed in "Table IV—Canned and Bottled Fruits" to read "citrus segments".

This amendment shall become effective December 11, 1945.

Issued this 11th day of December 1945.

[GMPR,[2] Amdt. 66]

MAXIMUM PRICES FOR COMMODITIES AND SERVICES

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment to General Maximum Price Regulation has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

The General Maximum Price Regulation is amended in the following respect:

Section 18 (d) is amended to read as follows:

(d) In the case of any seller at wholesale or retail who shows:

(1) Either that his maximum price for any commodity established under this regulation is less than the minimum price at which such commodity was required to be sold during March 1942 pursuant to a contract entered into in accordance with the provisions of a State Fair Trade Act; or that he has been permanently enjoined by a court from selling the commodity at less than such minimum price; and also

(2) That the commodity was generally sold at wholesale (if the seller is a wholesaler) or at retail (if the seller is a retailer) during March 1942 at prices no lower than such minimum price within the locality in which his selling establishment is located.

In such cases, the maximum price of the seller will be increased to such minimum price.

This amendment shall become effective December 17, 1945.

Chapter XXIII—Surplus Property Administration

[Special Order 25]

Use of Facilities by State and Local Governments and Their Instrumentalities to Relieve the Emergency Housing Shortage

This order is issued for the purpose of utilizing surplus facilities to relieve the critical housing shortage found to exist throughout the Nation, and particularly to make available housing for our veterans who are returning from overseas. The duty to provide housing facilities for returning veterans during this emergency is imperative and purely monetary considerations must be subordinated to this duty and to the benefit to the Nation which will result from the performance of it, and the Surplus Property Administrator finds that the operation of housing facilities by State and local governments for the use of veterans will result in benefit to the United States for considerations of public health. Accordingly, pursuant to the authority of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 765, 50 U. S. C. App. Sup. 1611) and of Public Law 181, 79th Congress, and notwithstanding any of the provisions of any Surplus Property Administration regulation issued thereunder, It is hereby ordered, That:

1. Disposal agencies and owning agencies through disposal agencies are hereby authorized to make available without monetary consideration to State and local governments and their instrumentalities surplus real property suitable for housing purposes consisting of land, buildings, structures, improvements, and such personal property as may be located thereon and useful in connection therewith, by permit, lease, or otherwise, on the following conditions:

(a) That the property will be operated and maintained at the expense of the State or local government or instrumentality.

(b) That the property will be utilized for the housing of veterans and their immediate families, and will not be rented to other applicants while applications from veterans for housing therein are pending and unfilled.

(c) That all revenue derived from the property in excess of that portion thereof necessary to cover the cost of conversion of the property to housing purposes and of operation and maintenance shall be accounted for and paid over to the Federal Government at such time as may be agreed upon by the Federal agency and the State or local government or instrumentality.

(d) That the right of occupancy shall not exceed five years and in any event shall be revocable on a notice of six (6) months on determination by the Federal agency then in charge of the property that the housing emergency in the immediate area has ended; and that all property shall revert to the United States upon such revocation. In the case of permits granted by an owning agency through a disposal agency, revocation thereof may be effected at any time by the owning agency for military or national defense purposes prior to the declaration of such property as surplus without regard to the continuation of any housing emergency and on such lesser period of notice as may be deemed expedient.

(e) That the rights of the State or local governments or their instrumentalities shall be limited to the Government's right of occupancy of the property and that it will assume all obligations imposed upon the Government under any lease, court order, or decree condemning a term, or other instrument of occupancy.

2. Disposal agencies are authorized to make available without monetary consideration to State and local governments and their instrumentalities readily removable structures for the uses and purposes and subject to the terms and conditions set forth in paragraph 1 hereof, Provided, That such structures are, or are to be located, upon land owned by or leased to the United States.

3. Owning agencies may declare such property surplus at any time subject to any rights granted hereunder by permit, lease, or otherwise.

4. Owning and disposal agencies shall prepare and maintain such records as will show full compliance with the provisions of this order and with the applicable provisions of the act. Reports shall be prepared and filed in such manner as may be specified by the Administrator and approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order shall become effective December 5, 1945.

Administrator.

Authority: §§ 8319.1 to 8319.10, inclusive, issued under authority of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, 58 Stat. 765, 50 U.S.C. App. Sup. 1611, and under Pub. Law 181, 79th Cong., 1st Sess.

§ 8319.1 Definitions—(a) Terms defined in act. Terms not defined in paragraph (b) of this section which are defined in the Surplus Property Act of 1944 shall in this part have the meaning given them in the act.

(b) Other terms. (1) "Combat matériel" means ammunition and explosives of all kinds, gases, lethal weapons, fire-control equipment, tanks and similar equipment, and accessories and components of the foregoing.

(2) "Nonprofit educational or charitable institution" means any educational or charitable institution, organization, or association, which has been held exempt from taxation under section 101 (6) of the Internal Revenue Code.

(3) "Reviewing authority" means a local, regional or departmental board of review of a Government agency; it may consist of one or more persons.

(4) "Salvage" means property that is in such a worn, damaged, deteriorated or incomplete condition, or is of such a specialized nature, that it has no reasonable prospect of sale as a unit, but has some value in excess of its basic material content because it may contain serviceable components. Salvage includes used containers and cable reels. It should be noted that property is not "salvage" merely because it is worn, damaged, deteriorated, incomplete, or of a specialized nature.

(5) "Scrap" means property that has no reasonable prospect of sale except for its basic material content.

(6) "State or local government" means any State, territory or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, and any political subdivision or instrumentality thereof.

§ 8319.2 Scope. This part shall apply within the continental United States, its territories and possessions to the destruction or abandonment of any surplus personal property, except records, documents, archives, and confidential papers, and to the donation of any surplus personal property.

§ 8319.3 Findings justifying donation, destruction, or abandonment. Except as to property disposed of under §§ 8319.4 (b), 8319.5, and 8319.7, no property, including scrap, salvage, and waste, shall be donated, destroyed, or abandoned by an owning or disposal agency unless it shall have been affirmatively found either by the appropriate disposal agency or by the owning agency that: (a) such property has no commercial value; or (b) the estimated cost of its care, handling, and disposition would exceed the estimated proceeds of its sale for any purpose. Property shall be deemed to have no commercial value for the purposes of this part if it has no reasonable prospect of sale for any purpose, including sale as scrap, salvage, or otherwise. Such findings shall be reduced to writing by the finding agency. Whenever property proposed to be disposed of hereunder by any agency at any one location at any one time had an original cost (estimated if not known) of more than $1,000, the finding shall be approved by a reviewing authority before any such disposal. Whenever property proposed to be disposed of hereunder by an owning agency at any one location at any one time had an original cost (estimated if not known) of more than $25,000, the concurrence or approval of the appropriate disposal agency in the findings of the owning agency shall be required.

§ 8319.4 Donations under Surplus Property Act of 1944.—(a) Authority to donate. Subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section, a disposal agency or an owning agency may donate property in its possession or control, as to which findings have been made in compliance with the provisions of § 8319.3, to any donees within the following classes: (1) agencies or institutions supported by the Federal Government; (2) agencies or institutions supported by any State or local government; and (3) nonprofit educational or charitable institutions. In making donations of property under this paragraph disposal agencies shall seek the advice of Federal Security Agency to the end that such donations shall to the extent feasible be made to those institutions which are in the greatest need of the property.

(b) American Red Cross property. Any property which was processed, produced, or donated by the American National Red Cross for any Government agency may be donated by an owning or disposal agency to the American National Red Cross upon its request, solely for charitable purposes. No such property shall be disposed of either under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 or under any other law except after notice to and consultation with the American National Red Cross.

(c) Disposal costs. The donating agency shall require any donee to pay all costs of packing and shipping to the donee.

§ 8319.5 Donations of property under laws other than the Surplus Property Act. Donations authorized by laws other than the Surplus Property Act of 1944 may be made by owning agencies, provided that donations under the Act of February 28, 1936 (49 Stat. 1147; 10 U. S. C. 1258), and under the Act of May 23, 1930, as amended by the Act of February 27, 1936 (46 Stat. 378; 49 Stat. 1144; 34 U. S. C. 546c), may be made only with the approval of the Federal Security Agency, subject to a right of appeal to the Surplus Property Administrator. Disposal agencies shall notify the owning agencies of any types of property in short supply which should be excluded from donation programs, and thereafter such property shall be excluded from such programs unless included with the approval of the Surplus Pfoperty Administrator.

§ 8319.6 Abandonment or destruction—(a) Notice of proposed abandonment or destruction. Except as provided in § 8319.7, property shall not be destroyed or abandoned by any owning or disposal agency until thirty (30) days after publication of notice of such proposed destruction or abandonment. Such notice shall contain a general description of the property to be destroyed or abandoned and shall be published once in a newspaper having a general circulation in the area in which the property is located. Such notice shall contain an offering to sell the property or to donate it to eligible donees under § 8319.4. A copy of such notice shall be given to the Surplus Property Administrator at the beginning of such thirty (30) day period. The Surplus Property Administrator finds that such notice will constitute the reasonable efforts required by section 13 (b) of the Surplus Property Act to dispose of such property otherwise than by destruction.

(b) Authority to abandon or destroy. Property, as to which findings have been made in compliance with the provisions of § 8319.3 and notice has been given as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, may be abandoned or destroyed by an owning or disposal agency when such agency shall find that donation pursuant to the provisions of § 8319.4 is not feasible. Such finding shall be reduced to writing by such agency before any such abandonment or destruction is made. Whenever property proposed to be abandoned or destroyed hereunder by any agency at any one location at any one time had an original cost (estimated if not known) of more than $1,000, the finding shall be approved by a reviewing authority before any such abandonment or destruction. No abandonment or destruction shall be made in a manner which is detrimental or dangerous to public health or safety or which will cause an infringement of the rights of other persons.

§ 8319.7 Abandonment or destruction without notice. Property may be abandoned or destroyed by an owning or disposal agency without public notice upon a finding by a responsible officer, approved by a reviewing authority, that the immediate destruction or abandonment of the property is necessary or desirable because of its nature or because of the expense or difficulty of its care and handling. Such abandonment or destruction shall be deemed to be authorized under this section, (a) whenever the value of the property is so little or the cost of its care and handling is so great that its retention for thirty (30) days to advertise for donees is clearly not justified, or (b) whenever abandonment or destruction is required by military necessity or by considerations of health, safety, or security. Such finding shall be reduced to writing by such agency. Whenever property proposed to be destroyed at any one location at any one time had an original cost (estimated if not known) of less than $100, it shall be presumed for the purposes of this section that its immediate destruction or abandonment without notice is justified by reason of the expense or difficulty of its care and handling. The right to abandon or destroy under this section shall not be deemed to preclude the donation of any property as to which appropriate findings have been made.

§ 8319.8 Demilitarization of surplus combat matériel. The Surplus Property Administrator recognizes that combat matériel often must be mutilated, disarmed, or otherwise demilitarized before disposal. In the interest of public health and safety and of national defense, a considerable amount of such property must be rendered innocuous, made unfit for further military use, or stripped of any confidential or secret characteristics. The War Department and the Navy Department in their discretion may mutilate, disarm, or otherwise demilitarize surplus combat matériel. Such demilitarization shall be accomplished in such manner as to preserve so far as possible any civilian utility or commercial value of the property. Any such property which is suitable for civilian use after demilitarization shall be reported to the appropriate disposal agency in accordance with the provisions of Part 8301.[1] Any such property which is not suitable for civilian use after demilitarization but which has commercial value or of which the estimated cost of care, handling, and disposition does not exceed the estimated proceeds, may be disposed of by the owning agency as scrap or salvage in accordance with the provisions of Part 8309.[2] Any such property which has no commercial value after demilitarization, or of which the estimated cost of care, handling, and disposition does exceed the estimated proceeds, shall be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of this part.

§ 8319.9 Regulations by agencies to be reported to the Surplus Property Administrator. Each owning and disposal agency shall file with the Surplus Property Administrator copies of all regulations, orders, and instructions of general applicability which it may issue in furtherance of the provisions, of any of them, of this part.

§ 8319.10 Records and reports. Owning and disposal agencies shall prepare and maintain such records as will show full compliance with the provisions of this part and the applicable provisions of the act. Reports shall be prepared and filed with the Surplus Property Administrator in such manner as may be specified by order issued under this part subject to the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This part shall become effective December 11, 1945.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of August 8, 1917 (40 Stat. 266; 33 U.S.C. 1), the regulations governing the use and navigation of waters of the Atlantic Ocean between Bogue Inlet and Cape Fear, North Carolina, comprising firing ranges of the United States Army and Marine Corps, are hereby modified by the elimination of Sectors Nos. 2, 3, and 4, formerly used by the Anti-Aircraft Artillery Training Center, Camp Davis, North Carolina, the title and regulations being amended to read as follows:

§ 204.55 *Waters of Atlantic Ocean; United States Marine Corps firing range in vicinity of New River Inlet, N. (b) The regulations. (1) Sailing vessels or any watercraft having a speed of less than 5 miles per hour shall keep clear of the danger zone at all times after notice of firing has been given. Any vessel or other watercraft propelled by mechanical power at a speed greater than 5 miles per hour may enter the danger zone without restriction except when the signals described in subparagraphs (4) and (5) below are being displayed. When these signals are displayed, all vessels in the danger zone shall clear immediately and no vessel shall enter the danger zone until the signals indicate that firing has ceased.

(2) Firing over the range will take place during both daylight and nighttime hours, at irregular periods throughout the year.

(3) Two days in advance of the day when firing is scheduled to begin, the Commanding General, Marine Corps Headquarters, Camp Lejeune, will warn the public of the contemplated firing through the public press, the Coast Guard, the Cape Fear Pilots Association at Southport, North Carolina, and the Pilots Association at Morehead City, North Carolina.

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 36—REGULATIONS UNDER SERVICEMEN'S READJUSTMENT ACT OF 1944

AUTHORIZATION OF SUBSISTENCE ALLOWANCE TO VETERANS PURSUING COURSES OF EDUCATION OR TRAINING

To insure expedition in authorizing subsistence allowance to eligible veterans, the following procedures will be observed:

Sec.
36.265 Delegation of authority for authorizing payments.
36.266 Preparation of authorizations.
36.267 Requirement of Certificate of Eligibility and Entitlement, Form 1953.
36.268 Special procedures in certain cases.
36.269 Measures for assuring prompt payment.

AUTHORITY: §§ 36.265 to 36.269, inclusive, issued under 58 Stat. 284; 38 U.S.C. 693.

§ 36.265 Delegation of authority for authorizing payments. Effective immediately, there is hereby delegated to the vocational rehabilitation and education division, field offices, and to the Registration and Research Service, central office, jurisdiction and authority for authorizing the payment of subsistence allowance in the cases of veterans pursuing education or training under Part VIII, Title II, Public No. 346, 78th Congress. Existing issues and instructions in conflict herewith are modified accordingly.

§ 36.266 Preparation of authorizations. Original, amended, and supplemental authorizations of subsistence allowance will be executed on Form 1907c, over the signature of the registration officer in every case, who will be responsible as authorizing officer. Pending revision of Form 1907c, this form will be executed in the manner now provided and in addition the authorization will be entered in the space allocated under "Remarks" stating the name and address of the payee, the amount authorized, the commencement date of the award, and when indicated, the termination date of the award.

(a) These authorizations will be executed in an original and three carbon copies and distributed as follows: (1) The original direct to finance division for payment and thence to the claims file; (2) a copy for the rehabilitation and education file; (3) a copy to the Readjustment Account Control Subdivision, Veterans' Administration, 15th Floor, No. 2 Park Avenue, New York 16, New York, thence to central office, Washington 25, D. C., for filing in the dummy file; (4) a copy direct to the director of budget and planning by air mail at the close of business each day in an envelope bearing a legend "Special Attention, Forms 1907c." (Pending the issuance of a quadruplicate form, the present form may be separated to provide this additional copy which will be overstamped "For Statistical Purposes.")

(b) With original authorizations, there will be prepared a subsistence allowance award account card, Form 1390, with the necessary entries, 3" x 5" payee index card showing the same data as the Form 1390, together with such other records as are required under effective procedure concerning original and supplemental awards.

§ 36.267 Requirement of Certificate of Eligibility and Entitlement, Form 1953. In all cases where the claims file is available in the operating office, subsistence allowance will be authorized in the appropriate amount and as of the appropriate commencement date immediately upon the receipt of an authentic Certificate of Eligibility and Entitlement, Form 1953, properly endorsed by an approved institution showing entrance date of the veteran into a course of education or training.

§ 36.268 Special procedures in certain cases. In the cases of veterans who are pursuing a course of education or training in schools, colleges and universities, the following special procedures will obtain:

(a) Authorization of subsistence allowance will not be withheld because the claims file is not available in the operating office, but authorization will be made in such cases. In the absence of the claims file, immediately upon the receipt of a properly endorsed certificate of eligibility and entitlement in such a case the operating office shall proceed immediately to authorize subsistence allowance at the basic monthly rate of $50 for a full-time course commencing as of the date of the veteran's entrance into education or training as shown by the Form 1953. There shall be prepared in such cases the finance award account card, Form 1390, and there shall be set up a temporary registration card, so identified, and a temporary rehabilitation and education file. Immediately after the completion of authorization for payment, the operating office shall request, by telegram, the transfer of the principal records from the holding office. These temporary registration cards will be reviewed every 60 days until the folder is received. Promptly upon receipt of the claims file and other principal records by transfer from the holding office, a determination will be made in accordance with established criteria and, where indicated, an amended authorization issued. Appropriate entries shall be made upon the original registration card and the temporary registration card destroyed.

(b) Immediately upon receipt of this Instruction, managers of regional offices will notify all approved schools, colleges and universities of this special procedure and caution such institutions to forward without delay Form 1953, and attachments, within 24 hours after the veteran has commenced his training. Managers are directed to arrange with the schools, colleges and universities a special envelope in which these certificates will be forwarded to the regional office so that there may be no delay in the mail room in forwarding the notices of commencement of training to the registration section of the vocational rehabilitation and education division.

§ 36.269 Measures for assuring prompt payment. The purpose of this Instruction is to assure that every veteran will receive his first payment of subsistence allowance within a period of 30 days after commencement of training, except where the amount due for the prior month is less than $5.00, in which event the initial award will be adjusted through the current month. Upon receipt of the award in the finance division, the provisions of Veterans Administration finance procedure relating to payments on original awards are for observance subject to the above exception. The manager of each regional office and Veterans Administration center is directed to so arrange the operations within his office to achieve this purpose. It will be the responsibility of the managers to reassign on-duty personnel or to fill existing vacancies, and to request new or additional positions as may be required.

DEMURRAGE ON REFRIGERATOR CARS

At a session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Division 3, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 7th day of December A. D. 1945.

It appearing, that refrigerator cars are being delayed unduly while held for orders, bill of lading, payment of freight charges, reconsignment, diversion, reshipment, inspection, forwarding directions, loading and unloading, thus impeding and diminishing the use, control, supply, movement, distribution, exchange, interchange, and return of such cars; in the opinion of the Commission an emergency exists requiring immediate action to prevent a shortage of railroad equipment and congestion of traffic. It is ordered, that:

Demurrage charges on refrigerator cars. (a) (1) When demurrage detention occurs, for which charges are or may be lawfully provided by tariffs (subject to modification by service orders), on a refrigerator car held for orders, bill of lading, payment of freight charges, reconsignment, diversion, reshipment, inspection, forwarding directions, loading or unloading, the demurrage charges shown in paragraph (a) (2) of this order shall be applicable in lieu of such tariff charges.

(2) Demurrage charges shall be $11.00 per car per day or a fraction thereof for the first day; $22.00 per car per day or a fraction thereof for the second day; and $44.00 per car per day or a fraction thereof for each succeeding day.

(b) Application—(1) Average agreements. Detention occurring on and after the effective date of this order on all refrigerator cars held for loading or unloading shall not be included in, or computed on the basis of, any average agreement.

(2) Intrastate. The provisions of this order shall apply to intrastate as well as interstate and foreign traffic.

(3) Service orders. The provisions of this order shall not be construed to alter the provisions of Service Order No. 70 (8 F.R. 8515) of February 3, 1942, as amended (8 F.R. 8515) or Revised Service Order No. 112 (9 F.R. 11278–79) of September 11, 1944, or Service Order No. 135 (8 F.R. 9569) as amended (8 F.R. 10941). The provisions of this order shall not apply to detention on refrigerator cars utilized in accordance with the provisions of Service Order No. 104 (8 F.R. 1036) of January 19, 1943, as amended. (8 F.R. 5270, 11852, 12100, 17428; 9 F.R. 947; 10 F.R. 9295)

(4) Computation of demurrage on effective date of order. The number of days a refrigerator car has been held prior to the effective date of this order, counted according to demurrage tariff rules, shall determine the charges applicable on that refrigerator car after the effective date of this order.

(5) Demurrage charges substituted for charges for storage of freight in refrigerator cars. (i) The operation of all tariff rules, regulations, and charges for storage of freight in refrigerator cars at or short of ports consigned or reconsigned for export, coastwise or intercoastal movement is suspended insofar as inconsistent with this order.

(ii) In lieu of the charges for storage of freight in refrigerator cars at or short of ports suspended in subparagraph (5) (i) above, the applicable charges for detention of refrigerator cars held at or short of parts for unloading freight consigned or reconsigned for export, coastwise or intercoastal movement shall be the demurrage charges prescribed in paragraph (a) of this order.

(6) Definition of refrigerator car. The term "refrigerator car" as used herein means freight equipment described under the caption Class "R"—Refrigerator Car Type in the Official Railway Equipment Register.

(c) Extreme weather. (1) During the the period when weather conditions exist as described in Rule 8, section A, Agent B. T. Jones' Tariff I. C. C. No. 3815, the provisions of this order are suspended. In lieu thereof the rules, regulations, and charges provided in lawfully published tariffs shall apply.

(2) When because of rising waters it is not practicable, or because of flood conditions it is impossible for railroads to set refrigerator cars for delivery at the usual places contemplated by lawfully published tariffs, the provisions of this order are suspended on such cars. In lieu thereof the rules, regulations, and charges provided in lawfully published tariffs shall apply.

(d) Effective date. This order shall become effective at 7:00 a m., December 15, 1945.

(e) Expiration date. This order shall expire at 7:00 a. m., February 15, 1946, unless otherwise modified, changed, suspended or annulled by order of this Commission.

(f) Tariff provisions suspended. The operation of all tariff rules, regulations, or charges insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this order is hereby suspended.

(g) Announcement of suspension. Each railroad, or its agent shall publish, file, and post a supplement to each of its tariffs affected thereby, in substantial accordance with the provisions of Rule 9 (k) of the Commission's Tariff Circular No. 20 (§ 141.9 (k) of this chapter) announcing the suspension of the operation of any of the provisions therein, and establishing the substituted provisions set forth herein. (40 Stat. 101, sec. 402, 41 Stat. 476, sec. 4, 54 Stat. 901; 49 U.S.C. 1 (10)–(17))

It is further ordered, that this order shall vacate and supersede Third Revised Service Order No. 180 on the effective date hereof; that a copy of this order and direction shall be served upon each State Commission and upon the Association of American Railroads, Car Service Division, as Agent of the railroads subscribing to the car service and per diem agreement under the terms of that agreement; and that notice of this order be given to the general public by depositing a copy in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. (c) Upon consideration of the joint petition of National Coal Association, United Mine Workers of America, Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and Switchmen's Union of North America, filed November 30, 1945; requesting:

(A) That Docket Nos. G–651, G–664 and G–669 be consolidated for hearing, and if the matters in Docket No. G–231 are to be considered in conjunction with the application in Docket No. G–669, that said Docket No. G–231 be included in such consolidation.

(B) That hearings in the above-entitled proceedings be indefinitely postponed to be reset at the convenience of the Commission after the conclusion and report of the Commission in the Natural Gas Investigation in Docket No. G–580; and

(d) Upon consideration of the petition of Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, filed November 15, seeking leave to intervene in the proceeding In the Matter of Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Company, Docket No. G–669, wherein the petitioner states as follows:

2. The above Applicant, Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Company seeks in the above-styled proceeding a permit authorizing the construction of a natural-gas transportation system, extending from the Hugoton gas field in Hansford County, Texas, to a compressor station site, designated as No. 7 Line Compressor Station on the Fox River some thirty miles east of Joliet, Illinois, thence to a gas storage field in Michigan, with connections from said field to the City of Detroit, together with numerous lateral lines thereto, all as indicated on a map attached to its application herein; including importantly a large lateral line (20-inch diameter) extending from said No. 7 line Compressor Station to the Wisconsin line, with sublaterals therefrom to various municipalities in the State of Wisconsin. The location of said proposed pipeline system, for a distance approximately between Chariton, Iowa, and Joliet, Illinois, runs roughly parallel and within fifty miles from the principal natural gas pipeline system of Petitioner; its said 20-inch lateral line roughly parallels the 20-inch lateral line on Petitioner's pipeline system and reaches the Wisconsin line a short distance from the terminal thereof.

3. Applicant proposes to serve, presently and within the next five years, the following municipalities and market areas now served by Petitioner, that is:

Towns	Counties	States
Moline and Rock Island	Rock Island	Illinois.
Davenport	Scott	Iowa.
Cedar Rapids	Linn	Do.
Ottumwa	Wapello	Do.
Iowa City	Johnson	Do.
Oskaloosa	Mahaska	Do.
Shenandoah	Page	Do.
Red Oak	Montgomery	Do.
Indianola	Warren	Do.
Winterset	Madison	Do.

Applicant proposes to serve, presently and within five years, certain market areas and municipalities in the State of Wisconsin, which lie within service areas economically subject to service by Petitioner's said pipeline system, as same is now constructed or may hereafter be enlarged. Applicant lists market areas subject to service by the proposed pipeline system, some of which areas are either presently served by Petitioner, or are within the service areas properly and economically to be served by Petitioner's natural gas pipeline system.

4. Petitioner states that it did heretofore on February 10, 1942, file with this Commission an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity covering the construction of certain additional facilities and the operation thereof for the delivery and sale of natural gas in the State of Wisconsin, which application has been assigned Docket No. 231; that Petitioner will file with this Commission just as soon as possible an application amendatory of the application heretofore filed in Docket No. G–231 so as to take cognizance of changed conditions which have occurred since the filing of the said prior application.

5. Applicant is therefore a competitor of Petitioner in the proposed transportation and sale of natural gas for which, and the acquisition of facilities therefore, certificate is sought; its participation in the above-styled proceeding may otherwise be in the public interest; Petitioner is entitled, under Section 50.14 of the Provisional Rules of the Commission, to file this petition to intervene therein. The position and interest of Petitioner is to oppose the granting of the certificate sought, to the extent it authorizes the construction of facilities for the transportation and sale of natural gas in markets presently served by Petitioner's pipeline system and service areas properly and economically pertaining thereto, referred to in Docket No. C–231 and the said amendment to be filed therein;

It appears to the Commission that:

(A) On December 3, 1945, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, now joined by Texoma Natural Gas Company, filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, amending the application filed by Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America on February 9, 1942, to construct facilities described in the amended application "to make available at the Illinois-Wisconsin State line quantities of natural gas for delivery to other natural-gas companies which may desire to purchase the same for ultimate delivery to the cities of Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Madison, Janesville, and other cities in the State of Wisconsin, and areas adjacent thereto, * * * this application conditioned, however, on the granting by this Honorable Commission of a certificate of public convenience and necessity substantially as prayed for in said Docket No. G–651."

(B) The application of Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America and Texoma Natural Gas Company, Docket No. G–651, and the application of Chicago District Pipeline Company, Docket No. G–664, each is made contingent upon the granting by the Commission of a certificate of public convenience and necessity in both proceedings, and these applicants have requested that the proceedings be consolidated for purpose of hearing.

(C) The proposed construction and operation of the facilities covered by the application of Michigan-Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, Docket No. G–669, would be utilized in part to supply natural gas to areas now being served by Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America and to areas which Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America proposes to serve if granted certificates of public convenience and necessity in the proceedings in Docket Nos. G–231 and G–651.

(D) The above-docketed proceedings may involve substantially similar issues and facts.

(E) Section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act requires the Commission in all cases, other than proceedings upon "grandfather" applications, to set matters of applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity for hearing and render a decision thereon in accordance with the provisions of section 7 (e).

(F) The coal, railroad, labor, and related interests who have been permitted to intervene in these proceedings will be afforded opportunity to present all evidence relevant and material to the matters involved and the issues presented in the proceedings.

(G) Under the circumstances it is inappropriate to grant the petitions filed herein for continuance of the hearing upon the consolidated proceedings, as hereinafter ordered, until after the completion of the Natural Gas Investigation, Docket No. G–580. Good cause, however, does exist for postponing the hearing in the consolidated proceedings, as hereinafter ordered, to January 8, 1946.

The Commission finds that:

(I) Good cause exists for consolidating all the above-docketed matters for the purpose of hearing thereof.

(II) It is appropriate in the public interest that the hearing in Docket Nos. G–651 and G–664 now set for Chicago, Illinois, on December 10, 1945, be transferred to Washington, D. C., and the date of hearing be changed as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders that:

(1) All of the above-docketed proceedings be and they hereby are consolidated for purposes of hearing.

(2) A public hearing in the consolidated proceedings be held commencing on January 8, 1946, at 10:00 a. m., in the Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., respecting the matters involved and the issues presented in these proceedings.

(3) Interested State Commissions may participate in this hearing as provided in § 67.4 of the provisional rules of practice and regulations under the Natural Gas Act.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

SALES BY AND TO MAIL ORDER HOUSES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to section 21 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 86, It is ordered:

(a) The provisions of sections 18 and 19 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 as they apply to mail order houses and manufacturers who sell private brand machines covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 to mail order houses are modified in the following respects:

(1) Persons making mail order sales to consumers of machines covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 from a mail order catalogue, and who do not customarily furnish mail order purchasers with a sales invoice, may make mail order sales of such machines without supplying such purchasers with a sales invoice.

(2) Persons making mail order sales to consumers of machines covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 from a mail order catalogue are not required to attach any retail ceiling price tag or label to machines sold in that way, provided that the seller's catalogue correctly states that the price shown for the machine is not greater than the seller's OPA retail ceiling price for the particular sale.

(3) A mail order seller who sells private brand machines covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 from retail store outlets must, prior to offering such a machine for sale in any of its retail stores, attach to the machine a tag or label which meets the requirements of section 19 (a) of that regulation.

(4) Manufacturers who sell private brand machines covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 86 to mail order houses are not required to attach any retail ceiling price tag or label to such machines.

SPECIFIED CONSTRUCTION MATERIALS AND REFRACTORIES

An opinion accompanying this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

A new section 7.12 is added to Article VII to read as follows:

SEC. 7.12 Modification of maximum prices for certain deliveries outside a plant's normal market area—(a) Applicability of this section. This section applies to a manufacturer of a product listed in (b), below, only where all of the following criteria are met:

(1) Shipment of the product is being made from a plant to a destination outside the normal marketing area of that plant. As used in this section "normal marketing area" for a plant means the area in which the product was regularly offered for shipment from that plant during the year 1944.

(2) Shipment is being made to an industrial user and not to a purchaser for resale in substantially the same form.

(3) It appears that for reasons beyond the manufacturer's control the product is not available to the purchaser from his normal source of supply.

(4) The manufacturer files the report required by paragraph (d), below.

(b) Products covered by this section. (1) Crude gypsum sold for cement retarder use.

(c) Maximum prices. The maximum price for an out-of-area shipment by a manufacturer who is eligible for treatment under this section shall be a price not in excess of the maximum f. o. b. plant price established under Maximum Price Regulation 592 plus actual freight to the point of destination outside the normal marketing area.

For those plants which sell on a delivered price basis or on a freight equalized or allowed basis, the f. o. b. plant price shall be the average realized price for the product at the plant during the calendar year 1944, computed by dividing sales in dollars after deduction of freight paid or allowed but prior to the deduction of other customary sales discounts or allowances, by the number of physical units sold.

(d) Reports and approvals of maximum prices. Before offering for sale or delivery for the first time a commodity at a maximum price determined under this section, the manufacturer must file a report with the Building Materials Price Branch, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., setting forth the following:

(1) The commodity which is the subject of the proposed out-of-area sale.

(2) Location of plant from which shipment of the commodity is to be made.

(3) The shipping plant's "normal marketing area" (the area in which the product was regularly offered for shipment from that plant during 1944.)

(4) Functional type of purchaser to whom shipment is proposed.

(5) A statement of the reasons why the product is not available to the proposed purchaser from his normal source of supply, and whether this condition is expected to be temporary or permanent.

The proposed determination of maximum prices pursuant to this section shall be deemed to be approved automatically on the expiration of 15 days after the mailing of this report unless within that time the Office of Price Administration notifies the manufacturer that the application of this section is not deemed necessary under the circumstances to maintain supply of the commodity in question.

This amendment shall become effective December 15, 1945.

NOTE: The reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 11th day of December 1945.

CHESTER BOWLES,
Administrator.

[Region IV Order G-4 Under Gen. Order 61]

USED LUMBER IN STATE OF VIRGINIA

For the reasons set forth in the opinion issued simultaneously herewith and under the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of Region IV of the Office of Price Administration by General Order No. 61, it is hereby ordered:

ARTICLE I—COVERAGE OF THIS ORDER

SECTION 1. Products, transactions and area covered. This order applies to sales or purchases by any person of the categories of used lumber for which maximum prices are established in this order, when made for delivery in the following area: All of that area lying within the geographical limits of the State of Virginia.

This order does not apply to sales of used plywood.

ARTICLE II—DEFINITIONS

SEC. 2. Used lumber. Used lumber means lumber and lumber products (except used plywood) which have been recovered from, and were at one time a part of, a building, structure or fabricated item made wholly or partially of lumber.

SEC. 3. Categories of used lumber. Maximum prices are established in this order for the categories of used lumber described below, including such lumber when run to standard or special patterns; but such descriptions are not intended to, and do not, include items customarily produced and sold as moldings, millwork or plywood.

(a) Boards. Used lumber of less than 2" nominal thickness not exceeding 12" in nominal width ("nominal thickness" means thickness of the piece before planing. Actual thickness, after planing to produce an even and uniform surface, is generally ¼" to ⅜" less than nominal thickness).

(b) Dimension. Used lumber of 2" nominal thickness not exceeding 12" in nominal width.

(c) Planks or small timbers. Used lumber of over 2" and up to and including 4" nominal thickness and of 12" or less nominal width; also, nominal thickness over 4" up to and including 6" in all nominal widths up to and including 8".

(d) Large timbers. Used lumber of nominal sizes larger than 6" x 8"; also, nominal thicknesses of more than 2" when wider than 12".

(e) Flooring. Used lumber planed to approximately $^{25}/_{32}$" thickness, and which has tongue and groove or other construction commonly used for flooring.

(f) Scrap lumber is used lumber of any of the other categories described in this section which, because of defects in quality or deficiencies in size, do not meet the grade specifications in section 4.

Plywood, which is exempt from this order, is defined to be three or more thin layers of lumber, glued together with the grain of each layer at an angle to that of the adjoining layer, to form a material having the general characteristics of a thin board.

SEC. 4. Grades. The following are the grades of used lumber referred to in Appendix A.

(a) Grades of boards, dimension, planks and timbers.

(1) First Grade is used lumber in the form of boards, dimension, planks or timbers which are at least 5' in length, and which are sound, strong, of uniform width and thickness, suitable for substantial construction purposes, free from loose or rotten knots, knotholes and rot, and without other defects which might materially impair the strength of the piece, from which all nails, bolts, cement, plaster or other foreign matter have been removed, and which has been surfaced to standard or special patterns.

(2) Secondary grade is used lumber in the form of boards, dimension, planks or timbers, which individually are at least 5' in length, and which though failing to qualify as first grade are reasonably good construction lumber. They must be free from rot, but may contain loose knots, knotholes or other defects which do not interfere with their use for construction purposes, from which all nails, bolts, cement, plaster or other foreign matter have been removed, and which has been surfaced to standard or special patterns. Each piece of used lumber sold as secondary grade must show more than 50 percent of first grade used lumber in lengths of at least 5 feet.

(3) Third grade lumber is used lumber meeting the general requirements of first and/or secondary grades but from which nails, bolts, cement, plaster or other foreign matter have not been removed, and used lumber which does not meet the requirements of first or secondary grades, and which has been surfaced to standard or special patterns.

(b) Grades of flooring. (1) Reclaimed flooring is used flooring of $^{25}/_{32}$" or $^{13}/_{16}$" thickness, entirely free of nails or other foreign matter and with upper face whole or free from voids or splits. A tolerance of ⅛" in thickness will be permitted where flooring is worn or sanded. Not more than 25 percent of the tongue may be missing on any piece nor more than 25 percent of the lower surface representing the upper part of the groove.

(2) Unreclaimed flooring is used flooring which meets the specifications for reclaimed flooring except that nails or other foreign matter have not been removed.

SEC. 5. Persons. The term "person" includes an individual, corporation, partnership, association, or any other organized group of persons, or their legal successors or representatives; the United States, or any government, or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency of the foregoing.

SEC. 6. Sales. "Sale" includes a barter, exchange, lease or transfer, and an agreement or offer to sell, barter, exchange, lease or transfer.

SEC. 7. Established yard. Seller's established yard means premises occupied by the seller for the purpose of regularly and continually maintaining a stock of new and/or used lumber from various unrelated sources of supply.

ARTICLE III—SPECIFIC REQUIREMENTS

SEC. 8. Posting ceiling prices. Every person selling used lumber for delivery in, or from stocks located in, the area covered by this order shall obtain from the Office of Price Administration at least two copies of the price schedule fixed in this order. One copy of such order must be posted and maintained in a prominent place at or near each location in the area where used lumber is offered for sale, in such manner that it can be easily read, and that purchasers can approach it within a distance of two feet. One other copy must be kept available so that it may be shown to and read by any customer at his request.

SEC. 9. Sales slips and receipts. Where a sale of used lumber is covered by this order and the total price of the sale is $5 or more, the seller shall, regardless of his previous practice and whether or not requested by buyers, give to the buyer a sales slip, bill, receipt, or other written evidence of the sale, setting forth the following:

Name and address of seller.
Buyer's name.
Place of delivery.
Location from which stock is sold (seller's yard or site other than seller's yard).
Description of items sold and itemized prices (in terms of categories, grades, lengths, quantities and any other specification affecting the price).
Total price.
Additions (for delivery or other extra).

SEC. 10. Records and reports. Every person who makes a sale of used lumber shall keep a record of such sale showing the name of the buyer and place of delivery, date of the sale, the grades sold, the quantities sold and the price charged in the same detail as required in section 9. Such records shall be kept for a period of 2 years or for the duration of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, whichever be the shorter.

ARTICLE IV—PROHIBITED PRACTICES AND PENALTIES

SEC. 11. Sales of used lumber at higher than maximum prices prohibited. (a) On and after the effective date of this order, regardless of any contract or obligation, no person shall make a sale or delivery of used lumber of the varieties covered by this order and no person shall buy or receive such used lumber under a sale, at prices higher than the maximum prices fixed by this order; and no person shall agree, offer, or attempt to do any of these things.

(b) Prices lower than the maximum prices may, of course, be charged and paid.

SEC. 12. Prohibited practices. Any practice which is designed to get the effect of a higher than ceiling price is as much a violation of this order as a direct over-the-ceiling charge. This applies to changes in credit practices and cash discounts and to devices making use of commissions, services, transportation arrangements, premiums, special privileges, tying-agreements, trade understandings and the like. Such practices include, but are not limited to, the following:

(a) Getting the effect of a higher price by changing the credit practices from what they were in March 1942. This includes decreasing credit periods, or making greater charges for extension of credit.

(b) Refusing to sell except in small quantities, or with or without delivery under circumstances which bring the seller an extra return.

(c) Wrongly grading used lumber for which maximum prices are fixed in this order; or incorrectly or incompletely recording the information required by section 9 to be set forth on the sales slip, receipt or other evidence of sale.

(d) Quoting a gross price above the maximum price, even if accompanied by a discount, the effect of which is to bring the net price below the maximum.

(e) Charging, paying or receiving a commission for the service of procuring, buying, selling, or locating used lumber covered by this order, or for any related service which does not involve actual physical handling of used lumber, if the commission plus the purchase price results in a total payment by the buyer of such used lumber which is higher than the maximum price permitted by this order. For the purpose of this order, a commission is any compensation, however designated, which is paid, wholly or in part, for the procurement of lumber, and which is based directly or indirectly on the quantity, price or value of the lumber in connection with which the service is rendered.

SEC. 13. Penalties. (a) Any person violating any provision of this order is subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, suits for treble damages and proceedings for suspension of license provided for in the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

(b) Any person making a sale of used lumber covered by this order for which the total price is higher than $5 and who either fails to give the buyer a sales slip, paid bill, receipt or other evidence of sale, or although such document is given, fails to set forth in it the information required to be set forth by section 9, so that a determination can be made as to whether or not the price charged was proper, shall be limited to making a charge of $5 per M'BM for all lumber delivered under such sale. The application or enforcement of this provision to a sale or against a seller shall not exclude the application or enforcement of the penalties provided in paragraph (a) of this section.

ARTICLE V.—MAXIMUM PRICES

SEC. 14. Ceiling prices for any category of used lumber for which maximum prices are not fixed in this order are subject to the General Maximum Price Regulation unless subsequently fixed by regional or district order.

SEC. 15. Maximum prices—(a) Local sales out of seller's established yard. The maximum prices set forth in the table appearing in Appendix "A" shall apply to all sales of used lumber of the categories covered by this order, when the used lumber, at the time the order is taken, is part of a stock at the seller's established yard, and delivery is made either at the yard, or by truck, within a radius of thirty miles of such yard. If rail shipment either by the seller or buyer should be made, see paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

(b) Local sales from site other than the seller's established yard. When a sale is made for delivery from stock located at a site other than the seller's established yard, and delivery is made either at the site, or by truck within a radius of thirty miles of such site, the maximum prices applicable to such sale shall be $2.00 per M'BM less than the prices set forth in Appendix "A". If rail shipment either by the seller or buyer should be made, see paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

(c) Other than local sales—(1) When delivery is by truck. When a sale is made for delivery by truck to the buyer at a point located further than thirty miles from the place where the shipment originates, the maximum price applicable to such sale shall be $5 per M'BM less than the price fixed for a local sale from such place under paragraph (a) or (b) above.

(2) When rail transportation is involved. When a sale is made which involves shipment by rail of used lumber, either by the buyer or seller, from the seller's established yard or from a site other than such yard, the maximum price applicable to such sale shall be $5 per M'BM less than the price fixed for a local sale from such place under paragraphs (a) and (b) above.

SEC. 16. Additions for delivery. (a) If the buyer requests delivery within a free delivery zone which the seller recognized during March 1942, the seller may not charge for making the delivery. If delivery is requested and refused, the maximum price must be reduced by the actual cost incurred by the purchaser for making the delivery.

(b) If the buyer requests delivery outside the free delivery zone which the seller recognized during March 1942, the seller may add a charge for delivery as follows:

(1) Where delivery is by common or contract carrier, the actual amount paid to the carrier by the seller may be charged.

(2) Where delivery up to 100 miles is by truck owned or controlled by the seller, the amount added for delivery may not be higher than 10 cents per M'BM for each mile from point of origin to place of delivery, but not for any part of the return trip. When truck delivery over 100 miles is to be made, the addition may not be more than 10 cents per M'BM for each mile from the point of origin to the nearest possible point of rail loading-out plus the amount of rail transportation from there to destination.

(3) A minimum charge of 75 cents may be made on any delivery, where the permissible charges do not amount to 75 cents.

(c) If the buyer elects to take delivery at the site of the lumber or at the seller's established yard, no reduction in price shall be required for that reason. This does not, however, affect the application of the provisions of section 15 (b).

This order may be amended, modified or revoked at any time.

This order shall be effective October 25, 1945.

Issued: October 12, 1945.

ALEXANDER HARRIS,
Regional Administrator.

(b) Authorized maximum prices. Upon and after the effective date of this Order No. G–92, the maximum prices for the Gym Swing, Model No. HPS–1, manufactured by Welch Industries, Inc., of 8000 North Nevada, Colorado Springs, Colorado, in accordance with the specifications set forth in the application of said manufacturer now on file in this Regional Office as a part of the record in this case, shall be as follows:

(2) When sold by any seller to an ultimate consumer or user	25

NOTE: (1) The maximum price as above set forth for sales by the manufacturer to a retailer is subject to a discount of 1% for payment within 10 days from date of invoice.

(11) The above prices are for sales f. o. b. shipping point, and include all costs incident to wrapping, packing, boxing, and carting.

(c) Manufacturer must tag with maximum price at retail level. The manufacturer must attach to each of the Gym Swings in question, by any suitable means, a tag or label plainly marked "Maximum price when sold by any seller to an ultimate consumer or user, $25."

(d) Applicability of other regulations. The maximum prices established by this Order No. G–92 for sales of the commodity in question at the specified levels supersede all other maximum price regulations.

WAR SHIPPING ADMINISTRATION.

NOTICE OF TANKER REDELIVERY PROGRAM

NOVEMBER 2, 1945.

To: All owners of tank vessels under charter to WSA under time charter forms WARSHIPOILTIME (Rev.) 102, (Rev.) Forflag, and (Rev.) New Vessels.

To expedite the redelivery of tank vessels, the Administrator, War Shipping Administration, hereinafter referred to as WSA or as charterer, does hereby offer to each owner the option of settling and compromising certain redelivery claims in accordance with Plan I as hereinafter set forth, provided, such owner elects to accept this option, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, within ten (10) days from the date of receipt of this notice, unless extended by the Administrator.

PLAN I

A. Under this Plan, the charterer, in order to avoid the necessity of removing installations and equipment, the performance of such repairs and restorations as are required under the charter, the delay incident to surveys and adjustments of claims and otherwise to minimize expense by abandoning certain items to the owner and making lump sum settlement of certain of its obligations, offers (a) to convey title to such owner on a "where-is-as-is" basis of certain U. S. Government property as hereinafter more fully set forth which may be on board each such vessel on date of redelivery; and (b) to pay to each owner for each such vessel a lump sum, on the following basis:

(1) Vessels of 12,000 DWT and over—a lump sum as determined in accordance with subparagraph 2 hereof, plus an amount equal to fifteen days' full charter hire (use rate plus service rate) calculated at the rate in effect under the applicable charter on the date of redelivery for each vessel.

(2) (a) The lump sum payable to owners shall be $50,000 for each vessel having a degaussing system installed inside or under the forecastle or inside or under the poop deck, and $44,000 for each vessel with a degaussing system completely on the weather deck, except for the lead-in to the power source and to bridge controls, Provided, however, That said sums shall be adjusted as hereinafter set forth.

(b) The owner, no later than February 1, 1946, or within 10 days after redelivery if the vessel is delivered subsequent thereto, shall, by written notice, elect which of the items listed 1 to 6 herein below it will retain on such vessel, and for each such item that the owner elects to retain an amount corresponding to that set out opposite the specific item below shall be deducted from the lump sum payable to the owner pursuant to subparagraph 2 (a) above; a similar deduction shall be made from the lump sum for each of the items 1 to 6 which were not installed upon such vessel. All items which the owner does not elect to retain shall be removed to the extent set forth in (c) below.

1. Gun foundations, platforms and accessories	$7,000
2. Ammunition magazines, including ventilation trunks, sprinkling systems, and other repairs or removals in connection herewith	2,500
3. Defensing items, excluding degaussing equipment but including additional lighting, splinter protection, additional Coast Guard requirements, etc	10,000
4. Spar decks	7,000
5. Additional life boats, rafts, davits and skids	4,000
6. Gun crew quarters	4,500

(c) Unless an owner has elected to retain all such items 1 to 6 above, it shall, not later than December 31, 1946, submit an affidavit to the Director, Division of Redelivery of Chartered Vessels, War Shipping Administration, Washington, D. C., certifying that it has substantially removed the items it has not elected to retain, or setting forth reasonable cause why the said Director should give additional time for the removal of such items. In the event that the owner has not effected the removal of such items required to be removed within the afore-described period, or within such extended period as the said Director may allow, the owner shall promptly refund to the charterer an amount equal to the sum of those amounts set forth in subparagraph 2 (b) opposite the items whose removal was not accomplished.

"Remove" as used herein shall mean removal to the extent consistent with sound commercial practice, but shall not be construed to require the removal of any installations or portions thereof which are required to be retained or used by any governmental instrumentality, or which were installed during construction as a National Defense feature.

(3) An owner upon whose vessel the charterer has installed cold starting equipment including specially installed 75 k. w. diesel generator set after delivery; (a) shall have the option exercisable upon acceptance of this Plan or upon redelivery of the vessel, whichever occurs later, of purchasing such equipment for $7,000; or (b) if the owner does not exercise such option to purchase it shall, at its expense, completely remove and deliver such cold starting equipment to the charterer at the port of removal, or such other port as may be mutually agreed upon, in consideration whereof the lump sum payable to the owner as computed above shall be increased by $3,000.

(4) As to vessels less than 12,000 DWT but not less than 6,000 DWT, the net lump sum payable to the owner shall be determined as in subparagraph (2) above but shall be reduced at the rate of 1% for each 200 DWT or fraction thereof, and the amount equal to charter hire shall be determined as in subparagraph (1) but shall be reduced at the rate of 1/5 of a day charter hire for each 200 DWT or fraction thereof.

(5) With respect only to those vessels on which all of the work hereunder is accomplished on the West Coast there shall be paid to the owner an additional sum equal to 6% of the sum payable pursuant to subparagraphs (1), (2), (3) (b) or (4) above, exclusive of the amount equal to charter hire. This additional amount shall be paid only upon proof by the owner that all of such work was accomplished on the West Coast.

Provided, however, That in consideration of the foregoing:

(a) The owner agrees to release the United States from all claims of whatsoever kind or nature which it may have against the United States at the time of redelivery with respect to charterer's obligations under the charter or any amendments thereof, or any indemnity agreements made in connection therewith, to repair any damage to the vessel, or to restore the same at time of redelivery (including any obligation to redeliver the vessel with tanks suitable for the carriage of clean cargo) or to pay charter hire for any period of time required to make such repairs or restorations: Provided, however, That such release shall not cover the following:

(1) Damage of the nature covered by WSA form of insurance policy known as WARSHIPREQ Policy (3/25/44), or damage of a non-fortuitous nature resulting from directions or orders of the kind referred to in Section III of Schedule A to such charter, which except for its non-fortuitous nature would have been recoverable under such policy. Such damage shall be determined at first drydocking on or after redelivery or after acceptance of this plan, whichever is later. Regardless of whether caused or contributed to by government orders, nothing in this subparagraph (1) shall be deemed to require the WSA to pay if not recoverable under the insurance policies for damage from ordinary war abuse, including but not limited to improper maintenance, excessive loading, operating vessels at excessive or critical speeds, transportation of injurious cargoes, and wastage of plates because of presence of government structures, installations or otherwise.

(2) Adjustments upon redelivery required by Section B of the First Article of Part III of the Second Disputes Addendum.

(b) The owner and all its subsidiary companies elect, in the manner hereinafter prescribed and within 10 days from receipt of this notice, to accept this Plan I for all tankers covered by the forms of charter hereinabove referred to, except tank vessels (a) whose defense or other government installations have been substantially or wholly removed, as determined by WSA, at the expense of WSA prior to the date of acceptance; (b) redelivered in foreign ports; (c) excluded by special action of the Administrator; and (d) having a DWT capacity of less than 6,000 DWT. All the above excepted classes of vessels shall, unless otherwise agreed, be redelivered in accordance with the terms of the applicable charter.

(c) Except as to redeliveries already effected and vessels in continental United States ports of redelivery at the time of election, redelivery under this plan is to be effective upon arrival of the vessel at a safe berth or anchorage in the port of redelivery if the vessel is in ballast or if loaded upon completion of discharge of cargo. The port of redelivery shall be fixed in the manner prescribed in the charter. Upon such redelivery, the owner will execute a redelivery receipt for each vessel in the form attached as Schedule B, setting forth the effective time of such redelivery.

B. (1) Any owner who desires to accept this Plan I shall signify his acceptance by written or telegraphic communication in substantially the following form, addressed to the Director, Division of Redelivery of Chartered Vessels, War Shipping Administration, Washington, D. C.;

Reference is made to WSA Notice of Tanker Redelivery Program dated November 2, 1945. You are hereby notified that we elect to have our vessels redelivered in accordance with Plan I and that our subsidiary companies are taking parallel action. This communication shall constitute acceptance by us of all terms and conditions of Plan I as outlined in such notice, including the release of claims therein provided for. As to the following vessels heretofore redelivered we desire to purchase the cold starting equipment including the specially installed 75 k. w. generator set.

(2) The acceptance by any owner of Plan I in the manner above prescribed shall constitute a compromise settlement agreement with the United States covering the claims released by the owner as above set forth, but except as modified by such settlement agreement, the terms of the controlling charter party shall not be affected. WSA may, however, reject any acceptance by an owner within ten (10) days from receipt thereof in the event any affiliate company of such owner has failed to accept this Plan I for vessels owned by it.

(3) In the event that the Congress of the United States prior to March 1, 1946, adopts legislation pursuant to which any vessel covered by Plan I is eligible, except for the compromise and settlement provided herein, to be exchanged or traded in as a credit on the price of any vessel to be acquired pursuant to such legislation, the owner by written notice to the WSA may rescind as of the date of election of Plan I the compromise and settlement with respect to any vessel accepted for trade in or exchange pursuant to such legislation. In the event an owner rescinds the compromise and settlement as above provided, the owner shall refund any payments made, but shall nevertheless be bound by the release of claims provided by this Plan.

(4) Notwithstanding redelivery of the vessels under this Plan, the sums payable by the charterer hereunder shall not accrue or become due or payable until March 1, 1946, as to vessels redelivered prior to such date and until the dates of actual redelivery as to vessels subsequently redelivered. Although the formula used in determining the amount of the lump sum settlement involves an element calculated at charter hire rates, it is the fact and intention of the parties that this lump sum settlement is not in payment of articles or services but is in discharge of certain claims under the charter. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to give the WSA or the owner the right to withdraw the offer or acceptance of settlement except in the contingencies elsewhere provided herein.

(5) In the event that any redelivered vessel is lost between the date of redelivery and December 31, 1946, the amount payable to owner shall be reduced by the amounts indicated in paragraph A (2) (b) for the items listed therein, which have not been substantially removed as defined in paragraph A (2) (c) unless deduction therefor has previously been made for such items.

C. In order to minimize expense to the United States it is the policy and intention of the charterer as part of this compromise and settlement agreement to, and it does hereby, abandon and convey title to the owner on a "where-is-as-is" basis to all of the items enumerated in Schedule A and Items 1 to 6, paragraph A (2) (b), inclusive.

Prior to March 1, 1946, or within 30 days after redelivery whichever is later, the charterer shall give written notice to the owner of any Government equipment other than that enumerated in Schedule A and paragraph A (2) (b) which it desires to retain and in the absence of such notice all such property on board shall be deemed abandoned and conveyed to the owner and the owner shall also be entitled to any proceeds from scrapping of such items as part of this compromise and settlement agreement. If, prior to receiving such notice as to any such item; the owner desires to remove or otherwise dispose of such item, the owner shall notify the charterer in writing. Failure by the charterer within 20 days after such notification to advise the owner in writing that it elects to retain such item shall constitute an election to abandon and convey the same to the owner.

If the charterer notifies the owner that it elects to retain any of such equipment the owner shall make the vessel available to the charterer at a time and place mutually agreed and the charterer shall remove such equipment at its expense.

It is understood that there shall be no liability on the part of WSA for maintenance or as a result of the equipment being aboard the vessel, nor shall the owner be responsible to WSA for maintenance or upkeep of the equipment not abandoned by the charterer.

D. This Plan shall not be effective with respect to any vessel which is lost or requisitioned for title before redelivery.

PLAN II

With respect to any owner who does not elect to have his vessels redelivered under Plan I within the time and in the manner herein prescribed or any of whose vessels are excluded from the operation of Plan I redelivery will be effected in accordance with the requirements of the governing charter party, it being the intention of the Administration not to effect redelivery until repairs and restoration which are for the charterer's account have been accomplished at the expense of the United States, without prejudice, however, to the charterer's right in suitable cases to make lump sum tenders in lieu thereof. Every effort shall be made by the charterer to complete the redelivery program at the time contemplated in connection with telegraphic notice of redelivery previously transmitted to each owner. However, because of the congestion of drydock facilities, shortage of surveyors and other factors beyond the control of the charterer, it may be necessary to postpone redelivery dates in certain cases. In such event, charters shall continue in effect until redelivery has been tendered.

In order to minimize the expense to the United States of removal, the charterer offers to abandon and to convey to the owner effective upon redelivery on a "where-is-as-is" basis by groups, the items of equipment and related installations set forth in Schedule C, the owner to agree to release the United States from any and all obligations to remove such equipment and to restore or repair the vessel to the extent necessitated thereby, and to agree that the charterer may apply as a credit against sums due or becoming due to the owner under the charter the amounts set forth against the appropriate groupings under Schedule C, such credit to be noted on the first vouchers filed by the owner after redelivery of each vessel. An owner who does not accept Plan I or any of whose vessels have been excluded from Plan I may have his fleet of vessels (or those excepted from Plan I as the case may be) redelivered to him under this Plan II except as to such vessels as are excepted from this Plan II by the Administrator. As to all vessels other than those excepted by the charterer hereunder any owner electing Plan II shall accept title to the degaussing equipment on each vessel and in consideration of the owner releasing the charterer of the obligation to remove the degaussing and restore the vessel in connection therewith the charterer will pay to the owner a lump sum of $10,000 if the vessels degaussing equipment was installed inside or under the forecastle or inside or under the poop deck, and $4,000 if installed completely on the weather deck except for the lead-in to the power source and to bridge controls.

Any owner who desires to accept this Plan II shall so indicate within ten (10) days from the receipt of this notice by written or telegraphic communication addressed to the Director, Division of Redelivery of Chartered Vessels, War Shipping Administration, Washington, D. C., reading substantially as follows:

Referring to the WSA Notice of Tanker Redelivery Program dated November 2, 1945, we elect to proceed under Plan II thereof, and in that connection accept your offer to transfer to us title to the equipment set forth in Schedule A under Group 1 with respect to all vessels and, as listed hereunder the Groups indicated for the individually named vessels, and agree to the terms and conditions of such offer as set forth under Plan II of such notice, including the release of claims therein provided for. Listing of Groups (in addition to Group 1) for individual vessels follows:

All risks of loss or damage to such equipment is assumed by us from the date of redelivery. This acceptance shall apply only in cases where such equipment is owned by the United States and shall apply to all vessels owned by this company to the extent that such equipment may be found on board of such vessels upon redelivery.

In the event that the Congress of the United States prior to March 1, 1946, adopts legislation pursuant to which any vessel covered by Plan II or exempted from the provisions of Plan I or Plan II would be eligible (except for repairs and restoration upon redelivery accomplished by the charterer or any compromise settlement with respect to the obligations of the charterer to repair and restore the vessel upon redelivery) to be exchanged or traded in as a credit on the price of any vessel to be acquired pursuant to such legislation, the owner may, with respect to any vessel accepted for trade in or exchange pursuant to such legislation, by written notice to the WSA rescind any such compromise settlement as of its effective date or shall, subject to approval of the charterer, be deemed to have accepted redelivery of the vessel as if no such repairs and restoration had been accomplished by the charterer. In the event that such owner gives such written notice to the WSA as above provided, the owner shall be obligated to refund any sums theretofore received on account of any such compromise settlement or, if charterer's approval is given as aforesaid, shall be obligated to pay to the charterer the cost of such repairs and restoration (including such portion of charter hire paid or allowed as is applicable to same). In either such case, the owner shall nevertheless be bound by the release provided in the compromise settlement or by the release provided upon redelivery of the vessel after repairs and restoration.

Administrator.

(c) When CC ratings will be assigned for new trucks. CC ratings may be assigned to orders calling for the delivery of new trucks only when the applicant clearly shows that a rating is necessary to obtain delivery and that he is engaged or intends to engage in the production of an item which the Civilian Production Administration in a published direction to Priorities Regulation 28 has determined to be in such tight supply that it is a serious threat to the economy, and the new truck is essential to maintaining or increasing the production of the item.

(d) Limitation on use of CC ratings. CC ratings may be used only to purchase new trucks from a distributor or dealer. Notwithstanding the provisions of PR-3, a distributor or dealer may not extend a CC rating.

(e) Denials of CC ratings. Even under the conditions of paragraph (c), CC ratings will be denied where it appears that the new truck for which the CC rating is requested is available, but under different terms of sale or from a supplier other than the applicant's customary supplier.

PART 3290—TEXTILE, CLOTHING AND LEATHER

BURLAP

Section 3290.256 Conservation Order M-47 is amended to read as follows:

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of burlap for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 3290.256 Conservation Order M-47—(a) What this order does. This order contains restrictions on the sale, purchase and use of burlap produced in India. The order limits the quantities of burlap which may be obtained for the manufacture of bags and for other purposes. It also places restrictions on the constructions of burlap which may be used for other purposes than making bags. Other orders and regulations of the Civilian Production Administration contain provisions affecting burlap, in particular M-63 which restricts the importation of burlap and M-221 which restricts the manufacture and use of new burlap bags.

(b) Kind of burlap covered by this order. The restrictions of this order apply only to burlap cloth produced in India, plain woven of single yarns of jute, 32 inches or more wide and weighing more than 6 and not more than 16 ounces a yard of cloth 40 inches wide, but not including brattice cloth, linoleum cloth, damaged burlap which is not suitable for the purposes for which it was intended or processed items made from burlap cloth. Whenever the word "burlap" is used in this order, it means only this kind of cloth. This order places no restrictions on buying, selling or using processed items made from burlap cloth.

(c) Buying and selling burlap. No person shall sell or buy burlap for delivery during the fourth quarter of 1945 unless the purchase order bears either the serial number and sequence number of the purchasers' burlap allocation certificate or the certificate specified in paragraph (i). No person shall buy or sell burlap for delivery after December 31, 1945, unless the purchase order bears the certificate specified in paragraph (i). Bag manufacturers, users of burlap for other purposes, and dealers who are authorized to buy burlap under this order may buy burlap from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or its authorized representatives (unless the order is for less than a full bale), from holders of frozen burlap, from other bag manufacturers or from importers or dealers.

(d) Disposition of stockpiled burlap. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation may sell burlap to fill orders from bag manufacturers and other persons if the certificate specified in paragraph (i) is placed on the purchase order, or, for delivery during the fourth quarter of 1945, if the purchase order bears a burlap allocation certificate serial number and sequence number. The Civilian Production Administration may from time to time allocate the supply of stockpiled burlap and specifically direct the quantities, time and manner in which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may make deliveries. The Civilian Production Administration may also direct or prohibit particular uses of burlap.

(e) Burlap for the manufacture of bags—(1) Burlap allocation certificates for 1945. The War Production Board and the Civilian Production Administration have issued burlap allocation certificates for the fourth quarter of 1945. Bag manufacturers may purchase burlap for delivery in that quarter for the manufacture of bags in accordance with the terms of these certificates. Burlap obtained in this way may only be used to make bags.

(2) Automatic allocations for 1946 for holders of burlap allocation certificates. An old bag manufacturer who has received a sequence 17 burlap allocation certificate may buy for delivery in any calendar quarter after December 31, 1945, burlap to be used in the manufacture of bags up to 110 per cent of the quantity specified in his sequence 17 burlap allocation certificate or 100 bales, whichever is greater. A new bag manufacturer who received no sequence 17 burlap allocation certificate but who did receive a sequence 18 burlap allocation certificate may buy for delivery in any calendar quarter after December 31, 1945, burlap to be used in the manufacture of bags up to 110 per cent of the quantity specified in his sequence 18 certificate, or 100 bales whichever is greater. However, the inventory restrictions in paragraph (e) (4) must be observed.

(3) Bag manufacturers without certificates. A manufacturer who did not receive a burlap allocation certificate may apply to the Civilian Production Administration for authorization to purchase burlap for making bags. The application may be filed by letter stating the amount of burlap desired and should include a statement of the facilities available for the manufacture of textile bags, the maximum yardage of textile bagging material which can be processed on his facilities on the basis of a 48-hour week and the minimum yardage of textile bagging material needed for economical operation. Authorizations will be granted on an equitable basis in view of the allocations given to other manufacturers.

(4) Inventory restrictions. No bag manufacturer may buy burlap if his inventory will, by reason of the purchase, exceed a minimum practicable working inventory at his current or scheduled method and rate of operation.

(5) Use of facilities. Burlap received by a bag manufacturer under this paragraph (e) may be manufactured into bags only on facilities owned or operated by him.

(f) Burlap for purposes other than the manufacture of bags—(1) Former users. Any person, including a bag manufacturer, wanting burlap to use for a purpose other than to make bags (including a manufacturer of processed items other than bags which he will sell to others) may buy for delivery in any calendar month up to one forty-eighth of the total quantity of burlap used by him for the same purpose in 1939 and 1940 or 5 bales, whichever is greater. However, he may only buy for this purpose burlap of the following constructions:

32 in. 10 oz./40 inches.
60 in. 10 oz./40 inches.

(2) New users. Any person, including a bag manufacturer, wanting more than 5 bales of burlap a month to use for a purpose other than to make bags but who did not use burlap for that purpose in 1939 and 1940 may apply for an authorization to buy burlap of the constructions listed in paragraph (f) (1). The application should be made by letter, addressed to the Civilian Production Administration, Textile Division, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-47. The letter should state the amount of burlap needed, the purpose for which it will be used, and the number of yards of burlap that the applicant is equipped to use in a month. Authorizations will be granted on an equitable basis in view of the allocations given to other manufacturers.

(3) Acceptance of carload deliveries. If a person is authorized under this paragraph (f) to buy in one month half a carload of burlap or more, but less than a full carload, he may buy a full carload, if his inventory before the delivery does not exceed a 30-day supply at his current or scheduled method and rate of operation.

(4) Inventory restrictions. No user of burlap for purposes other than making bags shall take delivery of burlap which will cause his inventory to exceed a 60-day supply at his current or scheduled method and rate of operation, except that he may take delivery of a full carload under the conditions described in paragraph (f) (3).

(g) Dealers—(1) Purchases to fill orders already received. Any person, including a bag manufacturer, may buy burlap of the constructions listed in paragraph (f) (1) to fill orders already placed with him for purposes other than making bags and bearing the certificate specified in paragraph (i), in addition to the quantities which he may buy under paragraphs (e) and (f).

(2) Purchases of burlap to be held for resale. Any person, including a bag manufacturer, may buy burlap of the constructions listed in paragraph (f) (1) to be held for resale for purposes other than making bags to a person authorized to buy burlap under paragraph (f), if the purchaser places on his purchase order the certificate specified in paragraph (i). Burlap may be bought under this paragraph in addition to the quantities which may be bought under paragraphs (e) and (f). However, no person may take delivery of burlap to be held for resale which will cause his inventory of burlap for resale to exceed 5 bales. However, this restriction does not apply to burlap purchased by an importer under an import authorization granted under Order M-63.

(h) Frozen burlap. A person holding intact bales of burlap on December 11, 1945, which were not acquired under a burlap allocation certificate or an order bearing a preference rating may not sell or use the burlap except as permitted below:

(1) He may sell it to fill purchase orders bearing either the certificate specified in paragraph (i) below, or a burlap allocation certificate number and sequence number (if delivery is to be made before January 1, 1946).

(2) He may use it only in the quantity and for a purpose for which he is authorized to buy that kind of burlap under this order. If he does so, he must reduce the amount he may buy for delivery in any period by the amount of frozen burlap he uses in that period.

(i) Certificate. (1) Any person who places a purchase order for burlap not covered by a burlap allocation certificate must place on the purchase order the following certificate, signed manually or as provided in Priorities Regulation 7:

The undersigned purchaser hereby certifies that he is familiar with Conservation Order M-47 as amended December 11, 1945, and that the burlap covered by this purchase order is being acquired in accordance with paragraph ( ) ( ) of Order M-47 and that the burlap so acquired will be used as provided in that paragraph.

Name of purchaser

By ---
(Duly authorized officer)

The purchaser should insert after the word "paragraph" in the certificate the identifying letter and number of the paragraph under which he is authorized to buy the burlap he is ordering. The standard certificate set forth in Priorities Regulation 7 may not be used instead of this certificate.

(2) A person who has placed the certificate given above on a purchase order must not use the burlap received under the purchase order except for the purpose indicated in the paragraph stated.

(j) Saving clause. Quotas, certificates, directions, allocations and authorizations issued under this order before any amendment of it remain in effect after the amendment unless specifically revoked or amended.

(k) Appeals. An appeal from the provisions of this order may be made by sending a letter in triplicate to the Civilian Production Administration, Textile Division, Washington 25, D. C., Ref.: M-47, referring to the specific provisions from which relief is requested and stating fully the reasons for the appeal.

(l) Applicability of regulations. This order and all transactions affected by it are subject to all applicable regulations of the Civilian Production Administration.

(m) Communications. All communications concerning this order should be addressed to the Civilian Production Administration, Textile Division, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M-47.

(n) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order, or who, in connection with this order wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime, and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. In addition, any such person may be prohibited from making or obtaining further deliveries of, or from processing or using, material under priority control and may be deprived of priorities assistance.

Issued this 11th day of December 1945.

PART 1390—MACHINERY AND TRANSPORTATION EQUIPMENT

[MPR 581, Amdt. 3]

INDUSTRIAL SERVICES

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 581 is amended by adding section 5 (d) to read as follows:

(d) Silver; maximum prices. Where a service includes the sale of silver used in its performance, the seller of such service may add to his maximum price the dollars-and-cents amount by which his cost of silver so supplied has been increased since September 21, 1945, by reason of Amendment No. 1 to Revised Maximum Price Regulation 198—Silver. Where such seller's price was stated as a single rate covering the sale of the silver as well, the additional cost of silver shall be separately stated on the seller's invoices as his additional charge. In computing a rate by formula, the seller shall apply his cost of silver before September 21, 1945, stating the additional cost of silver, if his cost has been increased since that date, as an additional charge as provided above. Where the practice of the service seller was to state separately his charge for the silver furnished with the service, he shall continue to make such separate charge at the current price of the silver not to exceed 71.111 cents per fine troy ounce.

For the purpose of this provision, the terms "cost" or "current cost" of silver shall mean the market price of silver in effect to the service seller at the time he quotes a price for sale, or sells, the service, not to exceed the maximum price of 71.111 cents per fine troy ounce of silver.

This amendment shall become effective December 17, 1945.

Issued this 12th day of December 1945.

Administrator.

[MPR 127,[1] Amdt. 39]

FINISHED PIECE GOODS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Section 1400.82 (g) (1) (v) is amended to read as follows:

(v) Table Ia set forth below may be used on sales of better cotton wash fabrics by (a) a converter whose production of finished piece goods during the years 1939, 1940 and 1941 consisted predominantly of such fabrics: Provided, That on or before December 14, 1942 he shall have filed his name and address with the Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C., certifying that he meets the foregoing qualifications and shall have received written acknowledgment of that fact; and (b) upon specific authorization from the Administrator, by a converter whose production of better cotton wash fabrics during the years 1939, 1940 and 1941 constituted 25% or more of his finished piece goods production if he is currently operating at a loss and, with the same dollar sales volume as he averaged in the years 1936 through 1939, he would currently be operating at a loss.[2] Any converter seeking such an authorization shall file an application for adjustment in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1. The authorization will limit the converters' sales under Table Ia to either 175% of the average of his dollar sales of better cotton wash fabrics during the years 1939, 1940 and 1941 or the same percentage of his finished piece goods production which he sold as better cotton wash fabrics during the years 1939, 1940 or 1941, whichever is higher, calculated on a quarterly basis. "Better cotton wash fabrics" means goods, composed entirely of cotton, which are sold to manufacturers of women's and children's dresses, suits and sportswear and to retail outlets and are of a type that, during the period from August 1, 1941 to September 30, 1941 inclusive, were sold at a price of 27½ cents or more per yard, net after discount.

This amendment shall become effective December 17, 1945.

NOTE: The reporting requirements of this amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 12th day of December 1945.

(2) One frabric shall be deemed "similar" to another fabric if the first is used for the same purpose as, and is regarded as a satisfactory substitute for, the second, affords fairly equivalent serviceability, has approximately the same "handle," finish and appearance: Provided, That only a stock dyed fabric may be deemed "similar" to another stock dyed fabric and only a piece-dyed fabric may be deemed "similar" to another piece-dyed fabric: Provided further, That one fabric in which the blend contains other than woolen fibers shall not be deemed "similar" to a fabric in which the blend is made entirely of woolen fibers: Provided further, That one fabric shall not be deemed "similar" to another fabric if the first differs from the second in respect to any one or more of the following elements of construction in excess of the amount of variance allowed:

Elements of construction:	Amount of variance allowed (percent)
Ends per finished inch	17½
Picks per finished inch	17½

(2) They must have been packed and marked or labeled before shipment in one of these ways:

(i) They may be packed in such packages that they may be sold at retail without further packaging, each package being marked or labeled to show its minimum net weight and the fact that it was shipped by air, or

(ii) They may be individually wrapped in non-reusable, transparent wrappers, each marked to show that the commodities were shipped by air, and packed in shipping containers marked or labeled to show their minimum net weight.

[Region II Basic Order G-3 Under RMPR 251]

INSTALLED INSULATION AND RELATED AND INCIDENTAL CONSTRUCTION WORK IN NEW YORK REGION

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and under the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of Region II by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 as amended, by section 9 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251 and by Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1, it is hereby ordered:

(a) What this order does. This basic order puts into one document the provisions which will be common to all future orders establishing flat (dollars-and-cents) maximum prices for installed insulation and related and incidental construction work in existing structures to be issued by the New York Regional Office, Region II pursuant to the authority contained in section 9 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. The orders to be issued under this basic order are referred to herein as adopting orders and when issued will expressly adopt the provisions of this basic order. The provisions of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251 remain unaffected by this basic order unless and until adopting orders are issued under this basic order. When such adopting orders are issued they will supersede the provisions of sections 6, 7 and 8 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 251 with respect to installed sales of insulation and related and incidental construction work in existing structures in the area covered by such adopting orders.

(b) Transactions covered by this order. This order covers all sales of insulation on an installed basis in existing structures and also includes related and incidental construction work when sold by installers of insulation whether such sale is made as a part of a general contract or not.

The term insulation, includes mineral wool (both modulated and loose), and other loose material including redwood bark, ground newsprint, expanded mica, etc., all types of blankets and batt insulation such as those containing mineral wool, redwood bark, cotton, spun glass, balsam wool, and chemically impregnated wood fiber, but does not include fabricated insulation board.

The term related and incidental construction work means any installation of building materials or construction work other than installed insulation; when sold by installers of insulation.

(c) Relationship of this order and all adopting orders to Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. The provisions of this order, when and if adopting orders are issued, supersede sections 6, 7 and 8 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251 with respect to sales of insulation on an installed basis in existing structures and with respect to related and incidental construction work sold by installers of insulation on an installed basis in existing structures in the areas affected by such adopting orders. All other provisions of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251 are applicable to transactions subject to this order unless otherwise provided in this order or such adopting orders.

On and after the effective date of any adopting order issued under this basic order, regardless of any contract or other obligation, no person shall sell, offer to sell or deliver insulation in existing structures on an installed basis or related and incidental construction work as herein defined in the area covered by such adopting order at prices higher than those established by such adopting order; Provided, however, That deliveries made not more than thirty days after the effective date of any such adopting order on bona fide contracts executed prior to the effective date of such adopting order shall not be considered violations of such adopting order or of this order.

(d) Pricing provisions applicable to adopting orders. The maximum prices to be fixed by adopting orders under this basic order shall be upon a price per square foot basis for insulation in existing structures on an installed basis.

On all sales of insulation on an installed basis in existing structures covered by any adopting order under this basic order, where a machine or crew of two or more workers is engaged and the maximum price of the entire job figured in accordance with such adopting order is $80.00 or less, the seller may add $10.00 to such charge.

(e) Guaranteed price. A seller may sell an insulation job covered by any adopting order issued under this basic order on the basis of a guaranteed price, but such guaranteed price must not be higher than the maximum price figured in accordance with the pricing methods and requirements of the applicable adopting order and of this basic order.

(f) Related and incidental construction work. If on any job, any installed building materials are furnished or any construction performed by the seller, other than insulation on an installed basis in existing structures, the cost of such work shall not be included in the cost of insulation, but shall be separately priced and billed on all invoices. The maximum price of any such related and incidental work shall be determined under Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251.

(g) Measurements. It shall be the seller's responsibility to ascertain that all square foot measurements are accurate. Measurements for exterior walls are to be taken overall, with no deductions for window and door openings of normal dimensions and design. The area of window and/or door openings in sun porch walls, display fronts, glass block areas and similar features, must be deducted. The area of elevator shafts, ventilators, skylights, monitors, and penthouses on flat roofs shall not be included where they are more than 16 square feet in area and extend through the areas to be insulated. Where the exterior walls are of brick and/or stone veneer or solid brick, the area of floors or ceilings to be insulated shall be determined by taking the gross interior dimensions. To the height of walls between the floor and joists add twelve inches for floor seal piling of granulated insulation. Where flat ceilings intersect slopes add six inches for capping. Stairwell walls may be measured as a rectangle from floor to ceiling instead of a triangle. In determining the total square foot area for each type of insulation ordered by the buyer, a tolerance of five percent will be permitted.

(h) Notification. Every person making sales subject to an adopting order issued under this basic order shall, if requested by the purchaser, make available to the purchaser a copy of this order, a copy of the applicable adopting order, and a copy of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. Upon completion of any contract for insulation on an installed basis in existing structures and/or related and incidental construction work, the seller, if requested by the purchaser, must furnish to him an itemized statement showing the number of square feet of insulation, the maximum price per square foot of such insulation, and a separate statement of any related and incidental construction work other than insulation, giving a description of such work and an itemized statement of the prices thereof. The seller shall also include in such statement the date of the transaction, the location of the job, the names and addresses of the seller and buyer and the terms of sale.

(i) Evasion. Any practice or device which results in a higher price to the purchaser of insulation on an installed basis in existing structures and/or related and incidental construction work than is permitted by an applicable adopting order under this order is as much a violation as an outright over ceiling charge and subjects the seller to all the penalties provided by Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251.

(j) Records. All sellers of installed insulation in existing structures and/or related and incidental construction work covered by any adopting order issued under this basic order must keep records concerning each sale subject to such order, including the name and address of the purchaser, the location of the job, the date of the transaction, a description of the materials and services involved, the number of square feet and the price per square foot of insulation, and a separate statement of any related and construction work. All such records shall be made available for inspection by representatives of the Office of Price Administration so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

(k) Recomputation. Within thirty days from the completion of any job covered by this order, which is sold on the basis of a guaranteed price as permitted by paragraph (e) of this order, the seller shall check his price by reviewing the categories and other factors used in his estimate on the basis of the actual services rendered and material furnished and shall determine whether the price quoted, charged or collected is the proper maximum price under this order. In the event that the price quoted, charged or collected is higher than the maximum price computed under the terms of this order, the seller shall reduce his price to the proper maximum price and shall refund to the buyer, within such period of thirty days from the completion of the work, any excess which may have been collected or if no excess has been collected then by written notice to the buyer shall cancel the indebtedness of the buyer for any such excess or both as the case may require. A charge or collection of an amount in excess of the maximum price properly computed in accordance with this order shall not be considered to be a violation of this order if the amount thereof is refunded or credited to the buyer in accordance with this paragraph.

(l) Enforcement. Persons violating any provisions of this order are subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, suits for treble damages, and proceedings for revocation of licenses provided for by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

(m) Revocation or amendment. This order may be revised, amended, revoked or modified at any time by the Office of Price Administration.

An employer paying or about to pay labor rates higher than those in effect for him on the effective date of any adopting order under this basic order by reason of the predetermination of wage rates by the Secretary of Labor under the Davis-Bacon Act or any order or authorization of the Wage Adjustment Board, National War Labor Board, Economic Stabilization Director or any Board or Officer performing the functions of the Boards and Officers above named may file an application for an amendment of such adopting order to reflect such increased labor rates. Such a petition for amendment shall conform in all respects to the provisions of Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1 except that it shall be filed with the New York Regional Office of the Office of Price Administration.

This order shall become effective immediately.

Issued this 4th day of December 1945.

LEO F. GENTNER,
Regional Administrator.

[Region VII Order G–2 Under RMPR 251]

PLUMBING SERVICES AND MATERIALS IN COLORADO

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to the authority vested in the Regional Administrator of Region VII of the Office of Price Administration by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, the Stabilization Act of 1942, as amended, and by section 9 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, It is ordered:

SECTION 1. What this order does. (a) This order fixes maximum prices of plumbing services and sales of installed plumbing materials and equipment by any person, hereinafter called the seller, to any person, hereinafter called the purchaser, in connection with a building, structure or construction project at a fixed site in the State of Colorado.

(b) Definitions. As used in this order, the term:

(1) "Plumbing" means, water, steam, gas, and oil distribution and waste removal systems in connection with a building, structure or construction project at a fixed site;

(2) "Plumbing services" means the services required to install, alter, repair, maintain or remove plumbing materials or equipment into or from a building structure or construction project at a fixed site;

(3) "Sales of installed plumbing materials and equipment" means a transaction in which the seller furnishes plumbing materials and equipment, together with the services required to incorporate such materials or equipment into or remove from a building, structure or a construction project at a fixed site;

(4) "Maximum labor charge" means the amount charged for labor of a specified type or class for plumbing services, made either at a flat rate per hour so as to include a margin for administrative and over-head costs and profit, or as a percentage of the seller's labor cost, which resulting maximum labor charge is also deemed to include a margin for administrative and over-head costs and profit, together with overtime applicable in either case;

(5) "Labor cost" means the wage rates in effect on October 3, 1942, or the wage rates which have been subsequently approved by a Federal wage or stabilization agency, but not more than the wage rate actually paid by the seller as of the effective date of this order;

(6) "Master plumber" means any person who, as owner or supervisor, renders plumbing services and is licensed as a master plumber under the laws of the State of Colorado;

(7) "Journeyman plumber" means any person who renders plumbing services and who is licensed as a journeyman plumber under the laws of the State of Colorado;

(8) "Apprentice plumber" means any person, other than a master plumber or a journeyman plumber who, as his principal occupation renders plumbing services; and

(9) "Helper," "common laborer," or "drain layer," means any person other than a master plumber, journeyman plumber or apprentice plumber who renders plumbing services.

SEC. 2. Geographical applicability. This Order No. G–2 applies only to the State of Colorado.

SEC. 3. Relationship of this order to Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. Except as otherwise provided in this order, this order supersedes sections 6, 7, and 8 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251 with respect to sales covered by this order. All other sections of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, together with all amendments thereto that have been or may be issued shall, except to the extent they are inconsistent with the provisions of this order, apply to sales covered by this order.

SEC. 4. Maximum prices of plumbing services and sales of installed plumbing materials and equipment. The maximum prices of plumbing services covered by this order shall be a maximum labor charge, based on the hourly wage rates as set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, and the maximum prices for sales of installed plumbing materials and equipment covered by this order shall be the sum of the plumbing services involved and the maximum prices of the plumbing materials and equipment, as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section.

(a) Maximum labor charge for plumbing services. (1) The maximum labor charge for plumbing services shall be the straight time hourly rate set forth in Column A or the labor cost per hour multiplied by the percentage in Column B, whichever is lower, as set forth in the following table, together with any applicable overtime:

	Column A—Dollars and cents rate per hour, straight time	Column B—Percent of labor cost
Master plumber, journeyman plumber	$2.50	150
Apprentice plumber	1.25	150
Helper, common laborer, drain layer [2]	1.70	150

[1] In calculating the rate per hour, the nearest figure ending in 0¢ or 5¢ shall be used: The next highest figure may be used if the odd cents figure is 2½¢ or greater. In no instance, however, shall the resulting figure be in excess of the amount shown in Column A.

[2] Whenever plumbers are required to pay a drain layer extra wages for the installation of pipe of more than six inches in diameter (inside measurement) an extra charge of not more than 25¢ per hour may be made for his services for the time he spends in installing such pipe, notwithstanding the limitations set forth in Column A or Column B of this paragraph and an additional charge of 15¢ per hour may be made for motor vehicle expense if the drain layer furnishes his own transportation to and from the job.

(2) Measurement of hours. The number of hours which may be charged against any plumbing job consuming one day or less shall be counted from the time the workman leaves the seller's shop or the previous plumbing job (whichever is later) until he completes the job or proceeds to another job or until he returns to the seller's shop if he proceeds there directly. Whenever any job extends into more than one day, the time in transit to or from the job may be charged only once. The hours for which charges are made shall not exceed those shown in the records which the seller is required to keep under section 9 of this order.

(3) Overtime. (a) When work is performed at the purchaser's request after 12:01 p. m. on Saturday and between the hours of 5 p. m. and 8 a. m. of any other day except Sundays, legal holidays, and on emergency night calls, the maximum labor charge per hour for work during such hours may not be in excess of 150% of the straight time rate authorized in this order.

(b) Where work is performed at the purchaser's request on Sundays, legal holidays designated by the laws of this State, and emergency night calls, the maximum labor charge may not be in excess of 200% of the straight time rate authorized by this order.

(4) Minimum charges. If a plumbing job requires less than one man hour the maximum labor charge may be for one man hour. If any plumbing job takes only three hours or less of any class of labor for completion of a job, a separate charge of not more than 25¢ may be made for the use of an employer's motor vehicle in going to and from the job.

(5) Power driven equipment. If, because of the employment of power driven equipment, maximum hourly rates therefor were in effect during March, 1942, and records are available to substantiate such rates, the same rates may be continued for this type of work, provided such rates are filed with the Denver District Office of the Office of Price Administration.

(6) Self-employed plumber. A self-employed plumber, who performs plumbing services himself, and is licensed under the laws of the State of Colorado as a master plumber or a journeyman plumber, make take as his labor cost the labor cost applicable to a master plumber or a journeyman plumber, otherwise he make take as his labor cost the rate applicable to an apprentice plumber, helper or common laborer, whichever is higher.

(7) Maximum labor charges for combination work. The maximum labor charge for any combination of master plumber, journeyman plumber, apprentice, helper, common laborer or drain layer, may not exceed the total of the maximum hourly rates of each of the types or classes of labor for which maximum charges are provided in this order.

(8) Out of town travel expense. The seller who furnishes men on an out of town plumbing job shall be reimbursed to the extent of the amount he shall have to pay for travel expenses and subsistence where the job necessitates the men being away from their homes. This item shall be explained to the purchaser prior to commencing the job and shall be invoiced separately. Subsistence may not be collected unless the seller actually pays the employee such travel expenses.

(b) Maximum prices of plumbing materials and equipment. The maximum prices which may be charged by any seller of plumbing materials and equipment shall not be in excess of the seller's cost plus the percentage herein specified: (The seller's cost of materials and equipment shall be deemed to be the wholesale net price lawfully charged the plumbing trade for limited quantities of such materials and equipment by established wholesale plumbing supply firms nearest his place of business, based on their published price lists, together with the actual transportation charges paid therefor by the seller but not in excess of the common carrier rate from the nearest point of supply. If the materials and equipment being sold are marked by a manufacturer's label containing the approved OPA retail ceiling price for sales of the commodity by a seller, a seller of such materials and equipment under this order may charge the price marked on the label in lieu of the stated percentage markup herein specified but in no event may the seller charge more than the price marked on the label).

	Percent
(1) Equipment (fixtures, hot water tanks, heaters, and similar equipment)	33⅓
(2) Materials (pipe, pipe fittings, valves, hangers, lead, and similar materials)	50

Where work such as drain laying, excavating, pipe covering, sheet metal ducts, and similar work is sub-contracted by a seller under this order, the seller may charge the purchaser the amount of such sub-contracted work plus a mark-up of not more than 10%.

SEC. 5. Maximum prices of plumbing services and sales of installed materials and equipment in excess of $250.00. The maximum prices of plumbing services and of installed plumbing materials and equipment for plumbing jobs in excess of $250.00 shall be calculated under section 7 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251.

SEC. 6. Guaranteed price. A seller may sell a plumbing job covered by this order on the basis of a guaranteed price but such guaranteed price shall not be higher than the maximum price figured in accordance with the pricing methods and requirements of this order.

SEC. 7. Related and incidental construction work. If on any plumbing job, any installed building materials are furnished or any construction services are performed by the seller for which maximum prices are not fixed by this order, such materials and services shall be separately priced and billed on all invoices and sales slips. The maximum prices for such related and incidental work shall be determined under Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, or as fixed by any applicable area pricing order issued by the Regional Administrator of Region VII.

SEC. 8. Notification. (a) Each seller making a sale covered by this order shall, upon completion of the work, furnish to the purchaser a statement, and keep a copy thereof at his principal place of business, showing the following:

(1) The names and addresses of the seller and purchaser.

(2) The location of the job.

(3) The date the job was completed.

(4) A description of the work performed and the total charged for the job, including both plumbing services and sale of installed plumbing materials and equipment, and a separate statement of the related and incidental construction work performed, as provided in section 7 of this order.

(b) If requested by the purchaser, the seller shall furnish the purchaser an itemized statement showing the information contained in subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3) of paragraph (a) of this section, together with an itemized statement showing the maximum labor charges for plumbing services for each type or class of labor performed and the hourly rates charged therefor, together with an itemized statement of the installed plumbing materials and equipment and the quantities and prices of each, and a separate itemized statement of any related and incidental construction work performed, as provided in section 7 of this order. A copy of any such statements so furnished shall be kept by the seller at his principal place of business.

(c) Each seller making a sale covered by this order shall, if requested by the purchaser, make available to the purchaser a copy of this order and a copy of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. Copies for this purpose may be obtained from the office of the Regional Administrator or from the District Office of the Office of Price Administration.

SEC. 9. Records. Each seller must keep and retain, at his principal place of business, records concerning each sale covered by this order, showing the following:

(1) The name and address of the purchaser.

(2) The location of the job.

(3) A copy of any and all contracts pertaining to each sale.

(4) The time the job was commenced and completed.

(5) A description of the plumbing services and installed plumbing materials and equipment involved, and the quantities and prices of each.

(6) The hours worked and labor charges by types and classes of labor.

(7) A separate itemized statement of any related and incidental construction work and the prices charged for such work.

SEC. 10. Filing and reporting of maximum prices. Each seller subject to this order shall, within thirty days after the effective date of this order, or in the case of new sellers within ten days after first entering business, file with the Denver District Office of the Office of Price Administration the following information:

(1) The "maximum labor charge" as that term is defined in section 1 (b) (4) of this order, in terms of the straight time hourly rate to be charged the purchaser for plumbing services for each class of workmen, as of the effective date of this order.

(2) The "labor cost", as that term is defined in section 1 (b) (5) of this order, in terms of the straight time hourly rate paid each class of workmen by the seller, as of the effective date of this order.

(3) The maximum percentage markups on costs of materials, equipment and work sub-contracted, not in excess of the markups permitted by section 4 of this order.

(4) A description and list of all power driven equipment, and the maximum hourly charges therefor, which were in effect in March 1942.

SEC. 11. Prohibitions against sales at higher than maximum prices. On and after the effective date of this order, regardless of any contract or other obligation, no person shall sell or offer to sell plumbing services or plumbing materials and equipment on an installed basis, or both, covered by this order at prices higher than the maximum prices established by this order: Provided, That plumbing services performed or installations made not more than thirty days after the effective date of this order on bona fide contracts executed prior to the effective date of this order shall not be considered to be violations of this order.

SEC. 12. Evasions. (a) Any practice, scheme or device which results in a higher price to the purchaser of plumbing services or installed plumbing materials and equipment than is permitted by this order shall be deemed a violation of this order and subjects the seller to all the civil liabilities and the criminal penalties provided by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended and extended.

(b) No seller shall, as a part of the consideration or as a condition of a sale of any of the plumbing services or installed plumbing materials and equipment covered by this order, secretly or otherwise receive, either directly or indirectly, any side payment, commission, fee, consideration or other thing of value whatsoever nor shall the seller, either directly or indirectly, acquire or receive the benefit of any services, transportation agreements, or other valuable thing, material or property.

(c) No seller shall eliminate or reduce in any form or manner any maintenance or repair service customarily offered or performed as a part of plumbing services or installed plumbing materials and equipment nor shall the seller lower the quality of the materials furnished below that called for by the specifications or agreement.

(d) No seller shall, by any of the foregoing plans, schemes or devices, or by any other plan, scheme or device, receive or acquire or attempt to receive or acquire anything of value, service, valuable right, property or property right, money or other consideration whatsoever in addition to the maximum prices established in this order for the sale of any plumbing services or installed plumbing materials and equipment.

SEC. 13. Less than maximum prices. Prices lower than the maximum prices for sales covered by this order may, of course, be charged and paid.

SEC. 14. Licensing. The provisions of Licensing Order No. 1, licensing all persons who make sales under price control, are applicable to all sellers subject to this order. A seller's license may be suspended for violation of the license or of one or more applicable price schedules or regulations. A person whose license is suspended may not, during the period of suspension, make any sale for which his license has been suspended.

This Order No. G–2 shall become effective December 1, 1945.

Issued this 26th day of November 1945.

SEC. 7. Measurements. It shall be the seller's responsibility to measure with reasonable accuracy the area or footage to be covered. A "measurement with reasonable accuracy" shall be considered to have been made if the price based on such estimate does not vary more than 10% from the maximum price computed under the terms of this order, on the basis of the actual measurement.

(c) Each seller making a sale covered by this order shall, if requested by the purchaser, make available to the purchaser a copy of this order and a copy of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251. Copies for this purpose may be obtained from the office of the Regional Administrator or from the District Office of the Office of Price Administration.

(8) A separate itemized statement of any related and incidental construction work and the prices charged for such work.

All such records shall be kept and made available for inspection by representatives of the Office of Price Administration so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

SEC. 10. Evasions. (a) Any practice, scheme or device which results in a higher price to the purchaser of re-siding materials on an installed basis than is permitted by this order shall be deemed a violation of this order and subjects the seller to all the civil liabilities and the criminal penalties provided by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

(b) No seller shall, as a part of the consideration or as a condition of a sale of any of the re-siding materials on an installed basis covered by this order, secretly or otherwise receive, either directly or indirectly, any side payment, commission, fee, consideration or other thing of value whatsoever nor shall the seller, either directly or indirectly, acquire or receive the benefit of any services, transportation agreements, or other valuable thing, material or property.

(c) No seller shall eliminate or reduce in any form or manner any maintenance or repair service customarily offered or performed as a part of a re-siding job, nor shall the seller lower the quality of the materials furnished below that called for by the specifications or agreement.

(d) No seller shall, by any of the foregoing plans, schemes, or devices, receive or acquire or attempt to receive or acquire anything of value, service, valuable right, property or property right, money or any other consideration whatsoever in addition to the maximum prices established in this order for the sale of any re-siding materials on an installed basis.

SEC. 11. Less than maximum prices. Prices lower than the maximum prices for sales covered by this order may, of course, be charged and paid.

SEC. 12. Licensing. The provisions of Licensing Order No. 1, licensing all persons who make sales under price control, are applicable to all sellers subject to this order. A seller's license may be suspended for violation of the license or of one or more applicable price schedules or regulations. A person whose license is suspended may not, during the period of suspension, make any sale for which his license has been suspended.

(b) Maximum prices. The maximum price for such sheet metal services shall be the sum of a charge for labor, a charge for the materials used, and such other charges as may be permitted by this order. The maximum charge for labor shall be the sum of separate charges determined by multiplying the number of hours of labor performed in each category by the maximum hourly rate provided for that category by paragraph (b) (1). The maximum price of the materials used shall be as is provided by subparagraph (b) (2). The maximum prices established by this order include all expenses and no additional charge shall be made for any other cost or incidental service except as may be permitted by this order.

(1) Labor charges. (i) The maximum hourly rate shall be the following:

(ii) Measurement of hours. The total number of hours per workman chargeable against any job is to be computed from the time such workman leaves the seller's shop or the previous job (whichever is later) until he completes the job (if he proceeds to another job) or until he returns to the shop (if he proceeds there directly), excluding, however, any stops or delays in transit. For any job extending into more than one day, time in transit to and from the job may be charged only once. The hours for which charges are made shall not exceed those shown in the seller's payroll nor those shown on any records or invoices which this order may require the seller to prepare, issue, or keep.

(iii) Overtime work may be charged for at the rate of one and one-half times the rate provided above, but only if performed at the customer's request and only if the employee (if any) is paid on an overtime basis and only if the work is performed on Saturday, Sunday, a legal holiday, or after the performance of eight hours of straight time work on a given day and before 8:00 a. m. of the following day.

(iv) Minimum charge. The minimum charge for any job shall be $2.50.

(2) Materials—(i) In general. The maximum price of any materials used other than those specified in subparagraph (ii) below, shall be the first of the following applicable to such materials:

Except to the extent they are inconsistent with the provisions of this order, however, all other sections of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251, together with all amendments thereto that have been or may be issued, shall apply to sales covered by this order. As to such services it also supersedes any other order issued under section 9 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation No. 251.

OFFICE OF STABILIZATION ADMINISTRATOR.

[Order 1 Under § 4001.306]

PROPOSED WAGE INCREASES

The Civilian Production Administration, the United States Employment Service, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor have submitted certain information and recommendations to me with respect to production requirements for cast iron soil pipe and with respect to the necessity for recruitment of additional manpower in the cast iron soil pipe industry. After careful consideration, I hereby find:

(a) That adequate production of cast iron soil pipe is of critical importance to adequate production in the construction industry;

(b) That a high level of construction activity is of critical importance to the reconversion program;

(c) That present supplies of cast iron soil pipe are substantially below current and prospective requirements;

(d) That present and anticipated production of cast iron soil pipe will not achieve minimum production requirements for 1946;

(e) That there appears to be a serious shortage of manpower in the cast iron soil pipe industry, and that the industry appears to be unable to recruit the manpower necessary to achieve adequate production;

(f) That information supplied to me by the United States Employment Service, the Civilian Production Administration, and the Bureau of Labor Statistics justifies an inquiry to determine whether an increase in wage rates is necessary to make possible, and would be effective in making possible, the recruitment of needed manpower in the cast iron soil pipe industry.

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Stabilization Act of 1942, as amended, and by Executive Order 9250 of October 3, 1942 (7 F.R. 7871), Executive Order 9328 of April 8, 1943 (8 F.R. 4681), Executive Order 9599 of August 18, 1945 (10 F.R. 10155), Executive Order 9620 of September 20, 1945 (10 F.R. 12033), the directive of October 13, 1945, issued by the Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion (10 F.R. 12812), and Executive Order 9651 (10 F.R. 13487), and in accordance with § 4001.306 of these regulations; It is hereby ordered:

(1) The National War Labor Board is authorized and directed to entertain applications under these regulations and under the orders and regulations of the Board for approval of wage increases in the cast iron soil pipe industry. For the purposes of this Order the Board is authorized to entertain such applications without regard to the conditions of § 4001.308 of these regulations.

(2) Upon the filing of an application authorized by paragraph (1) the National War Labor Board shall take appropriate action to determine whether an increase in wage rates is necessary to make possible, and will be effective in making possible, the recruitment of needed manpower. The Board may make this determination with respect to the segment of the industry represented by a single application or, in its discretion, with respect to a larger proportion of the industry or with respect to the entire industry.

(3) If the National War Labor Board determines that increased wage rates in the industry, or in an appropriate segment of the industry, are necessary to recruitment of needed manpower, and will be effective in making possible recruitment of needed manpower, the Board shall approve such increases in wage rates as it finds appropriate. If the Board determines that increased wage rates are not necessary to recruitment of needed manpower, or that increased wage rates will not be effective in making recruitment of needed manpower possible, and if it determines that the increases applied for are not approvable under §§ 4001.303 to 4001.305 of these regulations, it shall deny the application or applications. The determination of the Board shall be final and conclusive and, in the event that any wage increase is approved, the increase shall be deemed to be approved also by the Stabilization Administrator.

(4) The Price Administrator is directed to conduct a prompt study of the cast iron soil pipe industry for the purpose of determining whether increases in ceiling prices will be required if wage increases in the industry are approved by the National War Labor Board.

Issued and effective this 11th day of December 1945.

Stabilization Administrator.

TRANSPORTATION OF CERTAIN ALIENS

Pursuant to section 3 (b) of the Trading with the Enemy Act of October 6, 1917 (40 Stat. 412; 50 U.S.C., App., 3b) and section XXVII of Executive Order 2729–A, of October 12, 1917, §§ 22.2, 22.3 and 22.8 of Part 22 of Title 22 of the Code of Federal Regulations issued on March 5, 1943, are hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 22.2 General license for transportation. A general license is hereby granted, authorizing for the purpose of section 3 (b) of the Trading with the Enemy Act:

(a) The transportation of any citizen or subject of an enemy nation or ally-of-an-enemy nation, from any point within the United States to any point outside of the United States: Provided, That such citizen or subject has a valid permit to depart, a valid exit visa, a valid border-crossing identification card issued on or after December 7, 1941, or a valid re-entry permit issued with the concurrence of the Secretary of State as to destination, or that he is exempted under § 58.23 of this chapter (10 F.R. 5896), and any amendments thereof, from the necessity of obtaining a permit to depart: Provided further, however, That if such citizen or subject obtains a permit to depart, an exit visa, a border-crossing identification card, or a re-entry permit, the license hereby granted shall extend only to transportation to the destination for which such documents were granted, or the destination specified therein.

(b) The transportation of any citizen or subject of an enemy nation or ally-of-an-enemy nation, who has a valid permit to enter the United States issued on or after December 7, 1941, or who is exempted under § 58.44 or § 58.45 of this chapter (10 F.R. 8997), or any amendments thereof, from the necessity of obtaining a permit to enter: Provided, That such transportation shall be from a point outside the United States to a point in the United States in the ordinary course of the alien's journey, and shall not include travel over, to, or through the Panama Canal Zone, or over, to, or through any restricted military or naval area, unless permission to travel through the Panama Canal Zone or other such restricted military or naval area shall have been procured from the appropriate authorities of the United States.

PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATION OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

[Priorities Reg. 13, Direction 5]

DISPOSAL OF CERTAIN SURPLUS NYLON FABRIC FOR USE AS LININGS FOR LOW-COST WOOL ITEMS

The following direction is issued pursuant to PR 13:

(a) Effect of this direction. There is urgent need for fabric suitable for use as lining material for low cost civilian apparel wool items being produced with priorities assistance under the special program provided by Schedule K of CPA Order M-328B, since rayon lining fabric is not readily obtainable in sufficient quantities from new production.

The purpose of this direction is to make available, for use only as lining material for such wool items, a supply of nylon cloth (parachute type, white and camouflage) now held by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as surplus property under Declaration 11122, Items 10 and 11, amounting to about 4,500,000 yards. It permits sales of such nylon fabric to be made by RFC in either of these ways only: The fabric may be sold to manufacturers of such wool items who have obtained CC ratings under PR-28 for lining material for use in such wool items; or the fabric may be sold to finished goods suppliers for resale to such manufacturers only.

Although this direction restricts sales to persons who will use or dispose of the fabric for the purposes specified, it does not prohibit RFC from making sales, to the persons and for the purposes specified, upon such other terms and in such quantities as RFC may determine; and preference ratings have no effect upon any sales which may be made by RFC, either by way of obliging it to sell or by way of determining, as among the several buyers permitted by this direction, who shall get the nylon fabric from RFC. (This does not relieve any person, other than RFC, from giving priority to rated orders for such fabric.)

(b) Persons who may purchase.—(1) From RFC. No person may buy from RFC any of the surplus nylon fabric referred to in paragraph (a) above, and RFC may not sell any of such fabric, except where the purchaser is a manufacturer of wool items who has received priorities assistance under Schedule K of Order M-328B, has been assigned a CC rating under Priorities Regulation 28 for lining fabric for use in such wool items, and gives a certificate with his purchase order in the form described in paragraph (c) (1) below, or where the purchaser is a finished goods supplier who purchases for resale to such manufacturers and gives a certificate with his purchase order in the form described in paragraph (c) (2) below.

(2) From finished goods suppliers. A finished goods supplier to whom RFC sells any of the surplus nylon fabric referred to in paragraph (a) above may not sell or deliver any of such fabric (either in the form in which received or after further finishing), and no person may buy or receive any of such fabric from a finished goods supplier, except where the purchaser is a manufacturer of wool items who has received priorities assistance under Schedule K of Order M-328B, has been assigned a CC rating under PR-28 for lining fabric for use in such wool items, and gives a certificate with his purchase order in the form described in paragraph (c) (1) below.

(c) Certifications.—(1) By apparel manufacturers. An apparel manufacturer who is producing wool items with preference rating assistance under the conditions described in paragraph (b) (1) and (b) (2) above, must give substantially the following certificate with his purchase order to RFC or to a finished goods supplier (as the case may be):

"The undersigned certifies to the seller and CPA, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the United States Criminal Code, that (i) he is a manufacturer of wool items with priorities assistance under Schedule K of CPA Order M-328B, and has been assigned a CC rating under PR-28 of the CPA to get lining fabric for use in such wool items; (ii) the fabric obtained under this purchase order will be used only as linings in such wool items; and (iii) the quantity of fabric being purchased, together with the quantity of other lining fabric ordered with the rating and received or promised for delivery by the end of December 1945, will not exceed the total quantity for which the rating was granted."

(2) By finished goods suppliers. Any finished goods supplier to whom RFC sells any of the surplus nylon fabric referred to in paragraph (a) above, must give substantially the following certificate with his purchase order to RFC:

"The undersigned certifies to the seller and CPA, subject to the criminal penalties of section 35 (A) of the United States Criminal Code, that (i) he is a finished goods supplier; and (ii) he will dispose of the nylon fabric covered by this purchase order (either in the form received, or after further finishing) only to persons who give him with their purchase orders the certificate described in paragraph (c) (1) of Direction 5 to PR-13 of CPA."

(3) Obligations of persons giving certificates. Any person giving either of the certificates described above may obtain, use or dispose of the fabric he gets with the certificate only in accordance with its terms.

(4) Use of other certificates. The standard certification in Priorities Regulation 7 may not be used instead of the certificates referred to above. (An apparel manufacturer ordering any of the nylon fabric from a finished goods supplier with the certificate required for the use of a preference rating must also give the certificate in paragraph (c) (1) above, to get any of the nylon fabric dealt with by this direction.)

(d) Expiration date. Unless sooner revoked, this direction shall expire at the end of March 1946; but its expiration at that time shall not relieve any person who has obtained nylon fabric by use of either of the certificates referred to above, from the obligation of using or disposing of the fabric in accordance with the certificate which he has given.

PART 1439—UNPROCESSED AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

[MPR 426,[1] Amdt. 155]

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES FOR TABLE USE, SALES EXCEPT AT RETAIL

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment has been issued and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Maximum Price Regulation 426 is amended in the following respects:

1. Section 5a is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 5a. Special provisions for sales of gift packages and produce to be used in gift packages.—(a) Exempt sales of gift packages. Sales and deliveries of gift packages (as defined in section 8) are exempt from this regulation if all of the following conditions are satisfied:

(1) The sale is made by the packer of the gift package to an ultimate consumer; and

(2) The order is taken directly by the packer from the consumer and not through any agent except a regularly paid employee, and delivery is made directly by the packer and not through any agent except a regularly paid employee or a carrier; and

(3) The sale provides for delivery of not more than five packages in one lot to any one person.

(b) Exempt sales of produce to be used in gift packages. Sales of produce to packers of gift packages are exempt from this regulation if the produce sold is to be used and resold in gift packages. However, within five days after each purchase that is exempt under this paragraph, the buyer shall file an affidavit with the Regional Office of the Office of Price Administration for the Region in which he has his principal place of business giving the following facts:

(1) His name and address;
(2) The seller's name and address;
(3) The date of the purchase;
(4) The quantity of and a description of the produce purchased; and
(5) A statement that the produce was bought for use and resale in gift packages.

(c) Maximum prices for packers' sales of gift packages. For a sale of gift packages not exempted by this regulation made by a person who packed any of the packages, the maximum price is the maximum price (if any) prescribed by Maximum Price Regulation 421, 422 or 423. If none of those regulations applies, the maximum price depends upon his "base price"; figured as follows: he determines the actual cost to him (not to exceed the legal cost) of the packaging materials, containers and any items in the package to which no maximum prices would apply if he sold them separately. To that cost, he adds the sum of the maximum prices that would apply to the rest of the items if he sold them separately.

(1) If the packer would be a service wholesaler, as defined in the Appendices to this regulation, as to each produce item in the package if he sold it separately, his maximum price is 110% of his base price.

(2) If sub-paragraph (1) does not apply to the packer and if he is regularly engaged in the business of selling produce at country shipping points, terminal markets and other wholesale receiving points and shipping to terminal markets and other wholesale receiving points, either in person or through salaried representatives, brokers, auctioneers or other agents and if he does not make more than 25% by volume of his sales to any person other than a government procurement agency in the current year, his maximum price is 107% of his base price.

(3) If subparagraphs (1) and (2) are both inapplicable to the packer and if he makes the sale in less-than-carlots or less-than-trucklots through an agent who for a commission or fee receives the packages, unloads them from the car, truck or other conveyance and sells them from his store or warehouse for the account of the packer, the packer's maximum price is 105% of his base price plus the lowest of the following amounts: (i) the agent's actual commission or fee, (ii) the agent's maximum commission or fee under Revised Maximum Price Regulation 165 or (iii) 5% of the base price.

(4) If subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) are all inapplicable to the packer and if he makes the sale through an agent who charges him a commission or fee, the packer's maximum price is 105% of his base price plus the lowest of the following amounts: (i) the agent's actual commission or fee, (ii) the agent's maximum commission or fee under Revised Maximum Price Regulation 165 or (iii) 2% of the base price.

(5) If subparagraphs (1), (2), (3) and (4) are all inapplicable to the packer, his maximum price is 105% of his base price.

(d) Maximum prices for other sales of gift packages. For a sale of gift packages not exempted by this regulation made by a person who did not pack any of the packages, the maximum price is the maximum price (if any) prescribed by Maximum Price Regulation 421, 422 or 423. If none of those regulations applies, the maximum price is 110% of the packer's maximum price.

2. Section 8 (a) (3) is amended to read as follows:

(3) "Ultimate consumer" is a person who purchases fresh fruits or vegetables for table use, for home processing, for use as a gift or for other personal use.

3. Section 8 (a) (17) is added to read as follows:

(17) "Gift package" in this regulation means either (i) a container, other than a standard container or part of a standard container, which is specially made, wrapped or otherwise particularly adapted for use as a gift and which contains specially packed items at least one of which is subject to price control under this regulation; or (ii) any container not larger than a standard container which contains specially packed items at least one of which is subject to price control under this regulation; whether or not, in either case, the produce is mixed with other items such as nuts, jams, preserves and glace fruits.

4. In section 15, Appendix I, paragraph (a), the next to last sentence is amended to read as follows:

Sales by growers or country shippers of five containers (not larger than a "standard" box) or less of citrus fruits in any one lot by mail or express to any one ultimate consumer shall be exempt from the provisions of this regulation; however, this provision does not apply to "gift packages" (see section 5a).

5. In section 15, Appendix J, paragraph (a), the next to last sentence is amended to read as follows:

However, this exemption does not apply to "gift packages" (see section 5a).

6. In section 15, Appendix K, paragraph (a), the last sentence is amended to read as follows:

However, this exemption does not apply to "gift packages" (see section 5a).

This amendment shall become effective December 12, 1945.

Issued this 12th day of December 1945.

CHESTER BOWLES,
Administrator.

Approved: December 11, 1945.

ment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Section 11 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 471 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 11. Maximum prices for sales of thresher-run or rough cleaned seed on a quality cleaned basis—(a) How price is determined. If you are a producer, you may sell your thresher-run or rough cleaned seeds to a country dealer or a commercial processor at the maximum prices established by section 12 (a) (1) of this regulation for the kind and quality of seed sold as determined after such seed has been quality cleaned, tested and labeled: Provided, That the following deductions for certain cleaning services performed must be made from such maximum prices.

(i) For quality cleaning over screen and air separation mills only.

Kind of seed	Per 100 pounds of seed
	On quality cleaned basis	On in-weight basis
Alfalfa, red clover, and alsike clover	$1.00	$0.75
Sweetclover	.70	.50
Timothy	.50	.40

(ii) For additional quality cleaning over specialized seed cleaning machinery such as dodder, buckhorn, or gravity mills.

Kind of seed	Per 100 pounds of seed
	On quality cleaned basis	On in-weight basis
Alfalfa, red clover, and alsike clover	$1.00	$0.75
Sweetclover	.65	.50
Timothy	.50	.40

(b) Commingling. If the thresher-run or rough cleaned seeds sold by you are commingled with other thresher-run or rough cleaned seeds in the process of quality cleaning, the kind and quality of the seeds sold by you shall be determined on the basis of the kind and quality of the commingled seeds after they have been quality cleaned. The amount of seed for which you may receive payment shall be determined by applying the same percentage to the commingled lot after it has been quality cleaned that your lot, dockage free, bore to the commingled lot, dockage free, before it was quality cleaned.

(c) Advance payment. Notwithstanding any other provision in this regulation, a country dealer or commercial processor who purchases thresher-run or rough cleaned seeds on a quality cleaned basis from a producer shall not pay such producer, prior to the time such seeds have been quality cleaned as defined in section 8 (a) (7) of this regulation, an amount in excess of 75 percent of the maximum price applicable to the seeds at the time of delivery determined on a dockage basis under the appropriate provisions of section 8 (a) (12) and section 10.

This amendment shall become effective December 13, 1945.

Issued this 13th day of December 1945.

CHESTER BOWLES,
Administrator.

PART 1499—COMMODITIES AND SERVICES

[SR 14E[1] Amdt. 19]

SALES AT WHOLESALE OF CERTAIN COTTON PRODUCTS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment issued simultaneously herewith has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Section 2.7 of Supplementary Regulation 14E is amended in the following respects:

1. The heading to section 2.7 is amended to read as follows: "Sales at wholesale of certain cotton products and certain manufactured articles."

2. The words "an article" are substituted for the words "the [or "a"] cotton product" (singular or plural) where the latter appear in paragraphs (b), (c) and (d).

3. Paragraph (b) (6) is amended by adding the following undesignated paragraph:

This paragraph (6) shall also not apply to sales covered by section 2.7 (r).

4. Paragraph (r) is added to section 2.7 to read as follows:

(r) Ceiling prices at wholesale for certain articles of knitted underwear and knitted wear—(1) Articles priced under this paragraph. Under this paragraph maximum prices are established for sales at wholesale of all types of lightweight and heavyweight knitted underwear, including knitted sleeping garments and knitted athletic, sweat and "Tee" shirts. The types include any knitted underwear, regardless of yarn content, worn by men, women, children and infants. "Knitted" underwear means underwear of which the body fabric is made of 50% or more knited fabric by weight.

(2) Maximum prices. The maximum prices for sales at wholesale of the knitted underwear described in the preceding subparagraph are the lower of:

(i) The sum of the net cost of the article being priced and 21.7% of that net cost for out-of-stock shipments; but in the case of "drop shipments," the sum of the net cost of the article being priced and 12.7% of that net cost; or

(ii) The sum of the net cost of the article being priced and an amount derived by applying the seller's "1942 markup" to that net cost.

(3) Meaning of terms. (i) The term "net cost" is defined in paragraph (a) (5).

(ii) The term "1942 markup" means the markup you had in March 1942 for the article you are pricing. To figure this markup:

(a) Find the last invoice you received prior to March 31, 1942, for an article covered by this paragraph which you delivered in March 1942 in the type of sale (out-of-stock or drop shipment) involved in the sale of the article you are pricing;

(b) Determine your net cost of that article you delivered in March 1942;

(c) Find the difference between this net cost and the highest price at which you delivered that article in March 1942 for the type of sale involved in the sale of the article you are pricing;

(d) Divide this difference by the net cost determined in (b). The result is your "1942 markup."

This amendment shall become effective December 20, 1945.

Issued this 13th day of December 1945.

CHESTER BOWLES,
Administrator.

PART 1602—PROCEDURE FOR RENEGOTIATION

SUBPART A—ASSIGNMENTS FOR RENEGOTIATION AND CANCELLATIONS

1. A paragraph is added at the end of § 1602.206–3, as follows:

§ 1602.206–3 When not subject to act; evidence required. • • •

Cancellation of an assignment of a fiscal year ending in 1945 or 1946 on the ground that the receipts or accruals of the contractor do not exceed the statutory minimum may be requested prior to the close of such fiscal year in accordance with either of the procedures authorized by items (1) and (2) of this section, if the renegotiating agency is satisfied at the time of request that the contractor's receipts or accruals do not exceed the statutory minimum and if the contractor is not expected to receive or accrue any further amounts under contracts with the Departments and subcontracts. [RR 206.3]

2. Section 1602.206–4 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1602.206–4 When no excessive profits; evidence required. When the cancellation of assignment is sought on the ground that no excessive profits have been realized on renegotiable business, the minimum information required for consideration by the War Contracts Board will ordinarily be that called for by the "Standard Form of Contractor's Report" (see § 1607.701–1 of this chapter) including Section B thereof. When necessary, information will be required as to the proper allocation of costs and expenses applicable to renegotiable and other sales. With respect to fiscal years ending in 1945 and 1946, requests for cancellation of assignments under this section may be made prior to the end of such fiscal years in any case where a determination of no excessive profits could be made by agreement under the provisions of § 1603.313–1 of this chapter. [RR 206.4]

3. Section 1602.206–7 is added, as follows:

§ 1602.206–7 Cancellations prior to end of fiscal year. If an assignment is cancelled prior to the close of the contractor's fiscal year, the renegotiating agency requesting the cancellation shall be charged with the responsibility of determining after the close of such fiscal year whether the assignment should be reinstated. Such responsibility will include the sending of a letter of preliminary inquiry to the contractor, the examining of the Standard Form of Contractor's Report and related documents, or such other action necessary to protect the interests of the Government. [RR 206.7]

SUBPART B—PRELIMINARY INFORMATION REQUIRED OF CONTRACTORS

1. Sections 1602.222–2 and 1602.222–3 are amended to read as follows:

§ 1602.222–2 Time for filing. The mandatory financial statements hereby prescribed shall be filed on or before the first day of the fourth month following the close of the fiscal year of the contractor (or if such fiscal year had been closed on February 25, 1944, on or before the first day of June, 1944), whether or not any demand has been made by the War Contracts Board or by any person on its behalf. (See also § 1603.313–3 of this chapter. [RR 222.2]

§ 1602.222–3 Place for filing. Except as stated herein, the mandatory financial statements hereby prescribed shall be filed with the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board, Assignments and Statistics Branch, Room 3B 525, The Pentagon, Washington 25, D. C. Where the contractor has received a "Letter of Preliminary Inquiry" (see § 1602.223) and a "Standard Form of Contractor's Report" from a renegotiating Agency, the mandatory financial statements hereby prescribed shall be filed with that Agency. The mandatory financial statements hereby prescribed shall in all cases be filed in duplicate with the exception of the Standard Form of Contractor's Report (For Agents, Brokers, and Sales Engineers) (as set forth in § 1607.701–5 of this chapter) which shall be filed in triplicate. The renegotiating agency will forward one copy to the War Contracts Board within sixty days after receipt of the Report by the renegotiating agency. [RR 222.3]

PART 1603—DETERMINATION OF RENEGOTIABLE BUSINESS AND COSTS

SUBPART A—FISCAL YEAR BASIS FOR RENEGOTIATION AND EXCEPTIONS

Sections 1603.313 to 1603.313–3 are added, as follows:

§ 1603.313 Renegotiation with respect to fiscal years ending in 1945 and 1946. [RR 313]

§ 1603.313–1 Renegotiation before close of fiscal year. The Department to which a contractor has been assigned for renegotiation with respect to a fiscal year ending in 1945 or 1946 may commence and complete renegotiation proceedings prior to the end of such fiscal year, provided

(a) That there is available to the renegotiating agency adequate and reliable information upon which there can be based a determination of "profits derived from contracts with the Departments and subcontracts", as that term is defined in subsection (a) (4) (B) of the Renegotiation Act; and

(b) That at the time of renegotiation the contractor is not expected to have any receipts or accruals under contracts and subcontracts in addition to those with respect to which the determination of excessive profits or of no excessive profits is made; and

(c) That the aggregate receipts or accruals of the contractor and his affiliates from contracts with the Departments and subcontracts described in subsection (a) (5) (A) of the act exceed $500,000 (or $25,000 in the case of subcontracts described in subsection (a) (5) (B) of the act) at the time of renegotiation; and

(d) That the determination of excessive profits or the determination of no excessive profits is embodied in an agreement; and

(e) That either of the following procedures is observed:

(1) The determination of excessive profits or of no excessive profits is made only for a part of the contractor's fiscal year and there is inserted in the agreement embodying such determination the special contract article set forth in paragraph (i) (1) (i) of § 1607.741–2 of this chapter; or

(2) The determination of excessive profits or of no excessive profits is made with respect to the contractor's entire fiscal year, and there is inserted in the agreement embodying such determination the special contract article set forth in paragraph (i) (2) of § 1607.741–2 of this chapter. [RR 313.1]

§ 1603.313–2 Renegotiation with respect to fiscal years ending after July 31, 1945. Subsection (h) of the Renegotiation Act provides that such act shall apply only with respect to profits from contracts with the Departments and subcontracts which, under regulations prescribed by the Board, are determined to be allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date as defined in such subsection (see § 1603.370 and following). To ensure the proper application of that subsection in the event that the termination date should be fixed at a date prior to December 31, 1945, no determination of excessive profits or of no excessive profits shall be made with respect to fiscal years ending after July 31, 1945 unless such determination is embodied in an agreement in which there is inserted the special contract article set forth in paragraph (i) (3) of § 1607.741–2 of this chapter (whether or not such fiscal year has ended at the time of renegotiation). The provisions of this subparagraph shall not apply with respect to a determination of excessive profits or no excessive profits (a) which is made after the date on which the termination date of the Renegotiation Act, as defined in subsection (h) thereof, becomes fixed or (b) which is made for a part of contractor's fiscal year under § 1603.313–1 (e) (9) which part ended on or before July 31, 1945. [RR 313.2]

§ 1603.313–3 Standard form of contractor's report. If renegotiation is conducted pursuant to the provisions of this section, the renegotiating agency shall be responsible for examining the Standard Form of Contractor's Report and related documents and determining whether further action should be recommended to the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board. In this connection it should be noted that the contractor's statutory obligation to file the statements referred to in § 1602.222 of this chapter (covering the contractor's entire fiscal year) is not affected by the execution of a renegotiation agreement pursuant to this section. [RR 313.3]

SUBPART D—MANDATORY EXEMPTIONS AND EXCLUSIONS FROM RENEGOTIATION

In § 1603.348–2 paragraph (e) is added as follows:

§ 1603.348–2 Computation of aggregate receipts and accruals. • • •

(e) Amounts which, in accordance with the method of accounting employed by the contractor for purposes of renegotiation, have not been received or accrued prior to the close of the termination date but which are allocable to performance prior to the close of such date, shall be deemed to have been received or accrued on the termination date and are includible in the computation of the gross receipts or accruals referred to above for the year in which the termination date occurs. This rule will apply even though such amounts have not been received or accrued, according to the contractor's method of accounting, prior to the close of the fiscal year in which the termination date occurs. Conversely, amounts which, in accordance with the method of accounting employed by the contractor for purposes of renegotiation, have been received or accrued after the close of the termination date but which are not allocable to performance prior to the close of such date, are not includible in the computation of the gross receipts or accruals referred to above. This rule will apply even though such amounts have been received or accrued, according to the contractor's method of accounting, during the fiscal year in which the termination date occurs. [RR 348.2]

SUBPART G—TERMINATION OF RENEGOTIATION

1. Section 1603.370 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1603.370 Scope of subpart. This subpart establishes in accordance with the provisions of subsection (h) of the Renegotiation Act, as amended by Public Law 104, 79th Congress,. approved June 30, 1945, the regulations to be prescribed by the War Contracts Board for the determination of profits reasonably allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date set forth in subsection (h). [RR 370]

2. Section 1603.372 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1603.372 General principles intended to be established by the regulations. The regulations hereinafter prescribed are intended to effect two purposes; first, to define the receipts or accruals which by reason of their derivation from performance prior to the close of the termination date are subject to renegotiation, regardless of when received or accrued on the basis of the accounting method employed by the contractor in keeping his books or reporting income for tax purposes, and second, to ascertain the costs whenever paid or incurred which represent proper charges against such receipts or accruals, so that the profits reasonably allocable to such performance may be determined. Except in unusual cases these objectives will be attained by treating as allocable to performance prior to the termination date only those items of income received or accrued and those items of cost paid or incurred prior to the close of the termination date in accordance with the method of accounting consistently employed by the contractor for purposes of renegotiation. The qualifications hereinafter noted in this Subpart G will be recognized only when the renegotiating agency is satisfied that a departure from such accounting method is necessary in order properly to reflect profits allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date. The regulations will be interpreted and applied in the light of these objectives. [RR 372]

3. Sections 1603.373, 1603.374 and 1603.375 are added as follows:

§ 1603.373 Amounts received or accrued. (a) If the contractor has consistently employed for purposes of renegotiation a method of accounting other than a cash receipts and disbursements method, then, except as hereinafter provided, only those amounts of income accrued prior to the close of the termination date on the basis of such accounting method will be considered as allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date.

(b) If the contractor has consistently employed a completed contract or similar method of accounting for purposes of renegotiation (the accrual of income being deferred until completion), there will be considered as allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date the income accrued prior to the close of the termination date on the basis of such accounting method and also that amount of the income derived from any contract or job not completed at the close of the termination date which is proportionate to the completion of such contract or job at the close of the termination date. Similarly, if the contractor accounts on the basis of percentage of completion of a contract or job and his fiscal year commences prior to and ends after the close of the termination date, there will be allocated to performance prior to the close of the termination date an amount of the income under such contract or job for such fiscal year which is proportionate to the performance under such contract or job accomplished in such fiscal year prior to the close of the termination date. The provisions of this paragraph (b) are subject to the provision of paragraph (d) of this section.

(c) If the contractor has consistently employed for purposes of renegotiation a cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting then, except as hereinafter provided, only those amounts received prior to the close of the termination date will be considered as allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date.

(d) In an unusual case where it is clear that the objectives set forth in § 1603.372 will not be attained by adherence to the general rules hereinbefore prescribed in this section, amounts of income reasonably allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date will be allocated thereto. For example, if a contractor employs a cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting and if his receipts prior to the close of the termination date are substantially out of proportion to his performance prior to such date, it may be necessary to allocate all or a portion of his subsequent receipts to such performance in order properly to reflect his profits derived from performance prior to the close of the termination date. In the application of the foregoing principle, costs paid or incurred which are allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date may be indicative of the proper allocation of income to performance prior to the close of the termination date. [RR 373]

§ 1603.374 Costs paid or incurred. (a) In the allocation of costs pursuant to subsection (h) of the act, generally the method of accounting regularly employed by the contractor for renegotiation purposes will be followed in determining the time at which costs are paid or incurred. As a general rule, costs paid or incurred prior to the close of the termination date will be considered as allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date and costs paid or incurred after the close of the termination date will be considered as not allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date.

(b) However, in an unusual case where it is clear that the purposes set forth in § 1603.372 will not be achieved by adherence to the general rule prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, costs (actual or estimated as of the time of renegotiation) which have not been paid or incurred prior to the close of the termination date may nevertheless be allocated to performance prior to the close of the termination date in accordance with the following:

(1) If the cost in question is directly related to that part of the performance of a particular contract or subcontract, the income from which is or was subject to renegotiation, the renegotiating agency will allocate all or a portion of such cost to performance prior to the close of the termination date. As a general rule, such allocation will be made by correlating the income from such contract or subcontract and the costs with respect thereto.

(2) If the cost is not directly related to performance of a particular contract or subcontract, but such cost or any portion thereof would have been allowed in renegotiation if paid or incurred prior to the close of the termination date, the renegotiating agency will allocate all or a portion of such cost to performance prior to the close of the termination date to the extent reasonably allocable to such performance. For example, if the contractor after the close of the termination date sustains a loss of the type described in § 1603.385–4, such loss, to the extent allocable to renegotiable business under § 1603.385–4, will be allocated to performance prior to the close of the termination date. The same rule will be followed with respect to costs paid or incurred in connection with the discontinuance of renegotiable business the termination of war production as described in § 1603.384–2.

(c) Items of cost which are determined to be allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date in accordance with the foregoing rules and which have been paid or incurred prior to renegotiation will be allowed by the renegotiating agency. If, however, an item determined to be allocable in whole or in part to performance prior to the close of the termination date, has not been paid or incurred prior to renegotiation but it is reasonably anticipated that it will probably be paid or incurred, the following rules will be observed:

(1) If the determination of excessive profits is made by agreement, the renegotiating agency will allow conditionally such amount of the estimated cost as is determined to be allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date and will include an appropriate clause in the renegotiation agreement providing for the repayment of additional excessive profits. Before making such a conditional allowance the following procedure will be complied with:

(i) The renegotiating agency will transmit to the Chairman of the Price Adjustment Board of the Department concerned a statement setting forth the approximate amount of excessive profits to be finally eliminated, the amount of the item or items in question, the pertinent facts relating to the allocability of such items to performance prior to the close of the termination date and the reasons why such allocation is necessary properly to reflect the profits allocable to such performance.

(ii) The renegotiating agency will advise the Chairman of the Price Adjustment Board of the Department concerned whether the contractor's financial condition is such that the conditional allowance may be made without jeopardy to the payment of any amounts which may become due in case the contingency does not occur.

(iii) The Chairman of the Price Adjustment Board of the Department concerned, in his discretion, may authorize the conditional allowance and the use of a special clause which may contain such provisions as the Chairman deems necessary.

(2) If the determination of excessive profits is made by unilateral order, or, if made by agreement and the use of a conditional clause is precluded by the requirements of the foregoing subparagraph, the estimated cost will not be allowed as a cost in renegotiation. However, the risk that the contractor will, after renegotiation, pay or incur such cost will in accordance with § 1604.413–2 (a) of this chapter be taken into consideration with the other risks assumed by the contractor.

(d) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this section, no cost which has not been paid or incurred prior to January 1, 1947 will be allocated to performance prior to the close of the termination date. The determination as to whether a cost is paid or incurred prior to such date shall be made by reference to the method of accounting employed by the contractor for purposes of renegotiation. The time limitation specified in the first sentence of this subparagraph shall not apply to costs which are accounted for on a completed contract basis or similar method of accounting. However, the risk that the contractor will, after December 31, 1945, pay or incur a cost clearly allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date, will in accordance with § 1604.413–2 (a) of this chapter be taken into consideration with the other risks assumed by the contractor. [RR 374]

§ 1603.375 Fiscal year in which are placed items determined to be allocable to performance prior to close of termination date. As a general rule, amounts of income which, on the basis of the accounting method employed by the contractor in keeping his books are received or accrued after the close of the termination date, but which, pursuant to this chapter, are allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date will be deemed to have been received or accrued on the termination date. Likewise, costs which, on the basis of the accounting method employed by the contractor in keeping his books, are paid or incurred after the close of the termination date, but which, pursuant to this chapter, are allocable to performance prior to the close of the termination date, will ordinarily be deemed to have been paid or incurred on the termination date. The provisions of this section are not intended to supersede or modify § 1603.381–6, nor to eliminate the necessity of an allocation of the excessive profits to the taxable year or among the taxable years in which received or accrued for tax purposes where such allocation is necessary in order to establish the proper tax credit under section 3806 of the Internal Revenue Code or to establish the effect of the elimination of the excessive profits determined upon taxable income for such taxable year or years. [RR 375]

SUBPART H—COSTS ALLOCABLE AND ALLOWABLE AGAINST RENEGOTIABLE BUSINESS

1. In § 1603.383–3 paragraph (c) is amended to read as follows:

§ 1603.383–3 Renegotiation rebate. • • •

(c) Procedure for obtaining renegotiation rebate. (1) After a recomputation of the amortization deduction for any fiscal year pursuant to section 124 (d) of the Internal Revenue Code has been made in connection with the determination of the contractor's taxes for such fiscal year, a contractor may apply for a net renegotiation rebate with respect to excessive profits determined and eliminated for such fiscal year by filing a claim in the form set forth at §§ 1607.736–1 and 1607.736–2 of this chapter, together with the information and documents referred to in such form. Such form, together with such information and documents, must be filed with the War Contracts Board at the address specified in § 1607.791–5 of this chapter. A separate application must be filed with respect to each fiscal year for which the contractor claims a net renegotiation rebate.

(2) The contractor may be required to furnish such additional documents and information as the War Contracts Board (or any duly authorized representative of the War Contracts Board) may require in order to determine the amount of the net renegotiation rebate, if any, to which the contractor may be entitled.

(3) The War Contracts Board will certify to the Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to the provisions of the First Deficiency Appropriation Act, 1945, the net renegotiation rebate to which the contractor is entitled.

2. In § 1603.384–2 paragraphs (c) and (d) (3) are amended to read as follows:

§ 1603.384–2 Costs in connection with the discontinuance of renegotiable business. • • •

(c) Losses from sale, exchange or abandonment of facilities used in performing renegotiable contracts and subcontracts. Losses from sale, exchange or abandonment of facilities used in performing renegotiable contracts and subcontracts are allocable to renegotiable business in accordance with the provisions of §§ 1603.385–4 and 1603.385–5. Notwithstanding the method of computing such losses for Federal tax purposes, (1) the costs of moving, dismantling, demolishing, protecting and storing such assets will be taken into account in determining whether losses have been sustained and in computing the amount of such losses for the purposes of renegotiation; and (2) depreciation or amortization incurred with respect to such assets during a period between the end of their use in the performance of renegotiable business and their sale or other disposal will be disregarded in computing such losses.

• • • • • •

(d) Other costs and expenses. • • •

(3) Depreciation and amortization. Inasmuch as paragraph (c) of this section excludes, in computing losses, depreciation on assets used in renegotiable business sustained during the period between the end of their use in performing such business and their sale or other disposal, depreciation during this period will not be allowed as a cost of performing renegotiable business. If such assets are retained for future use in non-renegotiable business depreciation thereon will be allowed as a cost of renegotiable business to the extent otherwise properly allocable to the end of the month immediately succeeding that in which the end of their use in the performance of renegotiable business took place provided that they are not sooner devoted to civilian production. The same rule will apply to amortization of emergency facilities.

3. Section 1603.386–3 is added as follows:

§ 1603.386–3 Interest on tax deficiencies. Interest on deficiencies in taxes measured by income (including Federal income and excess profits taxes) is not deemed allocable in any part to renegotiable business. Accordingly, such interest is not allowable as a cost of renegotiable business, notwithstanding that such interest is a deduction in the computation of taxable income under the Internal Revenue Code. [RR 386.3]

4. Section 1603.387–1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1603.387–1 Allocation—(a) Distinction between institutional advertising and product advertising. Advertising may generally be characterized as either institutional advertising or product advertising. For the purposes of this chapter, advertising will be deemed to be institutional advertising (i. e., advertising designed to keep the advertiser's name and the identity of his peacetime products before the public) unless such advertising represents a specific offer of particular products for current sale.

(b) Allocation of the costs of advertising. The cost of product advertising is not ordinarily allocable in any amount to prime contracts. A reasonable amount of the cost of product advertising which can be demonstrated to have produced renegotiable subcontracts may be allocable to the renegotiable subcontracts resulting from such product advertising. The cost of institutional advertising should ordinarily be allocated between renegotiable and non-renegotiable business on a pro-rata basis in such manner as may be appropriate in the particular case for allocating expenses which cannot be earmarked as attributable to particular sales. However, no part of the cost of institutional advertising which is clearly designed to create or add to, rather than maintain, good will should be allocated to renegotiable business, by inclusion in the amount to be pro-rated or otherwise, unless the aggregate expenditure for the year in question for both product advertising and institutional advertising is not in excess of the average annual advertising cost during the base period. This limitation is subject to modification or adjustment in cases where comparison between the advertising expenditure for the year in question and the average annual advertising expenditure for the base period is believed unfair, as for example, where the average annual advertising expenditure during the base period is deemed inadequate by the renegotiating agency to keep the advertiser's name or the identity of its peacetime products (or products of the same type and character) before the public or to maintain good will built up over past years so that when the contractor returns to peacetime production its name and the quality of its products will be known to the public. [RR 387.1]

PART 1604—DETERMINATION AND ELIMINATION OF EXCESSIVE PROFITS

SUBPART A—PRINCIPLES AND FACTORS IN DETERMINING EXCESSIVE PROFITS

Paragraph (a) of § 1604.413–2 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1604.413–2 Comment. (a) Consideration is to be given to the extent of risk assumed by the contractor; for example, possible increase in the cost of materials and wages; delays from inability to obtain materials; "cutbacks" in quantities; guarantees of quality and performance of the product; and such other risks as may be clearly determined. If excessive profits are determined by unilateral order (or by agreement where the provisions of paragraphs (c) (2) and (d) of § 1603.374 of this chapter apply) and if at the time of renegotiation the contrator has a risk that he will incur a cost which, if incurred prior to renegotiation, would have been allowed, such risk will be taken into consideration with the other risks assumed by the contractor.

WAR CONTRACTS PRICE ADJUSTMENT BOARD

Washington 25, D. C.

Gentlemen: Subsection (c) (5) (A) of the Renegotiation Act requires contractors and subcontractors who are subject to that Act to file financial statements in accordance with the regulations prescribed by the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board.

Copies of the Act and pertinent regulations are enclosed herewith, as well as the required form of statement which is known as the "Standard Form of Contractor's Report". If you are subject to renegotiation under the Act, the "Standard Form of Contractor's Report" should be filed in duplicate.

Concerns whose gross receipts and accruals (including those of all affiliates) were less than the statutory minimum, as defined in subsection (c) (6) of the Act, are not subject to it and are not required to file the "Standard Form of Contractor's Report". However, it will be helpful for the completion of the records of the Board to receive from such concerns the enclosed form entitled "Statement by Contractor, Non-Applicability of the Renegotiation Act."

Neither this communication nor your reply thereto will constitute the commencement of renegotiation proceedings. Formal renegotiation proceedings are not required of all concerns which file the "Standard Form of Contractor's Report". Upon the receipt of such a Report, a determination is made as to whether or not such proceedings appear to be appropriate. The filing of the Report has the effect of satisfying the requirements of subsection (c) (5) (A) as to mandatory filing and of starting the running of the period within which renegotiation may be commenced as provided in subsection (c) (3).

Your attention is called to the fact that, under the law, we are without authority to extend the time prescribed for filing, which is approximately ninety days after the close of the contractor's fiscal year.

2. In § 1607.724–1 a note is added at the end to read as follows:

§ 1607.724–1 Instructions for preparation of construction contractors, architects and engineers information and work sheet for renegotiation.

* * * * * * *

Note on renegotiation powers of Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Effective July 1, 1945, Defense Plant Corporation, Metals Reserve Company, Defense Supplies Corporation and Rubber Reserve Company were dissolved and their functions, powers, duties and authority transferred to Reconstruction Finance Corporation (see Public Law 109, 79th Congress, approved June 30, 1945, and §§ 1601.122–5, 1601.122–13, 1603.332–11, 1608.809–1, and 1608.809–2). The Reconstruction Finance Corporation thereupon obtained all the powers, functions, duties and authority vested in such subsidiary corporations under the Renegotiation Act, both as to contracts previously entered into by those subsidiaries and as to contracts which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, on and after July 1, 1945, might enter into under the authority transfered by Public Law 109, and as to subcontracts thereunder.

By reason of such Public Law 109, the term "Department" as used in the Renegotiation Act also means Reconstruction Finance Corporation as successor to Defense Plant Corporation, Metals Reserve Company, Defense Supplies Corporation and Rubber Reserve Company.

Answers supplied should include receipts and accruals under such contracts with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, on and after July 1, 1945, and subcontracts thereunder, in addition to other information required. The answer to Section C.6 should also include the volume of receipts and accruals under such contracts with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The reference to a specific clause does not limit the general applicability of this Note.

§ 1607.741–2 Variations in the standard form. * * *

(9) Articles in connection with 1945 and 1946 Renegotiations under § 1603.313. (a) Whenever renegotiation is conducted and completed for a portion of a contractor's fiscal year pursuant to the procedure authorized in § 1603.313 (e) (1), Article 1 of the Standard Form shall be made to relate to that part of the fiscal year covered by the agreement and the following contract article shall be included in the agreement.

"The Contractor agrees that in the event there is received or accrued any amount under contracts and subcontracts after the last day of the period with respect to which the determination specified in Article 1 hereof has been made (hereinafter referred to as "said date") and on or before the last day of his fiscal year ending ----------, which amount, or a portion thereof, is allocable under regulations of the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board, to performance prior to the close of the termination date as defined in subsection (h) of said Act, that

(i) Renegotiation proceedings may be conducted for the period beginning with the date following "said date" and ending with the last day of said fiscal year (hereinafter referred to as the "short period") and

(ii) In determining the applicability of the exemption contained in subsection (c) (6) of said Act and the applicability of paragraph 348.3 of the Renegotiation Regulations (relating to the "floor" provisions) for the "short period", there shall be added to the receipts or accruals under contracts and subcontracts during the "short period" (to the extent allocable to performance prior to the close of said termination date), the receipts or accruals (to the extent allocable to performance prior to the close of the said termination date) under said contracts and subcontracts during the period covered by this agreement."

(b) Whenever renegotiation is conducted and completed pursuant to the procedure authorized in § 1603.313–1 (e) (ii), Article 8 of the Standard Form shall be modified by inserting at the beginning thereof the phrase "Subject to the conditions hereinafter provided" and by inserting an additional paragraph to read as follows:

It is agreed that if this Agreement is reopened under this paragraph, (a) the renegotiation shall be conducted as though this Agreement had not been made and (b) the time within which renegotiation with respect to said fiscal year must be completed under subsection (c) (3) of said Act shall be and is hereby extended to and including a date which is one year from the date on which the election to reopen this Agreement is made."

(c) Whenever renegotiation is conducted and completed for a fiscal year ending after July 31, 1945, or for a part of the fiscal year which part ended after July 31, 1945, Article 8 of the Standard Form shall be modified by inserting at the beginning thereof the phrase "Subject to the conditions hereinafter "provided" and by inserting an additional paragraph set forth below.

It is agreed that there has not been included in the data upon which the determination made in Article 1 hereof is based any amounts (received) (accrued) under said contracts and subcontracts, and costs (paid) (incurred) with respect thereto, after ---------- (hereinafter referred to as "said date"). It is further agreed that this Agreement may be reopened at the election of the Government or the Contractor, if the termination date of said Act, as defined in subsection (h) thereof, should be earlier than "said Date" and if the said determination was made with respect to, in whole or in part, amounts (received) (accrued) under said contracts and subcontracts, or costs (paid) (incurred) with respect thereto, which are not allocable under regulations of the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board to performance prior to the close of the said termination date. Such election must be made by registered letter mailed within ninety (90) days from the date on which the said termination date is fixed. If the Contractor makes such election, notice thereof must be given by registered letter addressed to the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board, Assignment and Statistics Branch, Washington 25, D. C. It is agreed that if this agreement is reopened under this paragraph (a) the renegotiation shall be conducted as though this Agreement had not been made and (b) the time within which renegotiation with respect to said fiscal year must be completed under subsection (c) (3) of said Act shall be and is hereby extended to and including a date which is one year from the date on which the election to reopen is made.

2. Sections 1607.746–1 through 1607.746–3 are amended to read as follows:

ORDER UNDER DELEGATED AUTHORITY DETERMINING EXCESSIVE PROFITS

Pursuant to authority duly delegated by the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board, a renegotiation proceeding was duly commenced with ---------- (hereinafter called the "Contractor") with respect to the aggregate of the amounts received or accrued by the Contractor under contracts and subcontracts subject to renegotiation under the Renegotiation Act (such contracts and subcontracts being hereinafter collectively referred to as "said contracts and subcontracts") for the Contractor's fiscal year ended ---------- (hereinafter called "said fiscal year").

In connection with such renegotiation proceeding, a conference was held with the Contractor at or in connection with which there were submitted by the Contractor and obtained from governmental or other reliable sources, certain financial, operating and other data relating to the Contractor's business and the Contractor's profits derived from said contracts and subcontracts during said fiscal year. At and in connection with such conference the Contractor has been afforded full opportunity to submit such additional information and to present such contentions as the Contractor deemed material to a determination of excessive profits within the meaning of the Renegotiation Act.

In determining the excessive profits hereinafter determined, due consideration has been given to all such financial, operating and other data and information so furnished or obtained, to each of the contentions so presented, and to all of the factors referred to in subsection (a) (4) (A) of the Renegotiation Act.

As a result of such renegotiation it is hereby determined that ---------- Dollars ($------) represents the portion of the Contractor's profits derived from said contracts and subcontracts for said fiscal year, which is excessive within the meaning of the Renegotiation Act. After proper adjustment on account of taxes, other than Federal taxes, measured by income which are attributable to that portion of the Contractor's profits derived from said contracts and subcontracts for said fiscal year which is not excessive, it is hereby determined that the amount of excessive profits of the Contractor for said fiscal year which should be eliminated is ---------- Dollars ($------).

This order will be deemed the determination of the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board upon the conditions prescribed in subsection (d) (5) of the Renegotiation Act. If, and as soon as, this order shall be deemed the determination of the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board, pursuant to subsection (d) (5) of the Renegotiation Act, then ---------- (or such

In connection with the payment or discharge by any means of such excessive profits to be eliminated, the Renegotiation Act provides that the Contractor shall be allowed the applicable credit, if any, for Federal income and excess profits taxes as provided in Section 3806 of the Internal Revenue Code.

PART 208—FLOOD CONTROL REGULATIONS

PENSACOLA DAM AND RESERVOIR, GRAND (NEOSHO) RIVER, OKLAHOMA

Pursuant to the provisions of section 7 of the act of Congress approved December 22, 1944 (58 Stat. 890; 33 U.S.C. 709), the following regulations are hereby prescribed to govern the use of flood control storage in the Pensacola Reservoir on the Grand (Neosho) River, Oklahoma, and the operation of the Pensacola Dam for flood control purposes:

§ 208.25 Pensacola Dam and Reservoir, Grand (Neosho) River, Oklahoma. The representative of the agency charged with the operation of the Pensacola Dam, hereinafter referred to as the Representative, shall operate the dam and reservoir in the interest of flood control as follows:

(a) Whenever the pool stage exceeds elevation 745 at the dam, the discharge facilities shall be operated under the direction of the District Engineer, Engineer Department at Large, in charge of the locality, so as to reduce as much as practicable the flood damage below the reservoir and to limit the pool stage to elevation 755 at the dam.

(b) The District Engineer will advise the Representative when inflow rates are anticipated which will raise the pool above elevation 745 at the dam. The District Engineer will also advise the Representative of essential increase in the flood control storage capacity of the reservoir which should be provided by drawing the pool down below elevation 745 at the dam in order to obtain maximum flood control benefits, with the provision that the suggested reduction in power storage shall at no time exceed the replacement volume of flow then in sight in the streams above the reservoir.

(c) The Representative shall furnish the District Engineer, daily, a report showing the elevation of the reservoir pool and the tailwater, number of gates in operation, spillway and turbine releases, evaporation, storage, reservoir inflow, and precipitation in inches as shown by Agency gages. One reading shall be shown for each day with additional readings of releases for all changes in spillway gate operation, and with readings of all items except evaporation three times daily when the District Engineer advises the Representative that flood conditions are imminent. By agreement between the Representative and the District Engineer, any of the foregoing information may be furnished by telephone and may, if agreed upon, be omitted from the report. Whenever the pool is above elevation 745 at the dam the Representative shall submit additional reports by telegraph or telephone as directed by the District Engineer, with a report to be furnished immediately whenever the pool rises above elevation 745 at the dam.

(d) The District Engineer will furnish the Representative with all available information and detailed instructions for operation of the reservoir in the interest of flood control during an emergency condition when communications between the dam and the District Office are broken. In the event that the District Engineer or his authorized representative cannot be reached by telephone, telegraph or by other means during a flood emergency, these instructions will govern. The provisions (a), (b), and (c) of this section will govern at all times except during such an emergency.

(e) Elevations herein stated are referred to Pensacola datum which is 1.07 feet below mean sea level. [Regs. 3 Dec. 1945 (CE 461 (Pensacola Dam and Reservoir, Grand (Neosho) River, Oklahoma) SPEWF)]

(c) When the runoff impounded in the reservoir has been released the gate opening of the 5-ft. by 7-ft. control conduit shall be set at the established opening of one foot. [Regs. 3 Dec. 1945 (CE 461 (Alpine Dam, Keith Creek, Rockford, Winnebago Co., Illinois)—SPEWF)]

[Rev. Order 414 Under 3 (b)]

GENERAL LINE CANS

AUTHORIZATION OF MAXIMUM PRICES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register and pursuant to the authority vested in the Price Administrator by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, Executive Orders 9250 and 9328 and § 1499.3 (b) of the General Maximum Price Regulation, It is ordered:

That Order No. 414 under § 1499.3 (b) of the General Maximum Price Regulation is revised and amended to read as follows:

(a) What this order does. (1) This order authorizes manufacturers of general line cans made of black plate or of electrolytic tin plate, formerly made of hot dip tin plate, which cannot be priced under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation, to compute their maximum prices for such products by the pricing method set forth in paragraph (b) (1) of this order.

(2) This order also authorizes manufacturers of general line cans, other than those described in subparagraph (1) above, that cannot be priced under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation, to compute their maximum prices in accordance with the pricing method set forth in paragraph (b) (2) of this order.

(3) This order does not apply to sales of any general line cans by manufacturers for which maximum prices are established by § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation or for sales of cans for which maximum prices are established by specific maximum price regulations such as Maximum Price Regulation No. 350—Packers' Tin Cans and Condensed Milk Cans. The pricing methods authorized by this order supersede the provisions of §§ 1499.2 and 1499.3 (b) of the General Maximum Price Regulation as applied to the establishment by manufacturers of maximum prices for general line cans made of black plate or electrolytic tin plate.

(b) Pricing methods—(1) Method by which manufacturers shall determine maximum prices for general line cans made of black plate or electrolytic tin plate which were formerly made of hot dip tin plate. On and after the effective date of this order, any person manufacturing and selling a general line can made of black plate or electrolytic tin plate, which was formerly made of hot dip tin plate and for which a maximum price cannot be determined under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation, shall determine his maximum price in the following manner: From the maximum price established under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation for the general line can made of hot dip tin plate there shall be deducted the current delivered cost of hot dip tin plate per unit of sale and there shall be added the current delivered cost of black plate per unit of sale or the current delivered cost of electrolytic plate per unit of sale whichever is applicable. (If enamel is furnished the cost of enamel shall be included as a portion of the delivered cost.) The resulting figure shall be the maximum price of the general line can made of black plate or electrolytic tin plate, as the case may be.

Example: 1. A producer of gallon cans formerly used ten base boxes of 100-pound tin plate to produce 1000 cans. He paid $5.00 per base box, less 2% for cash, plus $0.50 freight, for a net delivered cost of $54.00 per 1000 cans. Black plate costs him $4.20 per hundred pounds, less ½% for cash, plus $0.50 freight, and plus $1.00 for lacquering, or a total of $56.80. His ceiling price for the hot dip cans was $70; the ceiling price for the black plate cans under this order becomes $72.80. 2. A producer of friction top cans formerly used two base boxes of 95 pound hot dip tin plate in making 1000 cans. His net delivered cost per 1000 cans was $10.60. The necessary black plate now costs $7.68, or $2.94 less. His ceiling price for hot dip cans was $20 per 1000; the ceiling price for the black plate cans is $17.06.

(2) Method by which manufacturers shall determine maximum prices for general line cans (other than those described in subparagraph (1) above) which cannot be priced under §1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation. On and after the effective date of this order, any person manufacturing and selling general line cans (other than those described in subparagraph (1) above) which cannot be priced under § 1499.2 of the General Maximum Price Regulation shall determine his maximum price in the following manner:

(i) The maximum price shall be the price determined in accordance with the formula which the manufacturer had in effect in March 1942. In applying such formula the manufacturer shall use the material costs and wage rates which were in effect in March 1942 and shall use the same rate of overhead or burden and mark-up or margin over allowable costs which he employed in that month. New materials not in use during March 1942 shall be included in the calculation of the permissible maximum price at the current maximum price of such material.

(ii) If a manufacturer did not produce any general line cans in March 1942, he shall file an application with the Metals Price Branch, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., for the establishment of a price determining method. Such application may be made by letter and shall be filed before any sales or offers to sell are made. The applicant shall indicate the type of cans to be produced and set forth a proposed price determining method which will result in maximum prices in line with those otherwise established by the General Maximum Price Regulation or this order. The Office of Price Administration may request such additional relevant information as it deems necessary and will approve, approve upon condition, adjust, or disapprove the requested pricing method. Unless action is taken by the Office of Price Administration within twenty days of the receipt of an application, or any additional information requested, the proposed pricing method submitted by the applicant shall be deemed to have been approved. Any price determining method approved in accordance with this paragraph may be revoked or modified by the Administrator at any time.

(c) Filing provisions. (1) Any manufacturer determining his maximum price in accordance with paragraph (b) (1) above shall within ten days of making such determination file with the Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., a statement showing (i) the maximum price of the article made of hot dip tin plate, (ii) quantity of hot dip tin plate used per unit, (iii) the net delivered cost of hot dip tin plate per unit when last used in producing the article, (iv) the net delivered cost of black plate, or electrolytic tin plate (whichever is applicable) per base box, showing mill base price, where purchased, extras, freight and discounts, and (v) the new maximum price calculated pursuant to this order.

(2) Any manufacturer who proposes to determine a maximum price for a general line can in accordance with paragraph (b) (2) (i) above shall file with the Metals Price Branch, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., a statement setting forth the pricing formula which he had in effect in March 1942 for the type of can being priced. Such statement shall set forth the method used for determining material costs for tin plate, solder and other direct materials, the method of estimating labor cost, rates used in estimating overhead costs, and mark-up or margin which were in effect for the manufacturer in March 1942 and which were applicable to the equipment to be used in the manufacture of the can being priced. This statement shall be filed prior to the delivery of any cans for which a maximum price was determined by application of the formula.

(d) Definitions. The term "general line can", as used in this order, means any new shipping container requiring a protective package during shipment, made of 28 gauge or lighter, coated or uncoated, steel sheets. It does not include packers' sanitary or condensed milk cans as defined in Maximum Price Regulation No. 350; or "Steel Shipping Containers" not requiring a protective package during shipment or containers governed by Maximum Price Regulation No. 187 or containers designed or manufactured for storage purposes or for component parts of any commodity not generally used as a shipping container or shipping containers manufactured from combinations of steel sheets and other materials such as paper, wood, fiber board, etc.

(e) Revocation and amendment. This order may be revoked or amended by the Administrator at any time.

NOTE: All reporting and record-keeping provisions of this Order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

This order shall become effective December 18, 1945.

Issued this 13th day of December 1945.

Acting Administrator.

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register, and pursuant to section 22 of Maximum Price Regulation No. 591, it is ordered:

(a) Scope of this order. The Office of Price Administration has issued orders under Maximum Price Regulation No. 591 which establish dollar and cent retail ceiling prices and which require manufacturers to attach a tag or label to or otherwise mark the articles covered by those orders setting forth the retail ceiling price. This order applies to those orders insofar as they require sellers who sell to retailers to notify the retailer of his ceiling price to the ultimate consumer.

CHOICE AND GOOD BEEF REQUIRED TO BE SET ASIDE

War Food Order No. 75–2, as amended (10 F.R. 12841, 13039, 13437), is further amended by deleting paragraph (b) and substituting in lieu thereof the following:

(b) Quantity; quality; specifications. No federally inspected slaughterer and no slaughterer whose cattle are slaughtered in an establishment operated under Federal inspection shall deliver meat for civilian consumption unless he shall:

(1) Set aside, reserve, and hold for delivery as directed in paragraph (b) (3) hereof:

(i) 30 percent of the conversion weight of each week's production of beef obtained from steers and heifers of "U. S. Choice" grade;

(ii) 30 percent of the conversion weight of each week's production of beef obtained from steers and heifers of "U. S. Good" grade;

(iii) 30 percent of the conversion weight of each week's production of beef obtained from cows of "U. S. Good" grade;

(iv) 30 percent of the conversion weight of each week's production of beef obtained from steers, heifers, and cows of "U. S. Commercial" grade;

(v) 40 percent of the conversion weight of each week's production of beef obtained from steers, heifers, and cows of "U. S. Utility" grade (Grade C beef);

(vi) 50 percent of the conversion weight of each week's production of beef obtained from steers, heifers, and cows of cutter and canner grade (Grade D beef);

Provided, however, That the provisions of paragraphs (b) (1) (iv), (b) (1) (v), and (b) (1) (vi) shall not apply to any slaughterer located in the States of Arizona, California, Florida, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming;

(2) Bone, in accordance with Army specifications for frozen boneless beef, not less than 80 percent of each grade and type of beef required to be set aside, reserved, and held under the provisions of paragraph (b) (1) (i), (b) (1) (ii), and (b) (1) (iii), respectively; Provided, however, That the Order Administrator may wholly or partially exempt any slaughterer from this requirement upon a proper showing that said slaughterer does not have adequate facilities for boning, or does not have, or is unable to obtain, sufficient personnel to bone said beef, or is unable to comply with this requirement for any reason which appears to the Order Administrator to warrant such exemption;

(3) Deliver to governmental agencies, authorized purchasers, and ship suppliers, before the close of each calendar week, beef of each of the grades specified in paragraph (b) (1) in an amount not less than the amount of beef of such grade required to be set aside, reserved, and held during the previous week.

This amendment shall become effective at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., December 16, 1945. With respect to violations, rights accrued, liabilities incurred, or appeals taken, prior to said date, under War Food Order No. 75–2, as amended, all provisions of said order shall be deemed to remain in full force for the purpose of sustaining any proper suit, action, or other proceeding with respect to any such violation, right, liability, or appeal.

5. That the use of its said cigarettes will result in a lessening of the stain on the fingers or teeth resulting from cigarette smoking.

It is further ordered, That the respondent shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon it of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form which it has complied with this order.

PART 944—REGULATIONS APPLICABLE TO THE OPERATION OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

ADJUSTMENT OF ORDERS, RECEIPTS AND DELIVERIES IN CASE OF WORK STOPPAGES

The following direction is issued pursuant to PR 32:

(a) What this direction does. As a result of work stoppages in manufacturers' plants, strict application of CPA inventory restrictions might have an adverse effect on the production and distribution of critical materials. This direction permits continued receipts during the first thirty days, but requires complete adjustment of outstanding orders by that time. It is designed to prevent the unnecessary accumulation of critical materials on the one hand, and on the other to encourage maximum production.

The receipts permitted by this direction are in addition to those permitted under the inventory limits of Priorities Regulation 32 or any other applicable order or regulation, unless it specifically states to the contrary.

(b) Permitted receipts after suspension of operations. (1) A person whose operations are suspended due to a work stoppage in his own plant may continue to receive materials for a period not exceeding thirty days immediately following the suspension based on his rate of operation as scheduled immediately before that time. By the 30th day, however, his outstanding orders must have been adjusted, and if necessary postponed or cancelled, as required by paragraph (e) of Priorities Regulation 32, and he may thereafter continue to accept further deliveries only to the extent permitted by paragraph (h) of Priorities Regulation 32. Suppliers of the customer may continue to produce, and to ship or hold as arranged with the customer, only in accordance with the above.

(2) This paragraph (b) does not apply with respect to any part of the customer's operations which is not suspended or which resumes operations, and materials may be produced and delivered by the supplier and received by the customer under these circumstances as permitted by Priorities Regulation 32. This paragraph (b) also does not apply to tires and tubes for original equipment which remain subject to Order R–1.

(c) Resumption of operations. As soon as operations are resumed, the customer must promptly adjust, and if necessary postpone or cancel, all his outstanding orders to the extent required by paragraph (e) of Priorities Regulation 32, and all deliveries and receipts are again subject to all provisions of that regulation.

Issued this 13th day of December 1945.

By J. JOSEPH WHELAN,
Recording Secretary.

PART 3293—CHEMICALS

[Conservation Order M-54, as Amended Dec. 14, 1945]

MOLASSES

The fulfillment of requirements for the defense of the United States has created a shortage in the supply of molasses for defense, for private account and for export; and the following order is deemed necessary and appropriate in the public interest and to promote the national defense:

§ 3293.91 Conservation Order M-54—(a) Definitions. For the purposes of this order:

(1) "Molasses" means any molasses, sirup, sugar solution, or any form of fermentative sugar (derived from sugar cane or sugar beets) and hydrol (corn sugar molasses). The term does not, however, include sugar as defined in Rationing Order No. 3 or sugar intended for and used for manufacture into sugar as so defined, or edible molasses as defined in Food Distribution Order No. 51. Blackstrap molasses is any final molasses produced in the manufacture of sugar from sugar cane or from the refining of raw sugar and includes all beet molasses produced in the manufacture of sugar from sugar beets. Invert molasses is any molasses made from sugar cane without extraction of sugars. For the purpose of this order one gallon of invert molasses is to be construed as one and a half gallons of blackstrap molasses and one gallon of hydrol is to be construed as one gallon of blackstrap molasses.

(2) "Producer" means any person engaged in the production of molasses and includes any person who has molasses produced for him pursuant to toll agreement.

(3) "Importer" means any person who transports molasses in any manner into the continental United States. Release from the bonded custody of the United States Bureau of Customs shall be deemed a transportation.

(4) "Primary distributor" means any person, other than an importer or a producer, who sells molasses which he has acquired (other than as broker) from an importer or a producer.

(5) "Secondary distributor" means any person, other than an importer, producer or primary distributor, who sells molasses which he has acquired (other than as broker) from some person other than an importer or producer.

(6) A person may, at the same time, be an importer, a producer, a primary distributor and a secondary distributor. His clasification, in a particular case, will be determined by the source of the molasses involved; i. e., with respect to molasses imported, he will be an importer, with respect to molasses acquired from a producer, he will be a primary distributor, etc.

(7) "Broker" means any person who buys and sells molasses on a fee basis as agent either for the buyer or the seller or both.

(8) "Class 1 purchaser" means any person who requires molasses in the manufacture of any one or more of the following products:

(i) Insecticides (except as provision is made therefor in paragraphs (a) (14) and (d) (3) hereof).
(ii) Lactic acid.
(iii) Graphite paste.

(vi) Ink.
(vii) Ephedrine.
(viii) Sugar for human consumption (produced from beet molasses).
(ix) Denatured rum for flavoring.
(x) Biological and pharmaceutical products for human and veterinary uses, and any person who requires molasses for any one or more of the following purposes.
(xi) Dust extraction.
(xii) Leather tanning.

(9) "Class 2 purchaser" means any person who requires molasses in the manufacture (including custom grinding) of mixed feeds (including molasses treated beet pulp).

(10) "Class 3 purchaser" means any person who requires molasses in the manufacture of any one or more of the following products:

(i) Yeast.
(ii) Citric acid.

(11) "Class 4 purchaser" means any person who requires molasses in the manufacture of vinegar and any person who requires molasses for foundry purposes.

(12) "Class 5 purchaser" means any person who requires molasses in the manufacture (including blending and/or packaging) of any one or more of the following products:

(i) Molasses (edible).
(ii) Sirup (edible).

(13) "Class 6 purchaser" means any person who requires molasses in the manufacture of other products for human consumption (not specified above).

(14) "Class 7 purchaser" means any person who requires molasses for sale directly (without the intervention of any other handler) to persons who require the same for ensilage direct feed or insect control.

(15) "Calendar quarter" means the several three month periods of the year commencing January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1.

(17) "30 day supply" means a quantity of molasses not in excess of one-twelfth of the quantity used by a purchaser listed above during the twelve month period ended June 30, 1941. Purchasers shall determine a 30 day supply with respect to each use specified in the applicable subparagraphs above. Quantity shall in all cases be computed on a blackstrap molasses basis.

(18) "Fiscal year" means the twelve month period commencing October 1 and ending September 30.

(19) "Yearly supply" means a quantity of molasses not in excess of the quantity used by a purchaser listed above during the twelve month period ended June 30, 1941. Purchasers shall determine a yearly supply with respect to each use specified in the applicable subparagraph above. Quantity shall in all cases be computed on a blackstrap molasses basis.

(l) Violations. Any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or who in connection with this order wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States, is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment. (m) Appeals. Any appeal from the provisions of this order shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate, referring to the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds of the appeal.

(n) Application for quotas. Any Class 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 or 7 purchaser who has no quota under paragraph (c) for accepting delivery of molasses and who wishes to have a quota established for him, may apply for a quota by filing a letter with the Civilian Production Administration, Chemicals Bureau, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M–54. The letter should state in addition to any other pertinent information the purpose for which he seeks the molasses, what facilities he has for using molasses for that purpose and how much molasses he will need for that purpose per quarter. A quota will be assigned to him on an equitable basis.

(o) Exemptions. None of the restrictions, prohibitions or requirements contained in this order shall apply to the delivery, acceptance of delivery or use of molasses outside of the continental United States, except that paragraph (c) (1) (vii) relating to Class 7 purchasers, and paragraph (f) relating to restrictions with reference to beverage cane spirits and industrial alcohol, shall be applicable to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands of the United States.

PART 3293—CHEMICALS

[Conservation Order M-300, Direction 4 as Amended Dec. 14, 1945]

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR ORDERS FOR PENICILLIN

The following amended direction is issued pursuant to Conservation Order M–300:

(a) The supply of penicillin is substantially less than present and anticipated military and other requirements, and it has become necessary in order to eliminate serious hazard to life and health, to give preference to certain essential orders for penicillin in accordance with the conditions of this Direction.

(b) Definitions. For the purposes of this Direction:

(1) "Penicillin" means a chemotherapeutic agent isolated from Penicillium notatum, P. chrysogenum and variants. The term includes penicillin in any medicinal tablet, ampoule or other form as well as bulk penicillin in any form.

(2) "Hospital" means any hospital for the treatment of humans located in the United States or its territories or possessions and the Veterans' Administration and the U. S. Public Health Service, but does not include any Army or Navy hospital.

(3) [Deleted Dec. 14, 1945.]

(c) Preferred orders—(1) Orders to which preference is given. The following types of orders for penicillin must be treated in all respects as if rated CC:

(i) Any order placed by a hospital, including orders previously placed but not filled on November 23, 1945,

(ii) Any order certified in accordance with subparagraph (2) below.

These orders are automatically preferred, and no application for a rating need be filed. A person receiving any order of the type specified may not extend a CC rating, but may place certified orders where permitted under paragraph (c) (2) below.

(2) Certification. Any person ordering penicillin to fill orders which he has received from hospitals, or to fill orders which he has received bearing certificates filed under this paragraph, may furnish the supplier with a certificate in the form prescribed below, except that a person who not only produces penicillin but also purchases it for resale, may place certified orders on other suppliers only to the extent that under paragraph (d) below he is not required to fill such orders from his own production. The certificate shall be in substantially the following form:

"Certified as required to fill hospital orders under Direction 4 to M–300.

Name of purchaser

By ---

Duly authorized official"

The standard certification provided for in Priorities Regulation 7 may not be used instead.

(d) Quantity of penicillin production for which preference must be given under this direction. Notwithstanding paragraph (c) (1) above, a producer of penicillin need not, during any calendar month, deliver on orders specified in paragraph (c) (1) from his own production more than an amount equivalent to either (1) 40% of his preceding month's production of penicillin or (2) 40% of his estimated production for that calendar month, whichever is greater. All of the penicillin which a producer buys for resale is subject to the orders specified in paragraph (c) (1) above. Moreover, all the penicillin which a producer produces or purchases for resale is subject to be delivered on other types of orders rated AAA, MM or CC under the same conditions as if this direction did not exist. Physical segregation of the penicillin he produces and what he buys for resale is not required as long as the above provisions are observed with respect to equivalent amounts.

(e) Dosage forms. Each producer shall if possible operate his facilities in such manner as to provide adequate quantities of penicillin required to fill orders placed by hospitals and certified orders in the dosage form specified in such orders. The same rule applies to persons purchasing penicillin for resale who possess facilities for preparing penicillin in dosage form.

(f) Reports. Reports of production, stocks and shipments shall be filed within 15 days after the close of each calendar month (reports for October, 1945, shall be filed as soon as possible after issuance of this direction) by every producer of penicillin.

These reports shall be filed on Form WPB–2947 in the following manner:

Specify in the blocks provided the name and address of the company reporting, name of materials, month, unit of measure (billion Oxford units).

In section I, show in column 1, Army parenteral, Army bulk, Army other dosage forms, Navy parenteral, Navy bulk, Navy other dosage forms, export parenteral, export bulk, export other dosage forms, domestic civilian parenteral, domestic civilian bulk, domestic civilian other dosage forms, and list the quantities actually shipped in each of these categories in column 4 (change heading to read "quantity shipped"), showing the amount shipped from your own production separately from the amount shipped out of penicillin purchased by you for resale. Do not show individual customers names. Leave columns 1a, 5, 5a, 6 and 7 blank.

In section II list in column 9 production (total units of penicillin) irrespective of type of salt or dosage form) during the month for which the report is filed and in column 10 stocks (state separately stocks of purchased penicillin and stocks of penicillin produced by you) as of the first day of the current month. Leave other columns blank.

The above reporting requirements have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(g) Communications to Civilian Production Administration. Communications concerning this direction shall be addressed to the Civilian Production Administration, Chemicals Division, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: M–300, Direction 4.

Issued this 14th day of December 1945.

[Conservation Order M–300, Direction 5]

GOVERNMENT HELD STOCKS OF ETHYL ALCOHOL

The following direction is issued pursuant to Conservation Order M–300:

(a) What this direction does. Current commercial supplies of ethyl alcohol are substantially less than present and anticipated requirements, and it is necessary to control the disposition of government held stocks to assure that these stocks be used for essential uses to supplement the current commercial supplies. Schedule 71 to M–300 which contained other controls on ethyl alcohol has been revoked.

(b) Definitions. For the purposes of this direction, "ethyl alcohol" means the product of that name from whatever source derived. The term includes mixtures of ethyl alcohol and denaturants, including the product known as "proprietary solvent". The term does not include ethyl alcohol which has been tax paid for beverage purposes, nor does the term include ethyl alcohol imported into the continental United States unless it was imported tax free for industrial purposes under section 3125 of the Internal Revenue Code.

(c) Restriction on delivery by government agencies. Neither the Reconstruction Finance Corporation nor any other U. S. Government corporation or agency may deliver ethyl alcohol to any person except as specifically authorized in writing by the Civilian Production Administration under this direction, provided that this restriction does not apply to the delivery of surplus property sold pursuant to Priorities Regulation 13.

(d) Application by purchasers. Persons seeking delivery of ethyl alcohol during any calendar month from the RFC (except delivery of surplus property sold pursuant to Priorities Regulation 13) should request the Civilian Production Administration to authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to deliver the alcohol desired to them. These requests should be made in the manner prescribed below.

(1) Producers filing alcohol report under Order M-54. A producer filing an alcohol report to be filed on or before the 15th day of any calendar month as required under paragraph (j) (2) of Order M-54 need not file a separate application under this paragraph but should indicate in Section I of that report what portion of the quantity specified in column 16 (Estimated Sales and Use) he wishes to purchase from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation during the following month, giving the types (formulas) desired, and what portion he proposes to produce from molasses.

(2) Other persons. Other persons should make application in writing on Form WPB-2947. Send one certified copy to the Civilian Production Administration, Chemicals Division, Washington 25, D. C. Requests should be filed by the 15th of the month preceding the month in which delivery is requested. Fill in the form in the following manner:

Specify in the blocks provided, the name and address of applicant, name of material (ethyl alcohol), month in which delivery is desired, and unit of measure (gallons). In Section I state separately the quantity actually delivered during the preceding calendar month on sales for industrial purposes to persons other than Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the quantity actually used for industrial purposes in internal operations during the month stating in column 1 opposite these quantities "sold" and "used". Change the heading in column 4 to read "Actual quantity last month." Leave columns 1a, 5 and 5a blank. State also what portion of the quantity specified in column 16 (Estimated Sales and Use) you wish to purchase from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, giving the types (formulas) desired, and what portion you propose to produce from molasses. In Section II fill in columns 9, 10, and 13 as indicated. Specify in column 16 the quantity you expect to deliver during the following month on sales to persons other than Reconstruction Finance Corporation for industrial purposes or to use for such purposes in your internal operations, and change the heading to read "Estimated Sales and Use Next Month": Leave columns 8, 11, 12, 14 and 15 blank.

(3) Budget Bureau approval. The above reporting requirements have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

(e) Communications to Civilian Production Administration. Communications concerning this direction shall be addressed to Civilian Production Administration, Chemicals Division, Washington 25, D. C., Ref.: M-300, Direction 5.

Chapter XI—Office of Price Administration

PART 1305—ADMINISTRATION

[SO 143]

PROCEDURE FOR WAIVER OF PROVISIONS OF CERTAIN PRICE REGULATIONS AND RATION ORDERS AFFECTING BUSINESS OR OCCUPATIONAL STATUS OF VETERANS

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this supplementary order issued simultaneously herewith has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register. For the reasons set forth in that statement and pursuant to the authority vested in the Price Administrator by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, the Second War Powers Act and authority delegated to the Price Administrator thereunder, it is hereby ordered:

§ 1305.171 Procedure for waiver of provisions of certain price regulations and ration orders affecting business or occupational status of veterans—(a) Provisions for waiver. Wherever, by reason of the provisions of any "price regulation" or "ration order", a "veteran" who was lawfully engaged in a responsible capacity (as defined in paragraph (c) (2) below) in a particular business activity at any time on or after September 16, 1939, but prior to his entry into the armed forces, is precluded from reentering that business activity, or is for any reason unable to establish a quota under the regulation or order, or is limited to a highest price line or maximum average price inconsistent with his previous experience, the Administrator may, by order, waive such provision, or establish a necessary quota, highest price line, or maximum average price upon application by the veteran pursuant to the provisions of this supplementary order.

(b) Application and content. Any application under this order shall be filed by the veteran with the District Office of the Office of Price Administration having jurisdiction over the principal place of business of the activity proposed to be operated by the applicant and shall set forth the following information:

(1) The name and address of the applicant and of the principal place of business of the activity proposed to be operated by the applicant.

(2) The date of applicant's entry into and release or discharge from the Armed Forces and evidence that the applicant was after September 16, 1940 discharged or released from the Armed Forces under conditions not dishonorable after active service of 90 days or more, or by reason of an injury or disability incurred in service in line of duty.

(3) A description of the applicant's business experience in the business activity which he proposes to re-enter (including dates and location of said business activity) stated in sufficient detail to meet the requirements of paragraph (c) (2) below.

(4) A description of the business which it is proposed that the applicant will reenter; the price regulation or ration order applicable to such business; the specific provision of the applicable price regulation or ration order as to which an order of waiver is sought, or under which the applicant is unable to establish a quota, or under which the applicant is limited to a highest price line or maximum average price inconsistent with his previous experience.

(5) Evidence that the operation of the proposed business activity covered by the application will be the applicant's principal occupation.

(6) Evidence that the applicant satisfies the requirements of paragraph (c) of this order.

NOTE: Applicants subject to MPR 177, RMPR 267, MPR 570, section 1.2 of SR 14E or SO 108, should combine the information required by this paragraph with their applications as new sellers under those regulations, and should state, at the top of their applications, that they are made pursuant to this supplementary order as well as the applicable price regulation.

(c) Required qualifications. The Office of Price Administration will not issue an order of waiver or other appropriate order under this supplementary order unless it is established that the proposed business activity is one in which the veteran applicant has the necessary ownership interest and that he has had previous experience in a responsible capacity in the business activity, as required by subparagraphs (1), (2) and (3) below:

(1) Required ownership interest. In order to qualify under this paragraph the veteran must establish that he is or will be

(i) The principal owner and active head of the business activity covered by the application;

(ii) A joint owner of the business activity covered by the application actively engaged in the operation of the business activity covered by the application and the only other persons who own a part of that business activity are members of his immediate family or persons who would themselves be eligible to make application for re-entry into the same business activity pursuant to this supplementary order; or

(iii) A joint owner of the business actively engaged in the operation thereof and the financial interest held by him and by members of his immediate family or other veterans eligible under this supplementary order to make application for re-entry into the same business activity aggregate the principal ownership of the business activity.

(2) Required previous experience. In order to qualify under this paragraph, the veteran must establish that he has had experience in the business in a responsible capacity between September 16, 1939 and his entry into the armed forces. For purposes of this order, experience in a "responsible capacity" means previous ownership (partial or total) of a business in whose operation the applicant was actively engaged, or employment in a business in a managerial capacity or other responsible capacity in which applicant shared in the determination of the prices charged by the business for its product or services.

(3) Level of business activity. In order to qualify under this paragraph, it must be established that the business activity which the veteran proposes to operate is at the same level of distribution or processing as that in which he was formerly engaged, and that the business activity in which he was formerly engaged was such that it would have been subject to the provisions of the Price Regulation or ration order as to which waiver or other appropriate action is sought if such regulation or order had been in effect at the time during which he was engaged in such business activity.

(d) Restriction on transfers. Any order issued by the Office of Price Administration under this supplementary order shall remain in effect only so long as the conditions of the supplementary order continue to be satisfied. Any such order shall become automatically inoperative whenever by reason of change in circumstances, whether by transfer or otherwise, the business activity ceases to satisfy the express conditions of this supplementary order.

(e) Establishment of quotas, highest price line, and maximum average price. Wherever under the provisions of the applicable regulation or order it is necessary that the seller have an established quota and such quota cannot be established by the applicant himself under the provisions of the regulation or order, the Office of Price Administration may establish a quota for the applicant in line with the quotas of comparable sellers in the same locality whose operations are most nearly like those of the business activity proposed to be operated by the applicant.

Wherever, under the provisions of the applicable regulation, the applicant is subject to a highest price line or maximum average price inconsistent with his previous experience, the Office of Price Administration may establish a highest price line or maximum average price for the applicant in line with his previous experience in the business in a responsible capacity.

(f) Delegation of authority. The Price Administrator, any Regional Administrator, and any District Director who has been authorized to act by the appropriate Regional Administrator, may by order issue waivers and take such other appropriate action as is provided for under the terms of this supplementary order.

(g) Definitions. Wherever used in this order,

(1) "Veteran" shall mean any person who shall have served in the active military or naval service of the United States at any time on or after September 16, 1940 and who shall have been discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable after service of 90 days or more, or by reason of an injury or disability incurred in service in line of duty: Provided, That for the purpose of this order no person shall be deemed to be a veteran if the date of his release or discharge was more than 120 days prior to the beginning of the base period or prior to the applicable base date used to establish eligibility to engage in the particular business activity or to establish the required quota or to determine a highest price line or maximum average price as provided in the provision of the Price Regulation or ration order under which an appropriate order is sought pursuant to this supplementary order.

(2) "Price regulation" shall mean any price schedule, maximum price regulation or other order issued by any office of the Office of Price Administration.

(3) "Ration order" shall mean any order or regulation of the Office of Price Administration, other than 2d Revised Ration Order 3 and General Ration Order 5 (with respect to which veterans' applications are covered by General Ration Order 18), issued pursuant to War Production Board Directive No. 1, as supplemented, or Food Directive No. 3 of the Secretary of Agriculture, as supplemented, or pursuant to any other delegation of authority heretofore or hereafter conferred upon the Office of Price Administration, under section 2 (a) of the act of June 28, 1940 (54 Stat. 676) as amended by the act of May 31, 1941 (55 Stat. 236) and by Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 176), 50 U. S. C. A. (App.) sec. 633. It also includes an order issued pursuant to a ration order.

This order shall become effective December 19, 1945.

Issued this 14th day of December 1945.

CHESTER BOWLES,
Administrator.

[MPR 188, Order 5]

INNERSPRING MATTRESSES MADE WITH BONNELL, CLIP AND CRIMP TYPES (WIRE-TIED UNITS)

MAXIMUM PRICES FOR SALES

For the reasons set forth in an opinion issued simultaneously herewith, and filed with the Division of the Federal Register; and pursuant to § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, It is ordered:

Sec.
1. Purposes of this order.
2. Articles covered by this order.
3. Manufacturers' maximum prices.
4. Maintenance of normal production.
5. Manufacturers' reports.
6. Wholesalers' maximum prices.
7. Invoices to purchasers for resale.
8. Notification to purchasers for resale.
9. Retailers' maximum prices.
10. "Branded articles".
11. Terms of sale.
12. Relationship of this order to other orders or regulations.
13. Revision of maximum prices.
14. Revocation or amendment.

SECTION 1. Purpose of this order. Innerspring mattresses made with Bonnell, Clip and Crimp Types (wired-tied) units have been found to be a reconversion product, in accordance with the standards set forth in § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188. This order specifies a price increase factor to be used by manufacturers of this product; and it sets forth the specific pricing provisions which all sellers are to follow in calculating their maximum prices for sales of the product.

SEC. 2. Articles covered by this order. This order covers all innerspring mattresses made with Bonnell, Clip and Crimp Types (wire-tied) units, including but not limited to youth-bed and crib sizes. It does not cover innerspring mattresses made with Marshall Type (pocketed coil) units.

SEC. 3. Manufacturers maximum prices—(a) Determination of maximum prices. Manufacturers shall continue to determine their maximum prices for articles covered by this order under the same regulation and pricing provisions applicable before this order was issued.

(b) Increase factor. Manufacturers may increase, by 16 per cent, their maximum prices (exclusive of any permitted increases) properly established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 or the "comparability method" of Order No. 4332 under that regulation for sales to all persons except household consumers.

(c) "Adjusted maximum price". A manufacturer's "adjusted maximum price" is the higher of the following three amounts:

(1) His maximum price properly established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 or the "comparability method" of Order No. 4332 under that regulation increased by 16 per cent in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) His maximum price properly established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 or Order No. 4332 under that regulation, plus any increases in that maximum price permitted by an OPA order,[1] other than this order.

(3) His maximum price properly established under section 5 of Supplementary Order No. 118.

A manufacturer may make sales and deliveries at or below his adjusted maximum price computed under this section.

(d) "Unadjusted maximum price". (1) A manufacturer's "unadjusted maximum price" for his sale of an article whose maximum price was properly established under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 or the comparability method of Order No. 4332 under that regulation, is the maximum price so established, not including any increases in that maximum price permitted by an OPA order. However, if an OPA order[1] permits the manufacturer to increase that maximum price by an amount greater than 16 per cent, the manufacturer's "unadjusted maximum price" is the amount determined by deducting an amount equal to 16 per cent of the maximum price in effect before that increase was made from the price as increased in accordance with that order.

(2) A manufacturer's "unadjusted maximum price" for his sale of an article the new maximum price of which was properly established under section 5 of Supplementary Order No. 118 is the price found by taking the following steps:

Step 1: Divide the new maximum price for the article by the increase factor permitted under section 4 of Supplementary Order No. 118 for the manufacturer's most comparable 1941 article. (The increase factor on the comparable article is found by dividing the new maximum price of that comparable article by its maximum price in effect before Supplementary Order No. 118 was issued.)

Step 2: Multiply the result of Step 1 by 16 per cent.

Step 3: Subtract the result of Step 2 from the new maximum price for the article. The result is the "unadjusted maximum price" for the article.

(3) A manufacturer's "unadjusted maximum price" for his sale of an article the maximum price of which was established under the cost method of Order No. 4332 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188 is 86 per cent of the maximum prices established.

SEC. 4. Maintenance of normal production. An order may be issued under this section denying a manufacturer permission to adjust his maximum prices by all or part of the increase factor specified in section 3 when it appears to the Price Administrator, on the basis of information available to the Office of Price Administration, that: (a) the manufacturer has discontinued production of the low-end models which he made and delivered during the period from July 1, 1940 to June 30, 1941; or (b) the manufacturer has decreased the proportion of low-priced to high-priced models which he made and delivered during the period from July 1, 1940 to June 30, 1941, so that his present or prospective production is not representative, in that respect, of his production during that period.

[1] This refers to Supplementary Order No. 118, and to orders issued under Supplementary Orders No. 119 and 133, and Order No. A-2 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

The average price at which the manufacturer's production of each article will be sold shall be a consideration in determining the amount, if any, of the increase which will be granted such a manufacturer.

SEC. 5. Manufacturers' reports. Before first offering an article for sale at a maximum price increased under this order, every manufacturer shall file a report with the Office of Price Administration. That report shall set forth the following:

(a) The date of the report.
(b) The manufacturer's name and address.
(c) The model designation of the article.
(d) The specifications of the article.
(e) The manufacturer's "unadjusted maximum price" and his "adjusted maximum price" for sales of the article to each class of purchaser (as defined in section 3 of this order).
(f) The manufacturer's terms, discounts, allowances, and other price differentials in effect during March 1942 or thereafter properly established under the applicable OPA regulation.

NOTE: Section 10 sets forth additional information required with respect to "branded articles."

SEC. 6. Wholesalers' maximum prices—(a) Modification of Maximum Price Regulation No. 590. This section modifies the pricing provisions of Maximum Price Regulation No. 590 with respect to articles covered by this order. Unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions in Maximum Price Regulation No. 590 apply to the terms used in this section.

(b) Adjusted maximum price. A wholesaler's adjusted maximum price for sales to each class of purchaser of an article covered by this order is the "net cost" of the article (based on his supplier's unadjusted maximum price) plus 80 per cent of the dollar-and-cent difference between his supplier's unadjusted maximum price and the wholesaler's actual invoice cost, multiplied by the wholesaler's appropriate "category markup".

(c) Unadjusted maximum price. A wholesaler's "unadjusted maximum price" is the price determined by multiplying the "net cost" of the article (based on his supplier's unadjusted maximum price) by the wholesaler's appropriate "category markup".

SEC. 7. Invoice to purchasers for resale. (a) Every person who delivers an article covered by this order to a purchaser for resale (except a retailer making a "cross-stream sale" covered by section 9 (b) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 580) shall furnish to the purchaser an invoice or other written evidence of sale, containing the following:

(1) The name and address of both the seller and purchaser, and the date of sale.
(2) The name, number, or other identification of each article sold.
(3) The quantity of each article sold.
(4) The seller's unadjusted maximum price for each article sold.
(5) The actual selling price of each article sold.
(6) The nature and amount of any additional charges.
(7) The terms of sale.

(b) No article covered by this order may be sold at a price higher than the seller's unadjusted maximum price for the particular sale, unless the information specified in items (4) and (5) of the preceding paragraph is separately stated on the invoice or other written evidence of sale, and unless the seller's unadjusted maximum price is so identified.

(c) The seller shall retain a copy of such invoice or other written evidence of sale, for inspection by the Office of Price Administration for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

(d) A retailer making a cross-stream sale to another retailer must furnish the purchaser with the proper invoice required by section 9 (b) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 580. If the cross-stream sale is made in accordance with section 9 (b) (1) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 580 the seller must also state on his sales invoice his supplier's unadjusted maximum price for each article covered by this order which appears on the invoice.

NOTE: The provisions of this section are modified by section 10 with respect to transactions involving "branded articles".

SEC. 8. Notification to purchasers for resale. At the time of, or prior to, the first invoice to each purchaser for resale showing a maximum price adjusted in accordance with this order, the seller shall notify the purchaser in writing, that:

(a) If he is a wholesaler he must determine his maximum resale prices for articles covered by this order under section 6 of Order No. 5 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188.

(b) If he is a retailer he must determine his maximum resale prices for articles covered by this order under section 9 of Order No. 5 under § 1499.159e of Maximum Price Regulation No. 188; or, if the article is a "branded article", under section 10 of that order.

SEC. 9. Retailers' maximum prices—(a) Retailers whose sales are covered by Maximum Price Regulation No. 580. If the retailer determines his maximum price under a pricing chart in accordance with Maximum Price Regulation No. 580, his maximum price shall be the price which he calculates under the pricing chart by using a "net cost" based upon his supplier's unadjusted maximum price, as set forth on the purchase invoice. Unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions in Maximum Price Regulation No. 580 apply to the terms used in this paragraph (a).

(b) Retailers whose sales are covered by the General Maximum Price Regulation. If the retailer determines his maximum prices under the General Maximum Price Regulation, his maximum price for sales of an article covered by this order shall be computed as follows:

(1) A retailer who delivered or offered for delivery during March 1942 an article which meets the definition of most comparable commodity" contained in § 1499.3 (a) of the General Maximum Price Regulation, except that it need not be currently offered for sale, shall determine his maximum resale price by adding to his supplier's unadjusted maximum price (as it appears on his purchase invoice) the same markup which he had on that comparable article, according to the method and procedure set forth in that section.

(2) The determination of a maximum resale price under (1) need not be reported to the Office of Price Administration. However, each seller must keep complete records showing all the information called for on OPA Form 620-759, with regard to how he determines his maximum resale price. These records shall be kept available for inspection by the Office of Price Administration, for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

(3) If a retailer cannot determine his maximum resale price under (1), he shall apply to the Office of Price Administration for the establishment of his maximum resale price under § 1499.3 (c) of the General Maximum Price Regulation. The retailer's application shall, in addition to the information specifically required by that section, also give the following information:

(i) His supplier's unadjusted maximum price.
(ii) His actual invoice cost.
(iii) A retailer's maximum price established under this subparagraph (3) will be in line with retailer's maximum prices established generally under this order.

NOTE: If the article being priced is a "branded article" its retail ceiling price is fixed by section 10.

SEC. 10. "Branded articles." This section sets forth the changes and additions to the other provisions of this order, applicable to transactions involving "branded articles."

(a) Definition. An article covered by this order is a "branded article" if:

(1) It was advertised by manufacturers at a uniform retail price, during or prior to March 1942; and
(2) It is identified by a brand or company name; and
(3) During or prior to March 1942, it generally was sold at retail at the advertised uniform retail price.

(b) Retail ceiling price. The maximum price for sales of a branded article by a retailer to an ultimate consumer is the uniform retail selling price in effect during March 1942, and which is properly stated on the tag attached to the article.

(c) Manufacturers' reports. Before first offering a branded article covered by this order, for sale after the effective date of this order, each manufacturer shall file a report with the Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., which report shall set forth the information specified in section 5 (a), and also:

(1) The brand name of the article.
(2) The retail ceiling price of the article.

(d) Invoices to purchasers for resale. (1) If the branded article is sold by a manufacturer to a retailer, the invoice required by section 7 (a) of this order shall set forth all the information required by that section, except that it shall not set forth the manufacturer's unadjusted maximum price but shall instead state the retail ceiling price of the article in the following form (with the blank properly filled in).

OPA Retail Ceiling Price—$------

(2) If the branded article is sold to a wholesaler, the invoice required by section 7 (a) of this order shall, in addition to the information set forth in that section, also state the retail ceiling price in the following form (with the blank properly filled in)

OPA Retail Ceiling Price—$------

(3) If the branded article is sold by a wholesaler to a retailer, the invoice required by section 7 (a) of this order shall set forth all the information required by that section, except that it shall not set forth the seller's unadjusted maximum price.

(4) If the branded article is sold by a retailer to another retailer (cross-stream sale) the seller shall furnish the purchaser only with the proper invoice required by section 9 (b) of Maximum Price Regulation No. 580.

(c) Tagging by manufacturers. On and after January 1, 1946, no manufacturer shall deliver any branded article unless it has attached to it a durable tag or label which shall state in clearly readable print, the brand name of the article, and the following statement with the amount properly filled in:

OPA Retail Ceiling Price—$------
This Tag May Not Be Detached Until After Delivery To The Consumer

SEC. 11. Terms of sale. Every seller of an article covered by this order must maintain all terms, discounts, allowances, and other price differentials (including PBAs—premium money payments), in effect during March 1942, or which have been subsequently properly established under Office of Price Administration regulations or orders.

SEC. 12. Relationship of this order to other orders or regulations.—(a) Maximum Price Regulation Nos. 188, 580 and 590. The provisions of this order supersede the provisions of Maximum Price Regulation Nos. 188, 580 and 590, only to the extent that they are inconsistent with the provisions of those regulations.

(b) Supplementary Order Nos. 118, 119 and 133, or Order No. A–2 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188. Manufacturers may continue to adjust their maximum prices in accordance with the increase permitted under Supplementary Orders Nos. 118, 119 and 133 or Order No. A–2 under Maximum Price Regulation No. 188, instead of the increase factor specified in section 3.

SEC. 13. Revision of maximum prices. Any maximum price adjusted under this order may be revised by the Price Administrator whenever he determines that such adjusted maximum price is not in line with the level of October 1941 prices increased by 16 percent, giving due consideration to the manufacturer's customary price relation to other manufacturers in the industry.

SEC. 14. Revocation or amendment. This order may be revoked or amended by the Price Administrator at any time.

Effective date. This order shall become effective on December 13, 1945.

NOTE: The reporting and record keeping provisions of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942, as amended.

Issued this 13th day of December 1945.

Administrator.

HUDSON MOTOR CAR CO.

ADJUSTMENT OF MAXIMUM PRICES

The Office of Price Administration expects to issue shortly a maximum price regulation under which prices for automotive trucks higher than March 31, 1942 prices may be authorized in accordance with OPA's reconversion formula. The prices of such trucks are now controlled by Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 which has as its base date March 31, 1942.

The Hudson Motor Car Company has now in production the 1946 model of its "58" ¾ Ton Cab Pickup. Pending the issuance of the new regulation, it wishes to distribute this new truck to sellers at retail for showroom purposes. It has requested that it be authorized to charge its March 31, 1942 price to be adjusted upwards after delivery in accordance with any increase in price it may subsequently be authorized to charge.

The adjustable pricing order requested is considered necessary to promote distribution. Such an order is in accordance with the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, and Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136.

Therefore, in accordance with section 23 of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 and the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, It is ordered:

(a) The Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14, Michigan, and its distributors are authorized to sell and deliver to dealers and distributors each 1946 model of the Hudson "58" ¾ Ton Cab Pickup at the maximum price permitted under Revised Maximum Price Regulation 136 to be adjusted upwards by the amount of the increase in such price which is authorized by the Office of Price Administration.

(b) This order does not apply to sales to consumers.

(c) This order may be amended or revoked by the Administrator at any time.

This order shall become effective December 13, 1945.

Issued this 13th day of December 1945.

BUFFALO NIAGARA ELECTRIC CORP.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 12th day of December, 1945.

Buffalo Niagara Electric Corporation (Buffalo Niagara), a subsidiary of Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, in turn a subsidiary of The United Corporation, a registered holding company, having filed an application pursuant to section 6 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 for exemption from the provisions of section 6 (a) thereof for the issue and sale, in accordance with the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50, of $56,929,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds; and

The Commission by order dated November 29, 1945, having granted said application, as amended, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24 and subject to the following further conditions:

(1) That Buffalo Niagara obtain from the Public Service Commission of the State of New York a final order expressly authorizing the issue and sale of said First Mortgage Bonds;

(2) That the proposed issue and sale of said First Mortgage Bonds shall not be consummated until the results of competitive bidding, pursuant to Rule U-50, shall have been made a matter of record in this proceeding and a further order shall have been entered by this Commission in the light of the record so completed, which order may contain such further terms and conditions as may then be deemed appropriate; and

The Commission in said order dated November 29, 1945, having reserved jurisdiction over the payment of all legal fees and expenses of all counsel in connection with the proposed transactions, including fees and expenses of counsel for the successful bidders; and

Buffalo Niagara having filed a further amendment to its application herein setting forth the action taken to comply with the requirements of Rule U-50 and showing that, pursuant to the invitation for competitive bids, bids for said $56,929,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds were submitted by two groups of underwriters headed by Morgan Stanley & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., respectively, as follows:

Underwriting groups	Coupon rate	Price to company (percent of principal amount) [1]	Annual cost to company
	Percent		Percent
Morgan Stanley & Co...	2-¾	101.679	2.668
Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc.----------	2-¾	101.2719	2.688

[1] Plus accrued interest.

Said amendment having further set forth that Buffalo Niagara has accepted the bid of Morgan Stanley & Co. for the bonds, as set out above, and that the bonds will be offered for sale to the public at a price of 102.06% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued interest from November 1, 1945, resulting in an underwriters' spread equal to .381% of the principal amount of the bonds; and

Said amendment also setting forth that Buffalo Niagara has obtained from the Public Service Commission of the State of New York a final order expressly authorizing the issue and sale of said bonds; and

The Commission having examined said amendment with respect to certain of the legal services performed for Buffalo Niagara and the underwriters in connection with the transactions, together with a statement of legal fees in the amount of $25,000 and $1,500 to be paid by Buffalo Niagara to LeBoeuf & Lamb and Gordon A. Fraser, respectively, counsel for Buffalo Niagara (no information being submitted as to the fee of Smith, Rae, Greer & Cartwright, also counsel for Buffalo Niagara) and legal fees in the sum of $20,000 to be paid by the underwriters to Simpson, Thatcher & Bartlett, counsel for the underwriters; and

The Commission having considered the record herein and finding no basis for imposing terms and conditions with respect to the price to be paid to the company, the interest rate on the bonds, the redemption price thereof, or the underwriters' spread and its allocation; and

It appearing to the Commission that the legal fees and expenses to be paid to LeBoeuf & Lamb, Gordon A. Fraser and Simpson, Thatcher & Bartlett are not unreasonable and that jurisdiction over them should now be released;

It is ordered, That said application, as amended, be, and the same hereby is, granted, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24, and that the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over the payment of legal fees and expenses of counsel in connection with the proposed transaction be, and the same hereby is, released in respect of the fees and expenses of LeBoeuf & Lamb, Gordon A. Fraser and Simpson, Thatcher & Bartlett, the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over the remaining legal fees and expenses being continued.

By the Commission.

[NHA Reg. 60-14]

PART 701—PRIVATE AND PUBLIC WAR HOUSING

HOUSING FOR DISTRESSED FAMILIES OF VETERANS AND SERVICEMEN

CROSS-REFERENCE: See § 703.1, infra.

[NHA Reg. 60-5E]

PART 703—PUBLIC WAR HOUSING

OCCUPANCY OF PUBLIC WAR HOUSING PENDING TERMINATION AND DISPOSITION

Sec.

703.1 Purpose.
703.2 Eligibility for admission to occupancy in Lanham Act and other public war housing.
703.3 Removal of NHA occupancy controls on certain public housing.
703.4 Distressed veterans and families of servicemen and veterans.
703.5 Establishment of fair rentals.

AUTHORITY: §§ 703.1 to 703.5, inclusive, issued under 55 Stat. 838; E.O. 9070, 7 F.R. 1529; and 54 Stat. 1125, as amended.

§ 703.1 Purpose. (a) This part revises and incorporates the provisions of NHA Regulations Nos. 60-5D (9 F.R. 13703) and 60-14 (Part 701 of this chapter, 10 F.R. 8635). Regulation No. 60-5D set forth the occupancy standards for public war housing and provided for an exclusive reservation or occupancy preference for eligible civilian war workers. Part 701 of this chapter, issued pursuant to the authority conferred by the enactment of Title V of the Lanham Act, made distressed families of servicemen and veterans eligible for vacancies in Lanham Act and certain other public war housing in the same manner and on a parity with eligible civilian war workers. As a result of the end of hostilities, and because of the revocation of all priority controls on ocupancy in public war housing, effective October 15, 1945, it is necessary to remove the present occupancy preference for eligible civilian war workers in such housing and to set forth the occupancy standards as herein provided for application until the admission of occupants is discontinued.

§ 703.2 Eligibility for admission to occupancy in Lanham Act and other public war housing. (a) In all Public Law 849 (Lanham Act), Public Law 9 (Temporary Shelter Acts) and Public Law 781 (Naval Appropriation Act, 1941) projects under the jurisdiction of the National Housing Administrator, eligibility for admission to occupancy shall be as provided in this section until the admission of occupants is discontinued.

(b) In family dwelling projects determined to be of a temporary character pursuant to section 313 of the Lanham Act and in demountable family dwelling projects which are to be removed from their present site, there shall be eligible for admission prior to their termination (except as otherwise provided in this section):

Distressed families of servicemen and veterans affected by unusual hardships, and military personnel and civilian employees and their families or dependents without housing of the War and Navy Departments, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and U. S. Public Health Service assigned to duty in the locality, and of private industries engaged in the completion of war contracts.

(1) Distressed families who are without housing as a result of the war or its orderly demobilization may also be eligible for admission prior to the termination of such projects, to the extent authorized by the Regional Representative, if he shall find after consultation with the local community, that (i) surplus units will remain after the foregoing needs have been met, (ii) an acute housing shortage exists in the locality, and (iii) the community requests that termination of the project be postponed in the interest of orderly demobilization and presents a plan which will permit removal of the project within a reasonable period of time.

(c) In the case of temporary dormitories, trailers, and stop-gap accommodations, no person or family shall be eligible for admission (except as otherwise provided in paragraph (e) of this section) unless the Regional Representative, after consultation with the local community, find that (i) dwelling accommodations for such persons or families in need of housing are not otherwise available in the locality, and (ii) the continued temporary use of the accommodations is required to house such persons or families as an aid to the orderly demobilization of the war effort. In the event of such findings, there shall be admitted to such accommodations prior to their termination:

Distressed veterans and distressed families of servicemen and veterans affected by unusual hardships, and military personnel and civilian employees and their families or dependents without housing of the War and Navy Departments, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and U. S. Public Health Service assigned to duty in the locality, and of private industries engaged in the completion of war contracts.

(d) In all projects not determined to be of temporary character pursuant to section 313 of the Lanham Act, including demountable projects which are not to be removed from their present site, there shall be eligible for admission prior to their termination (except as otherwise provided in paragraph (e) of this section):

Distressed veterans and distressed families of servicemen and veterans affected by unusual hardships, and military personnel and civilian employees and families or dependents without housing of the War and Navy Departments, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and U. S. Public Health Service assigned to duty in the locality, and of private industries engaged in the completion of war contracts.

(1) After the needs of such persons have been met, distressed persons who are without housing as a result of the war or its orderly demobilization may also be admitted. Any units not necessary to meet the needs of those in the foregoing categories will be made available to other persons in need of housing.

(2) After termination of such projects but prior to their disposition, any persons in need of housing shall be eligible for admission provided that preference shall be given to distressed veterans and distressed families of servicemen and veterans over all others.

(e) Exceptions to the foregoing eligibility provisions are as follows:

(1) A person otherwise eligible under this Section who applies for occupancy for himself only, shall be eligible for only accommodations appropriate for single persons.

(2) Temporary shelter may be reserved exclusively for distressed veterans or distressed families of servicemen or veterans in projects programmed for such persons, and, in exceptional cases, the Regional Representative may continue the reservation of dwellings for in-migrant military personnel or civilian employees of the War or Navy Departments or of private industries engaged in the completion of war contracts.

(3) Eligibility for occupancy in public conversion properties shall be without restriction, except that in the selection of tenants preference shall be given to distressed veterans and distressed families of servicemen and veterans and families of in-migrant civilian employees of the War and Navy Departments and of private industries engaged in the completion of war contracts.

(4) In housing provided under Title IV of the Lanham Act, all employees of the United States whom the Washington Area Representative determines to be engaged in work essential to national defense shall be eligible on a parity with distressed veterans and distressed families of servicemen and veterans, and shall be eligible prior to all others.

§ 703.3 Removal of NHA occupancy controls on certain public housing. (a) No FPHA-aided projects, Federally-owned 671 projects, Defense Homes Corporation projects, or Federally-owned non-war housing projects under the jurisdiction of FPHA, are subject to any occupancy restrictions by NHA public regulations or other priority limitations, and occupancy in any such housing which is under the control of the National Housing Agency shall be determined by the Federal Public Housing Authority subject to applicable Federal and local laws. Such determinations may include provision for the housing of veterans as the Federal Public Housing Authority may deem advisable.

§ 703.4 Distressed veterans and families of servicemen and veterans. (a) Veterans and families of servicemen and veterans are "distressed" and affected by unusual hardships within the meaning of this part if such persons are without housing, by reason of eviction, low income or otherwise, and are unable to find in the area adequate housing within their financial reach. This includes a family of a returning veteran who is unable to find a dwelling in the area within his financial reach in which he can reestablish his family. Distressed families, otherwise eligible, include families of deceased servicemen or veterans. As used in this part, a veteran means a person who has served in the military or naval forces of the United States during the present war and who has been discharged or released therefrom under conditions other than dishonorable.

(b) The finding made in § 701.12 of NHA Regulation 60–14 is hereby continued and incorporated herein, and reads as follows: "In accordance with Title V (section 501) of the Lanham Act (Public 849, 76th Congress, as amended) and subject to subsequent determinations, it is hereby found that in those localities in which war housing has been programmed or built and where distressed families are without adequate housing accommodations and are unable to find such accommodations within their financial reach, an acute shortage of housing exists within the meaning of said Section 501 and that, because of war restrictions, permanent housing cannot be provided in sufficient quantities when needed."

§ 703.5 Establishment of fair rentals. (a) The Commissioner of the Federal Public Housing Authority is hereby authorized and directed to (1) fix fair rentals for housing made available under § 703.2 to distressed veterans and distressed families of servicemen and veterans which shall be within their financial reach, and (2) fix fair rentals for housing made available under § 703.2 to other persons which shall be based upon the value of the housing as determined by the Commissioner: Provided, That in exceptional cases during the present emergency he may adjust rentals subject to applicable law and contractual obligations.

This regulation shall be effective immediately.

JOHN B. BLANDFORD, JR.,
Administrator.

A. Cast alloys.
B. Wrought alloys.
Schedule V—Use of tin to repair gas meters (superseded by item (b) (7) of Schedule II).
Schedule VI—Tin plate, terne plate, and terne metal.

§ 1001.1 Conservation Order M–43—(a) What this order does. This order prohibits deliveries of pig tin except under certain conditions and provides for allocation of pig tin by the Civilian Production Administration. It also restricts the use of pig tin, secondary tin, certain tin-bearing products and tinplate in manufacture. The order also prohibits sales and deliveries of jewelry and certain other articles containing tin. It also limits inventories of tin. Certain other orders of the Civilian Production Administration also restrict the manufacture and use of articles containing tin. The provisions of these other orders must also be followed.

In this amendment to Order M–43 some of its provisions have been rearranged. Restrictions on deliveries of pig tin are now contained in paragraphs (b) and (c) of the order. Paragraph (e) outlines the general restrictions on the use of pig tin, secondary tin, tin plate, terne plate, solder, babbitt and other tin-bearing alloys formerly listed in List B. In addition, certain special restrictions on the use of metals to which pig tin has been added are contained in paragraph (g). Other special restrictions on the use of tin in making certain products which were formerly contained in List A of the order now appear in paragraph (h). Restrictions on the sales and use of articles containing tin, some of which were formerly included in List A, are now covered in paragraphs (j) and (k) of the order. The Schedules to the order which describe the permitted uses of tin have also been rearranged. Schedule V which formerly covered the use of tin to repair gas meters has been superseded by item (b) (7) of Schedule II—Solder. Order M–115 which dealt with collapsible tubes has been revoked and the provisions dealing with the tin content and use of such tubes are now contained in item 2 of Schedule I. Similarly, Order L–103–b governing tin plate closures has been revoked and its provisions incorporated in item 5 of Schedule VI along with the other provisions relating to tin plate and terne plate.

Deliveries of Pig Tin

(b) Restriction on deliveries of pig tin. No person shall deliver or accept delivery of pig tin without a specific allocation in writing by the Civilian Production Administration or the War Production Board, except under the conditions set forth in paragraphs (b) (1) and (b) (2) below. "Pig tin" means metal containing 98% or more by weight of the element tin, in shapes current in the trade (including anodes, small bars and ingots) produced from ores, residues or scrap.

(1) Pig tin may be delivered without specific allocation to the Office of Metals Reserve, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, or to any other corporation organized under section 5 (d) of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act as amended or to any agent of such a corporation.

(2) Pig tin may be delivered without specific allocation by a distributor in lots not larger than 2,000 pounds each to any person who does not receive from all sources more than 6,000 pounds of pig tin in the calendar month the distributor makes the delivery and who gives to the distributor at the time he places his purchase order, a certificate in substantially the form below, signed manually or as provided in Priorities Regulation 7 by an official duly authorized for that purpose:

I certify, subject to the penalties of Section 35 (A) of the United States Criminal Code, that I will use this pig tin for ---------- (specify end use) in accordance with Order M–43 or will resell it only in accordance with that order. I will not receive more than 6,000 pounds of pig tin from all sources in ---------- (specify month of delivery) including the amount covered by this order.

(Name of purchaser)

By----------
(Duly authorized official)

If the pig tin, or any portion of it, to be delivered under this subparagraph is to be exported outside the United States, its territories or possessions, or Canada, the purchaser (exporter) should state as the end use in the certificate the words "for export" and give the number of the export license.

(c) Allocations of pig tin. The Civilian Production Administration will allocate the supply of pig tin, including all pig tin released by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and will issue specific directions as to the source, destination and amount of pig tin to be delivered or acquired. Applications for allocations of pig tin should be made to the Civilian Production Administration not later than the 20th day of the month before the month in which delivery is requested, and should be made on Form WPB–412. Except in unusual circumstances, the Civilian Production Administration will not allocate to a person for a calendar quarter an amount greater than the quantity he is permitted to melt or put in process during that quarter plus the quantity which he sold during the corresponding quarter of 1944 for small order sales under M–43. No larger quantity than this may be requested on the regular WPB–412 report, which should be marked "Regular Report." If a larger quantity than this is requested, a separate application on Form WPB–412 must be filed for the additional quantity, marked "Supplementary Application" and a statement should be attached giving a complete explanation of the reasons for the increase requested. The Civilian Production Administration may specifically direct the purposes and end products for which a person may convert, process or fabricate pig tin allocated to him.

(d) Reports on use, disposition and inventories of pig tin. (1) On or before the 10th of each calendar month, each distributor of pig tin must report to the Civilian Production Administration on Form WPB–412 or by letter in triplicate all of his transactions in pig tin during the previous month.

(2) Any person who, on the first day of a calendar month, has in his possession or under his control 4,000 pounds or more of pig tin must report to the Civilian Production Administration on Form WPB–412 by the 20th of that month.

(3) Any person who uses 2,000 pounds or more of pig tin in any calendar month must report to the Civilian Production Administration on Form WPB–412 on or before the 20th of the following month.

(4) The reporting requirements of this order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget pursuant to the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Use of Tin in Manufacture

(e) General restrictions on the use of pig tin, secondary tin, tin plate, terne plate, solder, babbitt and other tin-bearing alloys. No person may use any pig tin, secondary tin, tin plate, terne plate, solder, babbitt, copper base alloys or other alloys containing 1.5% or more tin, or any britannia metal, pewter metal or other similar tin-bearing alloys to make or treat any item or product, or in any process, not set forth in one of the schedules attached to this order. In making or treating these items, or performing these processes, pig tin may not be used where the schedule permits secondary tin only, and the tin content of an item may not exceed the amount indicated in the schedule.

"Pig tin" means metal containing 98% or more by weight of the element tin, in shapes current in the trade (including anodes, small bars, and ingots) produced from ores, residues or scrap. "Secondary tin" means any alloy which contains less than 98% but not less than 1.5% by weight of the element tin.

(f) Quota restrictions on the use of pig tin in manufacture. Quotas are set in the schedules for certain of the items and for certain of the processes in which pig tin may be used. If a quota is set for an item or a process in the schedule, a maufacturer or processor must not use, in the manufacture of the item or in the process during any calendar quarter, more pig tin than the specified percentage of the amount he legally used for that purpose during the corresponding quarter of the year indicated.

(g) Special restrictions on the use of metals to which pig tin has been added. No person may use metal to which pig tin has been added to produce any product or perform any process for which pig tin is not permitted by one of the schedules attached to this order.

(h) Additional restrictions on the use of tin in making certain articles. In addition to the restrictions in paragraphs (e) through (g), no person may use tin of any kind to make the articles listed below. This prohibition applies to any part of any of these articles, and applies to the use of pig tin, secondary tin, solder, tin plate, terne plate, tin plate or terne plate scrap or waste, and any other form of tin or alloy containing 1.5% or more of tin by weight.

S. Maritime Commission or the War Shipping Administration where the use of tin contrary to these restrictions is required either by the latest applicable specifications, on drawings, or by letter or contract of the government service or agency for which the "Implements of war" are being produced. Pig tin used in implements of war must be charged against any applicable quotas.

(2) "Implements of war" means combat end-products, complete for tactical operations (including, but not limited to aircraft, ammunition, armaments, weapons, ships, tanks, military vehicles and radio and radar equipment), and any parts, assemblies or materials to be incorporated in any of these items. This term does not include facilities or equipment used to manufacture the items described above.

Use and Sale of Articles Containing Tin

(j) General restrictions on the use and sale of tin-bearing products. (1) In some cases the schedules attached to this order permit the use of pig tin or secondary tin in making a product only if the product is to be used for a particular purpose. No person shall use any of these products for any purpose other than the purpose permitted by the schedule.

(2) No person giving a certificate under this order or its schedules may receive, use or dispose of the materials obtained with the certificate contrary to its terms. The standard certificate described in Priorities Regulation 7 may not be used in place of any of the certificates described in this order or its schedules.

(3) Notwithstanding the authorization by the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration of a sale or delivery of tin, no person shall sell or deliver any tin or tin-bearing material or product thereof in the form of raw materials, semi-processed materials, finished parts or subassemblies to any person if he knows or has reason to believe such material or any product thereof is to be used in violation of the terms of this order. A supplier may rely upon the written statement of the customer seeking delivery of any such material, as to the purposes for which it will be used, unless the supplier knows or has reason to believe the statement is false, and such a statement shall constitute, on the part of the person making it, a representation to the Civilian Production Administration within the meaning of section 35 (A) of the United States Criminal Code, 18 U. S. C. sec. 80.

(k) Special restrictions on purchases and sales of certain articles containing tin. No person, for the purpose of resale, shall receive from a manufacturer any new article of the kinds listed below, if the article contains tin plate or tin in any other form except solder used for joining purposes. No person shall sell or deliver any new article of the kinds listed below, if the article contains tin plate or tin in any other form except solder used for joining purposes, unless he has an authorization in writing from the Civilian Production Administration or the War Production Board for the sale or delivery. A person who wishes to get such an authorization should apply to the Civilian Production Administration by letter in triplicate, giving a report of his inventory of all of the items listed below containing tin plate or tin in any other form except solder used for joining purposes, showing the quantity of each such item in his possession on March 1, 1945, the names and addresses of the sellers from whom he bought the items, and the dates the purchases were made. Authorizations will ordinarily be given, except where it appears that the purchases were in violation of Order M-43. "New article" means one which has not been used by an ultimate consumer. A purchaser for resale of articles of the kinds listed below may rely on a written certification by his supplier that they contain no tin plate or any other tin except solder used for joining purposes, unless he knows or has reason to believe the statement is false.

1. Advertising specialties.
2. Art objects.
3. Britannia metal, pewter metal or other similar tin-bearing alloy.
4. Buckles.
5. Buttons.
6. Emblems and insignia.
7. Jewelry.
8. Novelties, souvenirs and trophies.

10. Toys and games.

Inventories

(l) Limitation on inventories. No person shall receive delivery of pig tin, or products thereof, in the form of raw materials, semi-processed materials, finished parts or sub-assemblies, nor shall he put into process any raw material, in quantities which in either case shall result in an inventory of such raw, semi-processed or finished material in excess of a minimum practicable working inventory, taking into consideration the limitations placed upon the production of tin products by this order. Forty-five days inventory of pig tin shall, for the purpose of this order, be deemed a practicable working inventory for any person except a manufacturer of tin plate as tin plate is defined in Schedule VI, as from time to time amended. Direction 2 to M-43 also contains restrictions on the inventories of solder, babbitt and other tin-bearing alloys.

Miscellaneous

(m) Appeals and communications. Any appeal from the provisions of this order shall be made by filing a letter in triplicate referring to the particular provision appealed from and stating fully the grounds of the appeal. PART 1001—TIN

[Conservation Order M-43, Direction 1, as Amended Dec. 17, 1945]

STATUS OF AUTHORIZATIONS

The following direction is issued pursuant to Conservation Order M-43:

Because of the critical shortage of tin, all outstanding authorizations issued by the War Production Board before September 1, 1944, permitting the use of tin in any form in the manufacture of products and articles otherwise prohibited by the provisions of Orders M-43, M-43-a, M-43-b, or M-21-e were cancelled as of January 31, 1945. Authorizations to use tin in any form in the manufacture of such products and articles otherwise prohibited by the provisions of Order M-43, issued by the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration after August 31, 1944, remain in full force and effect. Hereafter authorizations to use tin in the manufacture of articles and products prohibited by Order M-43 will be granted only in response to appeals under the order.

Issued this 17th day of December 1945.

[Conservation Order M-43, Direction 2, as Amended, Dec. 17, 1945]

LIMITATION ON ACCEPTING AND FILLING ORDERS BY PRODUCERS OF SOLDER, BABBITT OR ALLOYS CONTAINING TIN AND ON INVENTORIES OF USERS OF SOLDER, BABBITT AND ALLOYS CONTAINING TIN OTHER THAN COPPER BASE ALLOY

Direction 2 to Conservation Order M-43 is hereby amended to read as follows:

(a) No producer of solder, babbitt or alloys containing tin shall fill any orders for delivery of any of said materials in any calendar quarter in an amount which will require him to use in production in that quarter a total quantity of tin greater than the quota permitted him by the provisions of Conservation Order M-43. Within the limitations of his quota, a producer of solder, babbitt or alloys containing tin must accept and fill rated orders as provided in Priorities Regulation No. 1. He must reject any rated orders which he does not expect to be able to fill within his quota because of equal or higher rated orders already received.

(b) No person who uses solder, babbitt or alloys containing tin other than copper base alloys shall accept delivery of any quantity of any of said materials if his total inventory of such material is, or by virtue of such acceptance will become, greater than the quantity of said materials which he will be required by his current practices to put into use during the succeeding 30 days in order to carry out his current operations for permitted uses. The inventory of a person who uses copper base alloys containing tin is controlled by the provisions of Priorities Regulation 32.

(c) No user may place any order for solder, babbitt, or alloys containing tin requesting delivery which would result in an inventory in excess of that permitted by this direction.

Issued this 17th day of December 1945.

PART 1001—TIN

ALLOCATION OF PIG TIN FOR FLUID MILK SHIPPING CONTAINERS

The following amended direction is issued pursuant to Conservation Order M-43:

Notwithstanding the provisions of Conservation Order M-43 and Schedule 1 of that order during the calendar quarter starting October 1, 1945 and in each calendar quarter after that, no person shall use any pig tin in the production of fluid milk shipping containers except as specifically authorized by letter from the Civilian Production Administration. Each person who wants to use pig tin for that purpose after October 1, 1945 should apply by filing a letter with the Civilian Production Administration stating how much pig tin he wishes to use in each calendar quarter from October 1, 1945 through June 30, 1946. He should also state the amount of pig tin which he has used in the production of fluid milk shipping containers during the period July 1, 1945 through September 30, 1945. In general, authorizations will be issued so that each applicant will be permitted to use during the 3 calendar quarters between July 1, 1945 and June 30, 1946, an amount proportional to the applicant's average usage of pig tin for this purpose during the years 1938 through 1941 less the amount used in the third calendar quarter of 1945.

In general, the Civilian Production Administration authorizations will establish quarterly quotas in proportion to the amounts requested for each quarter. The total amount of pig tin which will be authorized under this direction is limited. Applicants who did not use pig tin in the production of fluid milk containers during the years 1938 through 1941 (including persons who were not in business at that time) may nevertheless apply and their applications will be considered on an equitable basis.

Issued this 17th day of December 1945.

(c) Any manufacturer of brass mill products not listed in paragraph (b) (including any person who has never been in the business before) who wants to use pig tin in the production of brass mill products during the balance of the period covered by this direction may nevertheless apply by letter to the Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C., Ref: Order M-43, stating the purpose and amount of pig tin he wishes to use during a particular period, and any other pertinent facts relating to the case and his applications will be considered on an equitable basis.

Chapter XI—Office of Price Administration

PART 1377—LUMBER DISTRIBUTION

DISTRIBUTION YARD SALES OF SOFTWOOD

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

Second Revised Maximum Price Regulation 215 is amended in the following respect:

Paragraph (a) of section 23 is hereby amended to read as follows:

(a) New yards. In order to prevent violations of this regulation by the unnecessary routing of lumber through distribution yards and in order to prevent producers, concentrators, or office wholesalers of lumber from using distribution yard mark-ups for sales of lumber produced or sold by them where such lumber has customarily been and properly should be sold for direct shipment from the mill, the sellers listed below must make application to the Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C., for permission to sell lumber at the maximum prices established by this regulation.

Pending written approval of the application, sales may not be made at the maximum prices permitted by this regulation.

1. Any seller seeking to establish a distribution yard after December 31, 1942, (or the date set in the applicable mill regulation, if different).

2. Any seller who has qualified as a distribution yard under this regulation and who subsequently changes his method of operations; changes his location or seeks to open branch yards; effects a change of ownership or a mutuality of interest linking his business directly or indirectly with another seller of lumber; or discontinues the business and wishes to re-establish his yard.

(1) Contents of application—(i) General. The application shall describe the nature and pattern of the proposed yard business, showing how it conforms with the definition of a distribution yard as defined in section 16 (a) of this regulation, and shall state in detail any element of ownership or mutuality of interest between the proposed yard and any other seller of lumber and the proposed location.

(ii) Office wholesalers. An office wholesaler means any seller who engages in the business of purchasing lumber for resale or of arranging for the sale of lumber on a commission basis, but who did not prior to December 31, 1942, own, operate or maintain a yard or warehouse (which he has operated continuously) in which a regular yard stock of lumber was stored and handled, or any person who has any mutuality of interest with such a seller.

Applications from office wholesalers must show there is no other wholesale distribution yard within a radius of 50 miles and must be accompanied by statements from at least 75 percent of the retail yards within a radius of 50 miles of the proposed yard, setting forth their need for the proposed yard and their willingness to absorb any higher costs of lumber that they may incur in purchasing from the proposed yard. The application shall show that the proposed yard also meets the following minimum requirements:

(a) Yard space of at least 20,000 square feet with covered storage of at least 2,000 square feet.

(b) The yard will be located in a lumber consuming area.

(c) Trucking facilities are available.

(d) The yard will regularly maintain a varied stock of lumber and lumber products from at least two areas. (Example: Douglas Fir and Ponderosa Pine.)

This Amendment No. 14 shall become effective December 14, 1945.

NOTE: The reporting requirements of this Amendment have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Acts of 1942.

Issued this 14th day of December 1945.

SECTION 1. Scope of this regulation—(a) What items are covered. (1) This regulation applies to the items of men's and boys' shirts, underwear and nightwear (made of woven fabrics) included in the groups listed in Appendix A. Under certain conditions (enumerated in (2) below) the regulation also applies to the items of men's and boys' apparel and furnishings included in the groups listed in Appendix B.

The items covered by this regulation will be referred to hereafter simply as "items".

(2) An item listed in Appendix B is covered by this regulation only if:

(i) It is sold by a person whose net sales of items in Appendix A, during his 1943 calendar or fiscal year, represented not less than 66⅔% of his total net sales of items listed in Appendices A and B,* and

(ii) He elects to price the item under this regulation, and

(iii) The election is indicated on his Form I, as specified in section 3 (a).

A person who elects to price an item listed in Appendix B under this regulation, files his Form I indicating the Appendix B items so covered, and receives acknowledgment of the filing of Form I, may not thereafter alter the coverage of this regulation as to his sales of the items listed in Appendix B. Moreover, if a person elects to price an item listed in Appendix B, such election must also apply to all other items in the group which includes that item. For example, a person who manufactures both wool and rayon neckties may not elect to price only his rayon ties under this regulation, since Group No. 101 in Appendix B includes neckties made of all fabrics.

(b) Kinds of sales covered. This regulation applies only to manufacturers' sales. A manufacturers' sale is a sale of an item by a person: (1) who fabricated the item; (2) who sold or consigned to the fabricator any of the principal materials from which the item was fabricated; or (3) whose business is directly or indirectly under the same ownership and control as the person who fabricated the item.

(c) Where this regulation applies. This regulation covers sales in the 48 States and the District of Columbia.

SEC. 2. How to calculate your maximum prices under this regulation—(a) Division factors. You are a seller under this regulation if you make manufacturers' sales of any of the items listed in Appendix A. To find your maximum prices, you must first find a "general division factor". (The definition of "general division factor," together with instructions for finding it, is given in section 3). Once you have found your "general division factor," you will not be required to figure it again.

Your "general division factor" will give you the same markup on all items. If you want different markups on different groups of items, or for sales to different classes of customers, you may select separate division factors according to the instructions in section 4.

You find the maximum price for each item by dividing the direct cost of the item (calculated according to the instructions in section 5 and Appendix D) by the appropriate division factor. If you do not select individual division factors, you divide the direct cost of the item by your "general division factor". If you select individual division factors, you divide the direct cost of the item by the applicable individual division factor.

(b) Discounts and allowances. The maximum price so found for sales of an item is subject to all cash discounts which you customarily allowed to purchasers of the same class during March 1942. If you did not make manufacturers' sales of items covered by this regulation during March 1942, your maximum price is subject to all cash discounts which you customarily allowed during the first four months in which you made such sales after March 31, 1942.

Moreover, if an item according to customary standards of grading is an "imperfect" or a "second", its maximum price is subject to the discounts which you allowed for such items during March 1942. If you did not make manufacturers' sales of items covered by this regulation during March 1942, your maximum price is subject to the discounts which you customarily allowed during the first four months in which you made such sales after March 31, 1942.

(c) Pricing by sellers who are unable to determine ceilings in accordance with above instructions. If you do not have records for the determination of your "general division factor", or are otherwise unable to figure your ceilings as outlined above, follow the instruction in section 7.

SEC. 3. General division factor—(a) How to find your general division factor. A "division factor" is a figure which shows what part of an item's selling price is represented by its direct cost. If you know, for example, that the division factor for an item is .70 and you also know that the item's direct cost is $21.00 per dozen, it is not difficult to find the maximum price. By dividing .70 into $21.00 you get your maximum price, $30.00 per dozen. (Notice that your markup figured on selling price in this case is .30. The markup figured on selling price is always the difference between the division factor and 1.00. Consequently the bigger the division factor, the smaller the markup, and vice versa.)

The form below (Form I) and the accompanying instructions give you specific directions how to calculate a "general division factor" based upon your own past experience. The procedure is quite simple. From your 1943 profit and loss statement, you find a division factor for your items covered by this regulation. Then you increase this division factor by 1/10 of the difference between it and 100%. The resultant figure is your "general division factor" under the regulation.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FORM I

(Each instruction relates to the item in the form which has the same number as the instruction.)

1. From your profit and loss statement for the 1943 calendar year or the fiscal year with the greatest number of months in 1943 (if your fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30, use the period July 1, 1943 to June 30, 1944) and such other available records as may be required, find your total net sales (gross sales minus returns, allowances, prepaid out transportation, and all discounts other than cash discounts) of items covered by this regulation. If you have elected to price certain Appendix B items under this regulation the figure in line (1) must include your net sales of such items during your 1943 calendar or fiscal year. Include only sales of items which are "manufacturers' sales" (as defined in section 1), except that those manufacturers' sales which were made to war procurement agencies as defined in MPR 157[1] (Sales and Fabrications of Textiles, Apparel and Related Articles for Military Purposes) shall not be included.

2. From the profit and loss statement used for instruction (1), and such other available records as may be required, find the total direct cost incurred in manufacturing the items whose sales are entered in line (1). "Direct cost" means the cost of material, trimming and direct labor, as defined in section 5.

Materials and trimmings may be valued according to any accepted accounting method of inventory valuation you ordinarily use. (Enter your method of valuation at the top of the form.) Deduct all discounts received.

[1] 9 F.R. 11059l, 10 F.R. 776, 1910, 6307, 8979.

If your operations are integrated (i. e. if you fabricate or process any materials used in the items which you manufacture), you must value such materials at the maximum prices which you could have charged for these materials, under the terms of the price schedules and maximum price regulations of the OPA in effect on July 1, 1943.

If you have difficulty in calculating the direct cost of your sales of items, obtain further instructions from your OPA district office.

7. Section 1 (a) (2) specifies the conditions under which you may price, under this regulation, items listed in Appendix B. If you desire to include such items in lines (1) and (2) and to price such items under this regulation, list those items in line (7).

9. Indicate the approximate percentage (to the nearest multiple of 5%) that the 1943 dollar sales of each group bore to your total 1943 dollar sales entered in line (1).

10. Indicate the approximate percentage (to the nearest multiple of 5%) of the 1943 dollar sales entered in line (1) delivered to each class of purchaser listed.

NOTE: You must keep the profit and loss statement and all other records which you used in figuring your general division factor.

(b) Report of your general division factor. Two signed copies of Form I must be sent by registered mail to your OPA district office on or before January 10, 1946. You must keep an additional copy of this form as a record. On and after January 21, 1946, you must not sell or deliver any items covered by this regulation until you file this form with the District Office and receive acknowledgment of its filing. OPA may, at any time, disapprove or revise the general division factor which you have reported.

The procedure which you must follow in case you find that the Form I which you have filed is incorrect is set forth in Appendix E.

(c) Adjustment of your general division factor in special cases. If the amount you would have earned in 1943 had you priced your items during that year by the general division factor found in Form I (hereafter called your "modified 1943 profit"), is smaller than your "base profit," you are eligible to adjust your general division factor.

The explanation of the term "base profit", together with an explanation of the adjustment procedure, is set forth in Appendix H. Appendix H also contains Form VII, which provides a simplified method for determining whether you are eligible to adjust your general division factor under this paragraph, and, if so, the extent of the adjustment to which you are entitled.

If, after filling out Form VII, you find that you are eligible to adjust your general division factor, you may use your adjusted general division factor instead of the general division factor originally found in Form I. In such case, however, you must send two signed copies of Form VII by registered mail to your OPA district office, at the same time you send Form I. (A Form VII may not be filed subsequent to the receipt of acknowledgment from OPA of the filing of your Form I.) You must keep an additional copy as a record. On and after January 2, 1946, you must not sell or deliver any items covered by the regulation at prices based on a division factor lower than your general division factor until you file Form VII with the district office and receive acknowledgment of its filing. OPA, may, at any time, disapprove or revise the adjusted general division factor which you have reported.

The procedure which you must follow if you find that the Form VII which you have filed is incorrect is set forth in Appendix E.

SEC. 4. Individual division factors. Under section 3 above, you have found a general division factor which may be used to figure the ceiling prices for all items you sell under this regulation. However, if you want different division factors (which will give you different markups) for your items when you sell them to different classes of customers, you may, under the instructions given below, select "class division factors". Or, if you desire different division factors for different groups of items, you may, under the instructions given below, select "group division factors". However, if you select class division factors, you may not select group factors, or vice versa.

(a) Selection of "classes" and "groups". (1) If you decide to have class division factors, you may put your customers into as many classes as you desire. For example, you may decide that your customers fall into two classes—Class I, for wholesalers, chain stores, and mail order houses; Class II, for independent retailers. You must report to OPA (as required by paragraph (c) below) the classes which you have selected, and thereafter you cannot change the coverage of any class. If you desire to sell to a class of trade not included on your original report, you must, before making any sales to that class, report such new class to OPA as an addition to the report previously filed. However, you must not use a division factor for sales to that class which is lower than your general division factor.

(2) Appendix A lists 9 groups of items and 15 additional groups are listed in Appendix B. You may select a different division factor for each of the listed groups which you manufacture, or you may combine the groups of items into broader "groups". However, you may not classify the items into narrower "groups" than those enumerated in Appendices A and B, and you may not distribute among two or more "groups" the items included in one group in Appendix A or B. Once you have selected the items which shall be included in each of your groups and have reported the selection to OPA (as required by paragraph (c) below), you cannot thereafter change the coverage of any group. However, you may amend your original selection by adding new groups. Each such amendment must be reported to OPA (in accordance with Appendix E).

Example 1. Suppose that you manufacture men's and boys' dress shirts and men's and boys' shorts. These items are classified in Appendix A into four groups—Nos. 1, 2, 6 and 7. You may select a different division factor for each of these four groups, or, you may combine two or more groups into one broader group (for instance, make Nos. 1 and 2 one "group" covering both men's and boys' dress shirts).

Example 2. Suppose you manufacture men's dress shirts (group No. 1 in Appendix A) and men's sport shirts (group No. 3). You may not split your dress shirts into price lines (e. g., $13.50, $15.00, $25.00) and select a different division factor for each price line. Moreover, you may not combine some of your dress shirts (e. g., your $25.00 price line) with your sport shirts, and select a group division factor for the combination of items. (However, as indicated in Example No. 1, above, you may combine all men's dress shirts and all men's sport shirts, and select a group division factor for the combination.)

(b) Finding individual division factors. You may use whatever division factors you desire for each of the classes or groups which you have selected under paragraph (a), subject to the following conditions:

(1) For any group, you must not use a division factor which is more than 5 percentage points below your general division factor. (For example, if your general division factor is .70 you may use a group division factor of .65 but not one of .64.)

(2) If you select class division factors, the total range, between the highest and lowest individual factor, may not exceed .15. (For example, you may select class factors of .62 and .77, but you may not select class factors of .64 and .80.)

(3) If you select individual division factors, your deliveries are subject to the special quota rule outlined in section 6.

(4) The individual division factors selected must result in a weighted average division factor no lower than the general division factor which you have calculated under section 3. Weight the individual division factors in the following manner:

(i) For each class division factor, use the total net sales of items covered by this regulation during 1943 to the class to which that factor is applicable. If you did not make sales of items to a particular class in 1943, do not weight the division factor for that class; however, you must not use a division factor for sales to that class which is lower than your general division factor.

(ii) For each group division factor, use the total net sales during 1943 of the group to which that factor is to be applied. If you did not sell items of a particular group during 1943, use the first one of the following bases which your records permit: (a) Your total net sales of that group during 1944; (b) your total net sales of that group during 1945; (c) an estimate of your next twelve months' total net sales of that group. If you use an estimate of future sales in weighting a particular group division factor, you must not use a division factor for that group which is lower than the lowest group division factor which you are able to weight by 1943 sales experience.

(5) The division factors used for different classes of trade should conform to all applicable laws of the States and the United States which prohibit discrimination, or which otherwise limit price differentials.

Once you have selected division factors for particular groups or classes of trade, and have reported these factors to the OPA (in accordance with paragraph (c) below), you must not deviate from these individual division factors in calculating maximum prices.

Form II in Appendix C, together with the accompanying instructions, illustrates the manner of selecting individual division factors.

(c) Report of individual division factors. If you elect to use individual division factors, you must file Form II (set forth in Appendix C) with your OPA district office. Two signed copies of this report must be sent by registered mail at the same time that you send Form I. (A Form II may not be filed subsequent to the receipt of acknowledgment from OPA of the filing of your Form I.) Keep an additional copy as a record. On and after January 21, 1946, you must not sell or deliver any item at a price based on a division factor lower than your general division factor until you file Form II with your district office and receive acknowledgment of its filing. OPA may, at any time, disapprove or revise the division factors reported in Form II.

The procedure you must follow in case you find that the Form II which you have filed is incorrect is set forth in Appendix E.

SEC. 5. Direct cost of the item being priced. The direct cost of each item is the total of material, trimming and direct labor costs.

(a) "Material" means both body material and lining.

(b) "Trimming" shall include all component parts of the finished item other than materials (including thread, buttons, snaps, tape, grippers, elastic, zippers, bindings, labels, hangers, braids, pipings, belts, frogs), and pins, cardboard, collar uprights, cord, tissues, cellophane, and boxes (excluding shipping cartons and supplies).

(c) "Direct labor" means only the following labor operations: cutting, including spreading, marking and separating; sewing and other related operations; pressing; factory examining of items; and put up, including folding and packaging for storage, but not crating or wrapping for shipment.

If you use a contractor, you must figure as the direct labor cost of items fabricated by the contractor an amount equal to 80% of the contractor's net service charge for direct labor, markup on direct labor, and trim furnished by the contractor.

(d) The following are not direct labor: (1) Make-up (any sum which you must pay because the hourly, daily or weekly earnings of the piece worker at the piece work rate fall below the minimum wage you are obliged to pay that worker by law or by contract); (2) Overtime or double time premiums (the difference between the piece or time work rate and the overtime or double time rate); (3) Indirect labor costs, such as payments to pattern makers, foremen, floormen, repair and maintenance personnel, designers, sample room employees, porters, watchmen, piece goods clerks, buyers, receiving room employees, clerical employees, shipping room employees; (4) Labor overhead cost, such as unemployment insurance, vacation pay, social security, pension contribution, contribution to welfare funds, health or accident insurance, workmen's compensation, and any present or future tax upon or measured by wages.

The procedure you must follow in calculating and recording an item's material, trimming and direct labor costs is set forth in detail in Appendix D. If you are to find your ceiling price correctly you must carefully observe these instructions.

SEC. 6. Special quota rule.—(a) Explanation of the special quota rule. If you select, as set forth in section 4, class division factors (individual division factors for sales to different classes of trade) or group division factors (individual division factors for sales of different groups of items), your deliveries of items covered by this regulation are subject to a special quota rule. This rule is as follows:

(1) Class division factors. During 1946 (and during each subsequent calendar year), you must so arrange your deliveries, made at maximum prices based on class division factors higher than your general division factor, that the net dollar amount charged for such deliveries is at least a certain percentage of the total net dollar amount charged for all deliveries. This quota is the percentage of 1943 total net sales reported, for class division factors higher than the general division factor, on your Form II.

Total net dollar amount charged means the sum of all the prices charged for items delivered, after the deduction of all cash discounts offered, returns, allowances and prepaid out transportation.

Example 3. The manufacturer whose Form II is shown in Appendix C has a general division factor of .730, and has selected class factors of .752 and .607. His Form II (column 3) indicates that in 1943 84.9% of his total net sales were to the class of trade for which the class factor .752 has been reported.

The special quota rule requires that, during 1946 (and during each subsequent calendar year), the net dollar amount charged for deliveries made at maximum prices based on .752 must at least equal 84.9% of the total net dollar amount charged for all deliveries.

Example 4. Manufacturer M's Form II shows the following:

Column 1 Class of purchaser	Column 3 Percent of total sales	Column 6 Reported class factors
	Percent
A	50	0.795
B	16⅔	.775
C	33⅓	.665
General division factor		.755

The special quota rule requires that, during the period, the net dollar amount charged for deliveries made at maximum prices based on .795 and .775 must at least equal 66⅔% (50% plus 16⅔%) of the total net dollar amount charged for all deliveries.

(2) Group division factors. During 1946 (and during each subsequent calendar year), you must so arrange your deliveries, made at maximum prices based on group division factors higher than your general division factor, that the net dollar amount charged for such deliveries is at least a certain percentage of the total net dollar amount charged for all deliveries. This quota is the percentage of total net sales reported, for group division factors higher than the general division factor, on your Form II.

Total net dollar amount charged means the sum of all the prices charged for items delivered, after the deduction of all cash discounts offered, returns, allowances and prepaid out transportation.

Example 5. Manufacturer N's Form II shows the following:

Column 1 Group	Column 5 Percent of total sales	Column 6 Reported group factors
	Percent
1	35	0.81
2	15	.77
3	15	.73
4	35	.71
General division factor		.76

The special quota rule requires that, during the period, the net dollar amount charged for deliveries made at maximum prices based on 0.81 and 0.77 must at least equal 50% (35% plus 15%) of the total net dollar amount charged for all deliveries.

During a year period, you may exceed your quota, but you may not fall below it. If you do fall below your quota, you are in violation of this regulation, and subject to all the penalties provided therefor in the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, including liability to suit for damages by the Administrator under section 205 (e). The amount of overcharge is the difference between the total dollar markup which you realized during the period on all deliveries and the total dollar markup which you would have realized had you equaled your quota.

(b) Suggested record. For convenience in meeting your quota, it is suggested that you keep a current record of deliveries made after January 1, 1946, in this form:

(1) Date.	(2) Net dollar amount charged for items delivered at maximum prices based on class (group) division factors higher than the general division factor.	(3) Total net dollar amount charged for all deliveries.	(4) Col. (2) ÷ Col. (3).

If the percentage figure in column (4) falls below your quota, it would be advisable for you to ship only at maximum prices based on individual factors higher than the general division factor, until the percentage equals your quota.

SEC. 7. How to price items if you are unable to find your general division factor under section 3—(a) Sellers who are not transferees—(1) Application for authorized division factors. If you did not make manufacturers' sales of items listed in Appendix A during the 1943 calendar or fiscal year (and are not the transferee of a business which made manufacturers' sales of such items during the period, as provided in paragraph (b) below), or are otherwise unable to find your general division factor under section 3, you must apply to OPA for authorized division factors.

On and after January 1, 1946, until an order has been issued to you under this section, you must price items listed in Appendix A pursuant to paragraph (c) below. If you have elected to price items listed in Appendix B under this regulation, continue to price these items under the General Maximum Price Regulation [8] and Supplementary Order 139 [9] (adjusted maximum prices for certain low-priced commodities), until an order is issued to you under this section. However, on and after January 21, 1946, if you have not previously made application under this section and received an acknowledgment from OPA of the receipt of your application, you must not sell or deliver any items listed in Appendix A until you make such application and receive an acknowledgment of its filing.

Two signed copies of an application for authorized division factors must be filed with the Apparel Branch, Office of Price Administration, Washington 25, D. C. setting forth the following:

(i) Your name and address.

(ii) Address of plant or plants where you have been operating or intend to operate, and of principal place from which your sales have been made or are to be made.

(iii) Date when you started to make manufacturers' sales of items covered by this regulation.

(iv) Names of officers and principal owners of the business.

(v) The previous business connections in the industry of the officers and principal owners of the business.

(vi) A description of the kinds of items sold, indicating in which groups listed in Appendix A these items fall.

(vii) If you have elected to price items listed in Appendix B, a description of the kinds of items sold or to be sold, indicating in which groups listed in Appendix B these items fall.

(viii) A list of the names and addresses of three or more manufacturers of items listed in Appendix A whose methods of operation, in your opinion, are most nearly like the methods by which you are operating or intend to operate.

(a) The class or classes of trade to which you sell or expect to sell the items manufactured (e. g., wholesalers, chain stores, independent retail stores), and the proportion of your total sales of items which you make or expect to make to each such class.

(b) Method of distribution (e. g., showroom sales, traveling salesmen, advertising).

(c) Methods of manufacturing (e. g., contractor's shop, inside shop, combination of both).

(x) A statement as to whether, under the regulation, you intend to price on the basis of a general division factor, class division factors, or group division factors. If you desire group factors, indicate the proportion of your total sales which you expect to make in each group.

(a) Total net sales of all commodities during this period ("Net sales" is defined in Instruction No. 1 to Form I, section 3 (a)).

(b) Total direct cost incurred in making the commodities whose sales are reported in (a). ("Direct cost" is defined in Instruction No. 2 to Form I, section 3 (a)).

(c) Proportion of the total sales reported in (a) which were manufacturers' sales of items covered by this regulation (as defined in section 1 (b)).

(2) Standards for authorizing division factors—(i) New sellers. If you did not make manufacturers' sales of items listed in Appendix A during the 1943 calendar or fiscal year, a general division factor (and, if you request, individual division factors) will be authorized by order which are in line with the factors established under section 3 by competitive sellers of the same class. In no event will a general division factor be authorized which is lower than the previous experience (if any) of the owners of your business.

(ii) Old sellers. If you made manufacturers' sales of items during the 1943 calendar or fiscal year, but are unable to calculate a general division factor under section 3, a general division factor will be authorized by order on the basis of your 1943 total cost and sales experience. If such a general division factor is not feasible, a general division factor will be authorized according to the standards set forth in subdivision (i) above. Moreover, if requested, individual division factors will be authorized in accordance with the standards set forth in subdivision (i).

(b) Transfers and combinations. (1) If the business, assets, or stock-in-trade of any business was sold or otherwise transferred to you after the close of the 1943 fiscal year of the business, and you carry on the business, or continue to deal in the same type of commodities, in an establishment separate from any other establishment previously owned or operated by you, your general division factor shall be the same as that which your transferor would have been required to use if no transfer had taken place, except as provided in subparagraph (3) below, and the obligation to keep records sufficient to verify such division factor shall be the same. The transferor must either preserve and make available, or turn over to you, all records of transactions prior to the transfer which are necessary to enable you to comply with the provisions of the regulation.

(2) If the transfer occurred during the 1943 fiscal year of the business, you must consolidate the records before and after the transfer and calculate your maximum prices as directed by section 2.

(3) If two or more manufacturers who were in business during the 1943 fiscal year merge or consolidate, they must combine their records before and after the union and calculate maximum prices as directed by section 2.

(c) Temporary division factors. Until an order authorizing division factors has been issued to you under this section, you find the maximum price for each item listed in Appendix A that you manufacture, by dividing the direct cost of the item (calculated according to the instructions in section 5 and Appendix D) by the temporary division factor assigned to the group containing the item to be priced.

SEC. 8. Records and reports. The records required by this regulation must be maintained for so long as the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended, remains in effect.

In addition to the records and reports specifically enumerated in this regulation, you must keep the base period and current records required by §§ 1499.11 and 1499.12 of the General Maximum Price Regulation.

SEC. 9. Informational requirements—(a) Marking of items. On and after January 1, 1946, every manufacturer is forbidden to deliver an item covered by this regulation unless it is marked with the manufacturer's style number or brand name, and a statement of defects (if any).

(b) Manner of marking. The required markings must be attached to each item by stitching, adhesive, pins, staples, string tags or hanging tickets, except where some other method is specifically authorized by OPA. The required markings may be in one or more parts, and may be accompanied by other information, but all portions must be clearly visible to the purchaser.

(c) Elements of marking. The elements to be marked are explained in this paragraph.

(1) Style number or brand name. You must use a separate style number or brand for each different item.

(2) Defects, if any. If the item is a "second" or imperfect, it must be so marked.

(d) Invoices. Every seller must, in connection with every sale of an item covered by this regulation, deliver an invoice showing: (1) the date, (2) the name and address of the seller and purchaser, (3) the lot number or brand name of each different item sold, (4) the quantities of each different item sold, (5) the price contracted for or charged by the seller for each different item sold, and (6) all discounts. The seller must keep a copy of this invoice.

SEC. 10. Relation to other regulations—(a) Regulations superseded. The coverage of this regulation is stated in section 1. Except as provided in section 7, where this regulation applies, it supersedes the provisions of:

(1) The General Maximum Price Regulation;

(2) Maximum Price Regulation 332 [4] (Simplified Men's and Boys' Shirts and Pajamas);

(3) Supplementary Order 139 (Adjusted Maximum Prices for Certain Low-Priced Commodities).

Moreover, for manufacturers' sales of "cotton flannel shirts" made by "dress and sport shirt factories," this regulation supersedes the provisions of Revised Maximum Price Regulation 304 [5] (Specified Utility Shirts). "Cotton flannel shirts" is defined in section 1 (b) (1), and "dress and sport shirt factories" in section 4 (d) (1) of RMPR 304.

(b) Regulations which supplement this regulation. The provisions of this regulation are supplemented by:

(1) Supplementary Order 108 [6] (Manufacturers' Maximum Average Prices for Certain Items of Apparel and Apparel Accessories);

(2) Second Revised Maximum Price Regulation 578 [7] (Maximum Prices for Certain Essential Low-Priced Garments).

(c) Regulations not affected by this regulation. This regulation does not cover transactions governed by the following regulations:

(1) Maximum Price Regulation 157 (Sales and Fabrications of Textiles, Apparel and Related Articles for Military Purposes);

(2) Maximum Price Regulation 172 [8] (Charges of Contractors in the Apparel Industry);

(3) Maximum Price Regulation 177 [9] (Men's and Boys' Tailored Clothing);

(4) Maximum Price Regulation 572 [10] (Manufacturers' Maximum Prices for Certain Fall and Winter Outerwear);

(5) Revised Maximum Price Regulation 208 [11] (Maximum Prices for Staple Work Clothing).

(d) Export sales. This regulation does not apply to export sales. The Second Revised Maximum Export Price Regulation [12] applies to such sales.

(e) Import sales. The provisions of this regulation do not apply to sales or deliveries made from points outside the 48 States and the District of Columbia. (See the Maximum Import Price Regulation.) [13] This regulation does, however, apply to domestic sales when the items sold were originally imported.

SEC. 11. Excessive prices forbidden. On and after the effective date of this regulation, the following practices are forbidden regardless of any contract or other obligation:

(a) Charging more than ceiling price. Every person is forbidden to sell or deliver any item at a price higher than the ceiling price set by this regulation. A lower price may, of course, be charged.

(b) Buying for more than the ceiling price. Every person is forbidden to buy or receive any item, in the course of trade or business, at a price higher than the price set by this regulation.

(c) Combination sales. Every person is forbidden to require any purchaser to buy or agree to buy any other article, service, package or wrapper, in connection with the sale or delivery of any item covered by this regulation. But any person may sell two or more items as a matched set at a unit price, or refuse to sell less than a minimum quantity of any one style number, if these practices were customary for the seller during 1943.

(d) Indirect price increases. Every person is forbidden to do any other act which directly or indirectly increases above the ceiling price the consideration paid by the purchaser for any item. Any practice which is a device to secure the effect of a higher than ceiling price is as much a violation as outright sale above the ceiling price. This applies to devices making use of commissions, services, transportation charges, premiums, taxes, special provisions, tying agreements, trade understandings and all similar practices.

(e) Indirect violations. Every person is forbidden to offer, attempt or agree to do any of the acts forbidden by this section.

(f) Stating prices above the ceiling price. Every person is forbidden to state a gross price above the ceiling price, except that a price higher than the maximum may be stated on the invoice in order to allow for customary unconditional trade discounts: Provided, That the net price is separately stated on the invoice and is not in excess of the maximum price. The amount actually collected or paid must never exceed the ceiling price calculated under section 2.

SEC. 12. Licensing and enforcement—(a) Licensing. The provisions of Licensing Order No. 1, licensing all persons who make sales under price control, are applicable to all sellers subject to this regulation. A seller's license may be suspended for violations of the license or of this regulation. A person whose license is suspended may not, during the period of suspension, make any sale for which his license has been suspended.

(b) Penalties. Any person who violates any provision of this regulation is subject to the criminal penalties, civil enforcement actions, suits for treble damages, and proceedings for suspension of licenses provided by the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

SEC. 13. When taxes may be added. If a statute or ordinance imposes a tax upon a particular sale or delivery (such as a sales tax, gross proceeds or gross receipts tax or compenating use tax) and permits such tax to be stated separately from the selling price, the seller may collect such tax in addition to the maximum price under this regulation; Provided,

That he states the amount of the tax separately.

SEC. 14. Adjustable pricing agreements. Adjustable pricing agreements may be entered into notwithstanding the provisions of section 11 to the extent permitted by this section.

A person may sell an item at the ceiling price established under this regulation, subject to an agreement with the buyer to charge a higher price if it becomes the legal ceiling price by the time of delivery. But one must never charge a price which is higher than the maximum price in effect at the time of delivery. Moreover, unless specifically authorized by the Office of Price Administration, a person must not deliver or agree to deliver at a price which is to be adjusted upward in accordance with action by the Office of Price Administration after delivery.

Specific authorization to deliver or agree to deliver at a price which is to be adjusted in accordance with action by the Office of Price Administration after delivery will be given only where: (a) a request for the changing of a ceiling price has been filed; and (b) the authorization is necessary to promote distribution or production; and (c) it will not interfere with the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, as amended.

This authorization may be given by the Administrator or by any other official of the Office of Price Administration to whom the power to grant such authorization has been delegated, and may be given by order, letter or telegram.

SEC. 15. How this regulation may be amended. Any person who seeks a modification of any provision of this regulation may file a petition for amendment of general applicability in accordance with Revised Procedural Regulation No. 1 issued by the Office of Price Administration.

SEC. 16. Definitions.—(a) Definitions incorporated by reference. Unless the context otherwise requires, or unless otherwise specifically provided herein, the definitions set forth in § 1499.20 of the General Maximum Price Regulation shall apply to the terms used in this regulation.

(b) "Your OPA district office" means the district office of the Office of Price Administration for the district in which is located the seller's principal place of business from which his sales are made.

SEC. 17. Delegation of authority. Any regional office of the Office of Price Administration, or such other offices as may be authorized by order issued by the appropriate regional office, may act on all division factor forms filed pursuant to sections 3 and 4, and corrections and amendments thereto filed pursuant to Appendix E.

APPENDIX C—FORM USED IN OBTAINING INDIVIDUAL DIVISION FACTORS (FORM II)

Form To Be Used in Obtaining Individual Division Factors (Form II)

Copies of this form will not be furnished by the Office of Price Administration. Please make your own copies.

Column 1	Column 2	Column 3	Column 4	Column 5	Column 6
Group of items or class of purchaser	Net sales Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1943	Percent of total sales	Trial division factors	Column 3 times column 4	Reported division factors (column 4 plus* difference in column 5)
A	$849,000	.849	.750	.637	.752
	1,000,000			.728
General division factor (from Form 1)				.720
				+.002

*If the column 5 total was more than the general division factor, the difference would be subtracted instead of added.

Explanation of Classes

Class A—All wholesalers, chain stores and mail order houses.

Class B—Independent retailers.

Instruction for Form II

Column 1. Enter each class for which you desire to use a different division factor, designating it by a letter (e. g., A, B, C). At the bottom of the form define the coverage of the class to which each letter applies. Or, if you have elected to use group division factors, enter each group for which you desire to use a different division factor, designating it by the number for that group listed in Appendix A or Appendix B. If you elect to combine two or more groups, so indicate.

Column 2. For each class or group entered in Column 1, enter your total net sales during 1943. If you did not sell garments to a particular class or in a particular group during 1943, follow the instructions in section 4 (b). If these instructions permit you to use a period different from 1943, or an estimate, for a particular group, place a footnote after the sales figure used, and, at the bottom of the form, indicate either the period from which that figure is derived, or that it is an estimate. ("Net sales" is defined in section 3 (a), Instruction No. 1.)

Column 3. Divide each entry in column 2 by the total for column 2. Enter the resultant decimal in column 3 (round to nearest one-thousandth—e. g., .272, .139, .016).

Column 4. Enter your trial division factors for each group or class. These factors should bear the relationship to each other that you would like to preserve, and should range around your general division factor.

Column 5. Multiply the trial division factor in column 4 by the decimal in column 3, rounding to the nearest one-thousandth.

Column 6. If the total of the entries in column 5 is less than your general division factor (as in the example above), your trial division factors are too low, and each of them must be increased by the difference between your general division factor and the total in column 5. If the total in column 5 is greater than your general division factor, your trial division factors are higher than they need to be, and you may reduce them by the difference between the total of column 5 and your general division factor.

If the total of column 5 does not equal your general division factor, you may, if you choose, adjust your column 4 trial division factors by varying amounts, as long as the total of your reported division factors listed in column 6, when multiplied by the decimals listed in column 3, is no lower than your general division factor. The method described above is suggested merely as an easy way to adjust your column 4 factors.

NOTE: You must keep all records upon which your calculations in Form II are based.

APPENDIX D—PROCEDURE FOR CALCULATING UNIT DIRECT COSTS

(a) When you figure an item's direct cost. Prior to the first time after January 1, 1946, that you sell or deliver a particular item, you must calculate the item's direct cost (in accordance with paragraphs (b) (1), (c) and (d) below). The direct cost figure must be used in determining your maximum price for sales and deliveries of the item during a three months calendar or fiscal period. At the end of that period, and at the end of every three months period thereafter [14] (if you plan to continue sales or deliveries of the item), you must refigure the cost of the materials used in the item (in accordance with paragraph (b) (2) below).

Do not refigure the direct labor cost originally calculated for the item. Moreover, do not refigure the trimming cost originally calculated for the item unless you elect to do so under the instructions set forth in paragraph (c) below. If the new material cost is less than 95% of the material cost first calculated for the item, your maximum price must be refigured on the basis of the new material cost (and the direct labor and trimming costs originally calculated),[15] and you must use this revised maximum price for all your sales and deliveries of the item during the next three months period. If the new material cost exceeds the original material cost, you may increase your maximum price for the next three months period in accordance with the new material cost.

If the item is a "new model" (i. e., not the "same" as any item manufactured by you during 1945 as defined in paragraph (b) (1) (iii) below) there is an additional requirement. At the end of the first three months calendar or fiscal period that it is sold or delivered under the regulation, you must recalculate not only the cost of material used in the item, but also the amount of such material used (in accordance with paragraph (b) (2) below). At the end of each subsequent period, however, recalculate only the cost of material, as outlined above.

Example 6. On January 20, 1946, manufacturer Y desires to sell a men's broadcloth dress shirt, which is the "same" as a dress shirt manufactured by him in 1945. Y keeps his records on a calendar year basis. In accordance with the instructions below, he finds the item's direct cost to be as follows:

Material:
29 yards at 18¢ per yard	$5.22
Linings	.35
	5.57
Trim	1.23
Direct labor	3.75
	10.55

Y's general division factor is .70 and he has not elected to use group or class division factors; therefore, he finds a maximum price for the item of $15.07 ($10.55÷.70=$15.07). Y may sell and deliver the shirt at $15.07 until April 15, 1946, 15 days after the date (April 1) when he must recalculate his material cost.

On April 1, 1946, Y refigures the cost of material (in accordance with paragraph (b) (2) below). (He elects not to recalculate trimming cost.) He finds a new cost for this material of 17¢ per yard. Accordingly, his direct cost for the item is now:

Material:
29 yards at 17¢ per yard	$4.93
Linings	.33
	5.26
Trim	1.23
Direct labor	3.75
	10.24

Since a material cost of $5.26 is less than 95% of $5.57, Y must refigure his maximum price on a direct cost base of $10.24 instead of $10.55. Thus Y's maximum price for deliveries of the item until July 15, 1946 is $14.63 ($10.24÷.70), instead of $15.07.

(b) How to find material costs. To find the material cost for an item, you must calculate two figures—the weighted average cost of each "type of material" used for the item, and the average amount of each such material consumed in fabricating that item. Subparagraphs (1) and (2) below set forth the procedure you must follow in making these calculations. To facilitate your understanding of the procedure, the term "type of material" is explained here.

Subject to the rules below, you may define this term as broadly or as narrowly as you desire. That is, you may consider each different construction or finish of material as a different type of material, and thus figure a separate weighted average cost for each different material. Or, you may consider two or more different constructions or finishes of material as the same type of material, and figure a single weighted average cost for this combination of materials. In the former case, you will have a different weighted average cost per yard of material for each different item; in the latter case, you may have the same weighted average cost per yard of material for several different items.

A separate record (hereafter referred to as Form III) must be kept of the weighted average cost per yard of each different "type of material." In preparing this record, you must observe the following rules:

Rule 1. The Forms III must describe (by fiber content, construction, brand name, etc.) each construction or finish of material included on a particular form, and list the style numbers of the items for which the enumerated materials will be used.

Rule 2. For any group of items, the same construction or finish of material may not be listed on more than one Form III.

Rule 3. Once you have determined the types of material for which you will figure separate Forms III, you may not thereafter amend your forms, so as to add to a particular Form III a construction or finish appearing on a different form, or to calculate a separate weighted average cost for a construction or finish already grouped with other materials.

Rule 4. If you receive a new construction or finish of material after you have prepared your original Forms III, you may not add the new material to any of the existing forms, but must consider this material as a different type of material and prepare a separate Form III.

(1) Calculating material costs for the first three months period an item is sold or delivered under the regulation—(i) Old models. For an item which is the "same" as an item manufactured by you during 1945 ("same item" is defined in subdivision (iii) below), you find material cost for the first three months period as follows:

Step 1. Find the weighted average cost per yard of each "type of material" used for the item. To do this:

(a) Find from your invoices the total yardage of such material delivered to you between October 1 and December 31, 1945 and the net invoice cost [16] of each yard of such material. (If no deliveries were received during the last three months of 1945, base your calculation on the deliveries of such material which have been received between January 1, 1946, and the time your calculation is being made; if no deliveries have been received during this period, base your calculation on contracts for the purchase of such material, entered into prior to the date your calculation is being made.)

(b) Multiply each different net invoice cost by the quantity of such material received at that cost, and total the products.

(c) Divide the sum found in (b) by the total quantity found in (a).

Step 2. Find the average amount of each type of material consumed in fabricating the item. To do this, consult your cutting records for this item covering a representative period in 1945 (not less than three consecutive months) wherein you cut the average size or size range in which you customarily sell the item, and find the number of items cut and the total quantities of each type of material used. Divide the total quantity of each type of material by the number of items cut.

Step 3. Multiply the weighted average cost of the material (found in Step 1) by the average amount of material consumed in fabricating the item (found in Step 2).

NOTE: Before you sell or deliver the item, you must prepare and keep a record of (1) the calculations made under Step 1 above for [14] The three months periods for recalculation of the cost of materials are determined as follows:

(a) Calendar period. Recalculations of material cost must be made on January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1 of each year. For example, if your first direct cost calculation for an item is made on January 20, 1946, you must recalculate material cost on April 1, July 1, and October 1, 1946, January 1, 1947, etc.

(b) Fiscal period. Recalculation of material cost must be made on the first day of each quarter of your fiscal year. For example, if you operate on the fiscal period December 1 to November 30, and your first direct cost calculation is made on January 20, 1946, you must recalculate material cost on March 1, June 1, September 1, and December 1, 1946, March 1, 1947, etc.

However, the previously established maximum price for an item need not be changed until 15 days after the date when you were required to recalculate materials cost (e. g., if you are on a calendar basis, until April 15, July 15, etc.).

[15] If you have elected to recalculate trimming cost, your maximum price must be refigured on the basis of the new material and trimming cost (and the direct labor cost originally calculated).

[16] Net invoice cost means the lower of: (a) the invoice cost after deducting all discounts available; or (b) the maximum price which you could lawfully be charged by your customary suppliers, under the terms of OPA price schedules and maximum price regulations in effect on January 1, 1946. (Customary suppliers are the suppliers from whom you customarily buy substantial quantities of the material, or if you have not previously purchased such material, the suppliers from whom your competitors customarily buy in substantial quantities). You may, in addition, include transportation costs paid by you if, in calculating your general division factor on Form I, you included transportation costs on materials as part of direct cost.

If your operations are integrated (i. e., if you fabricate or process any material used in the garments which you manufacture), net invoice cost means a cost no higher than the net maximum prices which you could have charged for such material under the terms of the OPA price schedules and maximum price regulations in effect January 1, 1946, had you sold it to another manufacturer.

each type of material (in detail similar to Form III in the example below); (ii) the calculations made under Step 2 above for amount of material used (in detail similar to Form IV in the example below); and (iii) the total direct material cost which you have found for the item (in detail similar to Form V in Appendix F). In addition, you must preserve the invoices or contracts for purchase of materials and cutting records on which your material cost calculations are based.

Moreover, each time during the period that you cut an item, you must prepare and keep a record of the number of such items cut, the amount of each type of material consumed in that cutting and a description (similar to that entered on Form III) of the material used.

Example 7: On January 20, 1946, manufacturer Y desires to determine the material cost of a men's dress shirt which is the "same" as Style No. 101 which he manufactured during 1945. This shirt is made from 100 x 60 white pre-shrunk broadcloth. However, Y does not desire to calculate a weighted average cost for this construction and finish alone. Instead, he decides to group it with two other materials (80 x 60 vat dyed preshrunk broadcloth, 68 x 64 printed percale) and calculate one weighted average cost for all three materials. In accordance with Step 1 above, Y consults his invoices for shipments of these materials received by him between October 1 and December 31, 1945, and takes an account of the cost and quantities of such shipments. This account shows the following:

FORM III

Style Nos. 101, 102, 103.
Period from which cost is derived: October 1 to December 31, 1945.

Description of material (1)	Supplier (2)	Date received (3)	Quantity (yards) (4)	Net cost per yard (5)	Total (4) x (5) (6)
80 x 60 vat dyed preshrunk broadcloth	ABC Mill	10/23/45	2,500	$0.19	$475
100 x 60 white preshrunk broadcloth	ART Mill	10/26/45	1,500	.17	255
68 x 64 printed percale	XYZ Mill	10/29/45	500	.18	90
100 x 60 white preshrunk broadcloth	ART Mill	11/6/45	1,000	.17	170
100 x 60 white preshrunk broadcloth	ART Mill	11/25/45	2,000	.17	340
68 x 64 printed percale	XYZ Mill	11/30/45	2,000	.18	360
80 x 60 vat dyed preshrunk broadcloth	ABC Mill	12/12/45	2,000	.19	380
68 x 64 printed percale	XYZ Mill	12/20/45	1,000	.18	180
			12,500		2,250

Weighted average net cost of material ((6)÷(4)) = $0.18 per yard. (This figure is to be entered on Y's control record Form V, in Appendix F.)

Y then takes an account of the cost of the lining used in this item, following the procedure shown on Form III above. This calculation results in a weighted average net invoice cost for lining of 18 cents per yard (which figure Y enters on Form V in Appendix F).

In accordance with Step 2 above, Y then consults his cutting tickets for a representative period during 1945 and finds the following with respect to the material used in Style No. 101:

FORM IV

Style No. 101.
Average Size Range: 14–17.
Period Selected: October 1 to December 31, 1945.

Date cutting made (1)	Cutting ticket No. (2)	Number of dozen cut (3)	Yardage used in each cutting (4)
October 5, 1945	605	500	14,250
October 26, 1945	631	300	8,950
November 18, 1945	681	400	11,600
December 3, 1945	711	500	14,500
		1,700	49,300

Average amount of material consumed in fabricating item: (4)÷(3) = 29 yards. (This figure is to be entered on Form V in Appendix F.)

Y further finds, by following the procedure shown on Form IV above that the average amount of lining used in Style 101 is 1.95 yards (which figure Y enters on Form V in Appendix F).

Multiplying 29 yards by $0.18 per yard gives $5.22 as Y's body material cost during the first three months of 1946 for Style No. 101. Accordingly, Y records $5.22 on Form V in Appendix F. The lining cost is $0.35 (1.95 multiplied by $0.18). Y records $0.35 on Form V in Appendix F.

(ii) New models. For an item which is not the "same" as a style number manufactured by you during 1945, you find material cost for the first three months period as follows:

Step 1: Find the weighted average cost per yard of each "type of material" used for the item. Follow the procedure outlined in Step 1 of paragraph (i) above.

Step 2: Find the average amount of body material to be consumed in manufacturing the item. To do this, run a trial cutting of the average size range in which you expect to manufacture the item, and determine the number of items cut and the quantity of material used in that cutting. Then divide the total quantity of material used by the number of items in the cutting.

Step 3: Multiply the weighted average cost for body material (found in Step 1) by the average amount of material consumed in fabricating the item (found in Step 2).

NOTE: Before you sell or deliver an item you must prepare and keep a record of: (1) the calculations made under Step 1 above for each type of material (in detail similar to Form III in the example for paragraph (i) above); (ii) the calculations made under Step 2 above (showing date, trial cutting made, cutting ticket number, number of items cut, and yardage of material used); and (iii) the total direct material cost which you have found for the item (in detail similar to Form V in Appendix F). In addition, you must: preserve the invoices or contracts for purchase on which your material cost calculations are based and the pattern used for your trial cutting; prepare and keep records of your cutting experience during the first three months period showing the number of items cut, the amount of each type of material consumed in each cutting and a description (similar to that entered on Form III) of the material used.

(iii) "Same item." An item is considered the "same" as another when:

(a) The item belongs to the same group, as listed in Appendix A or Appendix B;

(b) The items contains body material and lining which is the same with respect to construction, weight and grade, finish (including shrinkage treatment), and color fastness;

(c) The item consumes substantially the same average yardage per dozen or per unit of body materials and has substantially the same body dimensions;

(d) The item contains trimmings of fairly equivalent serviceability;

(e) The item is constructed and assembled with the same standards of workmanship and inspection.

Differences in color which ordinarily have not been the basis of difference in price shall be disregarded. Moreover, an item which contains body material and lining which is different with respect to the features enumerated in (b) may be considered the same as another if the body materials and linings used for the items have been entered on the same Form III.

(2) Calculating material costs for sales and deliveries of items in subsequent periods. At the beginning of each three months period subsequent to the first period under the regulation in which an item is sold or delivered, you must, before making any sales or deliveries of the item in the new period, recalculate the cost of the materials used for the item (the periods for recalculation are described in paragraph (a) above). The new material cost shall be the weighted average cost per yard of such material received during the three months period just completed, and follow the procedure outlined average cost, use your invoices for shipments received during the three months period just completed, and follow the procedure outlined in Step 1 of paragraph (1) (i) above. Then, multiply the weighted average cost so found for the material by the average amount of such material consumed in fabricating the item (the figure already found in Step 2 of paragraph (1) (i) or (1) (ii) above).

For a new model, at the beginning of the second three months period in which that model is to be sold or delivered under the regulation, you must recalculate not only the cost of material, but also the average amount of material consumed in fabricating the item. To determine this figure, consult your cutting records for that model during the first period, and find the total number of items cut and the total quantity of material used; then divide the total quantity of material used by the total number cut. At the beginning of subsequent periods, recalculate only the cost of materials, as outlined above.

NOTE: Before you make sales or deliveries of an item in a new period, you must prepare and keep a record of the calculations made in refiguring your cost of materials. Incorporate this record as a continuation of the form similar to Form III in Example No. 7 above, which you previously prepared for the first period the item was sold or delivered under the regulation. You must also record the recalculated total direct material cost of the item on your control record (Form V in Appendix F), which you previously prepared for this garment during the first period. Moreover, each time during the new period that you cut an item, you must prepare and keep a record of the number of such items cut, the amount of each type of material consumed in that cutting, and a description (similar to that entered on Form III) of the material used.

In addition, for new models, you must prepare and keep a record of the calculations made in refiguring the amount of material used. Incorporate this record as a continuation of Form IV in Example No. 7. You must also enter this recalculation on Form V.

Example 8: In example 7, Y calculated a material cost for style No. 101 of $5.57. That was on January 20, 1946. He determined the other elements of the item's direct cost, arrived at a maximum price of $15.07, and then took orders for the item. He delivered some of these items at this maximum price during the three months period January 1 to March 31, 1946. (Y keeps his records on a calendar year basis.)

On April 21, 1946, he desires to make further deliveries of this item. Before making these deliveries, however, he must recalculate the cost of material received during the first three months period (January 1 through March 31, 1946). If the new material cost is less than 95% of the original material cost, Y must recalculate his maximum price for the item. The new maximum price must be used for all sales and deliveries of that item during the period, April 15, 1946, through July 15, 1946. At the end of this period, Y must again recalculate the material cost of the item (from invoices for materials received between April 1 and June 30, 1946), to determine whether he must change his maximum price for sales and deliveries of the item during the next three month period (July 15 through October 15, 1946).

(c) How to find trimming cost. The cost of trimmings used in an item shall be the weighted average net invoice cost of such trimmings received between October 1 and December 31, 1945. Find this weighted average cost by the same method you used for materials, outlined in Step 1 of paragraph (b) (1) (i) above.

The cost of trimmings other than buttons and boxes may be calculated without reference to the particular type of thread, tape, etc., to be used in a particular item. To determine the cost of thread, for example, you may calculate the weighted average cost of all types of thread received by you during the last three months of 1945, and use that thread cost for all items priced under the regulation.

You may, if you desire, recalculate trimmings cost for each three months period in the same manner as you must recalculate material cost. If you elect to do so, follow the directions in subparagraph (a) (2) above.

NOTE: Before you sell or deliver an item, you must prepare and keep a record of: (1) the calculations made in figuring your trimming cost (in detail similar to Form III in Example No. 7 above); and (2) the total trimming cost which you have found for the item (in detail similar to Form V in Appendix F). In addition, you must preserve the invoices or contracts for purchase of trimmings on which your trimming cost calculations are based.

(d) How to find direct labor cost.—(1) Piece-work operations. For operations compensated on a piece-work basis, cost must be figured on the basis of piece-work rates in effect on August 18, 1945.

(2) Time operations. For operations on a time basis, you figure your costs in the manner indicated below, using the wage rates in effect on August 18, 1945. If wages rates have been increased over those in effect on August 18, 1945, such increases in wage rates must not be included as part of your direct labor expenditures for the period.

You will note that the instructions below require a comparison between your pay roll for each time operation during a specified period and the number of items on which that operation was completed during that period. If your records permit, however, you must segregate your items by group, by style, or otherwise.

For example, if your records show how much of your cutters' pay roll goes into dress shirts, you must segregate dress shirts from your other items. If your records show how much of your cutters' pay roll goes into dress shirts in the $20–$24 range, you must segregate dress shirts in that price range from your other dress shirts. If your records show how much of your cutters' pay roll goes into oxfords, you must segregate oxfords from broadcloth.

(i) Old models. For an item which is the "same" as a style number manufactured by you during 1945, you find the cost of each time operation by dividing your pay roll for the operation during a representative period in 1945 (not less than three consecutive weeks), by the number of items on which that operation was completed during that period.

(ii) New models. For an item which is not the "same" as a style number manufactured by you during 1945, you find the cost of each time operation according to one of two rules. Select the rule which will work better for your business and then you must use it for all new models.

Rule 1. Use as the cost of each time operation the cost of that time operation found under paragraph (i) above. If you segregated your paragraph (i) cost by group number, price line, or style, use the most comparable basis for your new model.

For example, if under (i) you segregated your dress shirts from your sport shirts, you use for your dress shirts the dress shirt cost which you have found under (i).

Rule 2. Have each time operation performed on the new model for a period (not exceeding three weeks). Then, divide your payroll for each operation during this period by the total number of items on which the operation was completed.

For example, a shirt manufacturer's cutters work on one new model for three weeks. During that period, they cut 1,000 garments, including the new model. His cutting cost is calculated by dividing his cutters' payroll for three weeks by 1,000.

(iii) Contractors' Services. For items fabricated by a contractor, figure as a direct labor cost an amount equal to 80% of the contractor's net service charge for direct labor, markup on direct labor, and trim furnished by the contractor.

NOTE: Before you sell or deliver an item, you must prepare and keep a record of: (a) its direct labor cost (in detail similar to Form V in Appendix F); and (b) the calculations made in figuring the direct labor cost of operations compensated on a time basis (in detail similar to Form VI in Appendix G). Moreover, you must preserve all of the records on which your calculations of direct labor cost are based, including payrolls, cutting records, contractors' invoices.

APPENDIX E—PROCEDURE FOR AMENDING FORMS I, II AND VII

(a) If you find that it is necessary to amend your Form I, II or VII you must file two signed copies of an amended form with your OPA district office, setting forth the inaccuracies in the original form and the reasons therefor. Until you have received an acknowledgment from your district office of the receipt of the amended form or forms, however, you must calculate your maximum prices as follows:

(1) If you file an amended Form I, use as your general division factor either the factor reported on the amended form or that listed in the original form, whichever is higher.

(i) If you have also filed a Form II which must be amended because of the amendment to your Form I, use as your individual division factors the factors reported on your original Form II if the general division factor reported on your amended Form I is lower than the factor originally reported; use as your individual division factors the factors reported on your amended Form II, if the general division factor reported on your amended Form I is higher than the factor originally reported.

(ii) If you have also filed a Form VII which must be amended because of the amendment to your Form I, use as your adjusted general division factor either the factor reported on your amended Form VII or that listed on the original form, whichever is higher.

(2) If you file an amended Form II, use as your individual division factors the factors reported on your original form. (However, if the amendment to your Form II is necessitated by an amendment to your Form I, see paragraph (1) (i) above).

(3) If you file an amended Form VII, use as your adjusted general division factor either the factor reported on the amended form or that listed in the original form, whichever is higher.

If you have also filed a Form II which must be amended because of the amendment to your Form VII, use as your individual division factors the factors reported on your original Form II if the adjusted general division factor reported on your amended Form VII is lower than the factor originally reported; use as your individual division factors the factors reported on your amended Form II if the adjusted general division factor reported on your amended Form VII is higher than the factor originally reported.

(b) If you have filed Form II and then desire to withdraw it and price merely on the basis of your general division factor, you may file two signed copies of a request for withdrawal with your OPA District Office. Until you receive an acknowledgment from your District Office of the receipt of your request, however, you must continue to use the individual division factors reported on your Form II.

APPENDIX H—PROCEDURE FOR ADJUSTING YOUR GENERAL DIVISION FACTOR IN SPECIAL CASES (FORM VII)

You are permitted to use the adjustment procedure described in this Appendix if you manufactured items listed in Appendix A during at least three years of the period 1936–1939 inclusive, and if you earned a net profit on your over-all business during the years 1936–1939 inclusive. If you did not manufacture any items listed in Appendix A during at least three years of the period 1936–1939, or if your business showed an over-all loss over that period, you may be eligible for relief under Supplementary Order 133.[1] The adjustment of your general division factor, if you are eligible to make such adjustment, involves the following steps:

Step 1. You find the difference between your "base profit" and "your modified 1943 profit." (The latter term has been defined in section 3 (c).) Your "base profit" is your average annual dollar net profit on all your operations (before federal income and profits taxes) in the period 1936–1939, inclusive, or 2.36% of your average annual net sales in that period, whichever is lower.

Step 2. You divide your total net sales in 1943 of items covered by this regulation by your 1943 total net sales of all commodities to determine what proportion your sales of items covered by this regulation bears to your total sales in 1943.

Step 3. You multiply the dollar amount calculated in Step 1 by the percentage calculated in Step 2, to find what amount of

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FORM V

(Each instruction goes with the item in the form which has the same number as the instruction)

1. Enter the style number of the item for which costs are to be recorded on this Form V.

2. Enter the group number listed in Appendix A or Appendix B which applies to this item.

3. Enter a complete description of the item (e. g., men's dress shirt 100 x 60 broadcloth, vat dyed pre-shrunk).

4. Enter the average size range (e. g., 14–17) in which the item is cut.

6. Enter your general division factor if you use it to price all items. If you have selected group division factors under section 4 (a), enter the group division factor for the group number entered in Item 2. If you have selected class division factors under section 4 (a), enter these factors.

7. For each direct labor operation performed on the item for which this record is prepared: Indicate in Column (2) whether the operation is on a piece rate or time basis, enter the cost of each operation in Column (3). If the labor is on a time basis, the amount to be entered in Column (3) is derived from Form VI.

8. Enter in Column (2) a brief description of the kind of trimming used in the item (e. g., buttons—20 ligne pearl). Enter in Columns (3) and (4) the quantity of the trimming used and the weighted average cost of that trimming (calculated under paragraph (c) of Appendix D and entered on the "Form III record" which you prepared for each kind of trimming). Multiply the entry in Column (3) by the entry in Column (4) and enter the product in Column (5).

The cost of certain trimmings may be calculated without reference to the particular type, brand, or source of supply. Paragraph (c) of Appendix D provides that the weighted average cost of thread, tape, labels, hangers, etc. for the last three months of 1945, may be calculated by combining all deliveries of each of these trimmings. In such case enter "all" in Column (2) for these trimmings.

9. Enter in (a) and (b) the number of yards of body material and linings (if any) used and a description of each (e. g., 100 x 60 vat dyed preshrunk broadcloth). The quantity entered is determined from the "Form IV record" which you have prepared for this material (pursuant to paragraph (b) (1) of Appendix D).

On the first line of Columns (1) through (7) enter the following:

Column (1): The three months period on which the costs to be entered in Columns (2) through (7) are based. Obtain this information from the "Form III record" which you must prepare and keep pursuant to paragraph (b) (1) of Appendix D.

If the cost for the first period is based on purchases because you did not receive any of this material during the last 3 months of 1945, indicate this fact by listing the purchase order numbers on which the average is based.

Columns (2) and (4): The weighted average cost per yard of the material and linings used, obtain this information from the "Form III record". (If more than one kind of body material is used, provide columns for each different kind or material.)

the total difference between your "base profit" and your "modified 1943 profit" is allocable to your sales of items covered by this regulation.

Step 4. You adjust the general division factor calculated in Form I so that, on the basis of your 1943 operations, the use of the adjusted factor will afford a total net profit equal to your "modified 1943 profit" plus the amount calculated in Step 3.

To determine whether you are eligible to adjust your general division factor, and, if so, the extent of the adjustment to which you are entitled, fill out Form VII below, in accordance with its accompanying instructions.

FORM USED IN ADJUSTING YOUR GENERAL DIVISION FACTOR UNDER SECTION 3 (C) (FORM VII)

MANUFACTURERS' MAXIMUM AVERAGE PRICES

CERTAIN ITEMS OF APPAREL AND APPAREL ACCESSORIES

A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this amendment, issued simultaneously herewith, has been filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

1. Section 6 (d) is amended by adding the phrase "Except as provided in Special Order No. 9 under section 17 of this order" at the beginning of the first sentence thereof.

2. Section 7 is amended by adding the phrase "Except as provided in Special Order No. 9 under section 17 of this order" at the beginning of the first sentence thereof, and by amending the second undesignated paragraph to read as follows:

However, the limitation in this paragraph shall not apply to you if you have filed a proper application for adjustment of your maximum average prices under section 21 until the Office of Price Administration has issued to you an order either granting or denying such adjustment. Of course, the limitation shall apply to any manufacturer who has not filed an application under section 21, or who has filed an application which does not allege as a basis for adjustment, one of the grounds listed in section 21 (a) (1). Such applications (as stated in section 21 (c) (3)) will be dismissed by letter rather than granted or denied.

[1] 9 F.R. 13641.

[1] 10 F.R. 4336, 5995, 6402, 8368, 10200, 12089, 12984.

3. Section 21 is redesignated section 23.

4. Section 21 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 21. Individual adjustment in certain hardship cases. This section provides for adjustment by order of your maximum average prices established under section 3 if you can demonstrate that you meet the qualifications listed in (a) below. Note that you may not apply under this section on the ground that you are unable to obtain materials either in sufficient quantity or at suitable prices to enable you to meet your maximum average prices.

(a) Who may apply. You may apply for adjustment of your maximum average price established for a particular category under section 3 if any of the grounds listed in (1) describes your circumstances and as a result of such circumstance, you are suffering, as to that category, any of the types of hardship listed in (2).

(1) Grounds for application. (i) During one or more of your base periods you delivered at least 50% (in units) of your items in the category in "second" or "irregular" quality and your base period delivery records so described such items.

(ii) During one or more of your base periods, 50% or more of your deliveries (in dollars) of items in the category were made pursuant to contracts or subcontracts with war procurement agencies.

(iii) During your base period, part of your production facilities were damaged or destroyed by flood, fire or other Act of God and these facilities had been devoted to production of items at prices higher than your maximum average price.

(iv) Since your base period part of your production facilities were damaged or destroyed by flood, fire or other Act of God, these facilities had been devoted to production of items at prices lower than your maximum average price and have not been replaced.

(v) Since your base period you acquired (and currently have) a new type of machinery which can be used to produce items only at prices higher than your maximum average price for the category.

(vi) Your weighted average price for the category during any of your base periods was based on deliveries during a period shorter than 6 weeks.

(vii) You made deliveries of items in the category during a shorter period than one full calendar quarter in either 1943 or 1944.

(viii) You became the transferee, between the base period and April 28, 1945, of a person to whom any of the circumstances described above applies.

(ix) You purchased your business during or since 1943 but prior to April 28, 1945, and the stock in trade of the business was liquidated at a net loss during one or more of your base periods.

(2) Types of hardship. (i) Your maximum average price established for the category under section 3 is abnormal in comparison with your previous experience in the same industry.

(ii) You had no previous experience in the same industry and your maximum average price for the category is lower than the weighted average price you would have maintained in the absence of the circumstances listed in (1) above.

(iii) You cannot because of your present facilities operate your business without incurring a net surcharge even if you deliver all items in the category at your total cost for such items. This situation shall be considered a hardship only if the circumstances described in (1) (v) above are alleged as the ground for application.

(b) How to apply. Application for adjustment under this section must be made by filing with your OPA District Office two copies of an application containing the following information:

(1) Your business name and address.

(2) The categories for which you are seeking adjustment of your maximum average price.

(3) Your maximum average price for each category listed in (2), as adjusted under Special Order No. 3.

(4) Your ground or grounds for application. (This must be one of the grounds listed in (a) (1) above.)

(5) A statement in detail, of the facts constituting each of your grounds for application.

(6) Your type of hardship. (This must be one of the types listed in (a) (2) above.)

(7) An explanation, in detail, of the manner in which the circumstances described in (5) caused the hardship stated in (6), including facts as to your previous experience or other reasons why your present maximum average price is abnormal, or the reasons why your present facilities make production within your present maximum average price impossible. This explanation should be supported by all factual information pertaining thereto and any evidence corroborating these facts.

(8) Your requested adjusted maximum average price for each category listed in (2).

(c) Disposition of applications—(1) Authorization of adjusted maximum average prices. Where it has been satisfactorily demonstrated that one or more of the circumstances listed in (a) (1) exists, and that as a result of such circumstance, the applicant is suffering one of the types of hardship listed in (a) (2), the Office of Price Administration will, by order, adjust the maximum average prices in appropriate categories, to accomplish the following results:

(i) Maximum average prices, abnormally lowered by the fortuitous circumstances described in 3 (a) (1) (except 3 (a) (1) (v)), will be restored to the levels warranted by the previous experience of the applicants or, in the case of applicants without previous experience, to the levels which would have existed if such circumstances had not interfered.

(ii) Maximum average prices which cannot be maintained because of the circumstance described in 3 (a) (1) (v), will be adjusted to permit the manufacturer to recover total cost of the items in the adjusted category which he can make, provided that he is unable to balance his surcharges with credits in other categories.

(2) Denial of applications. Where it has been determined that the circumstances listed in (a) (1) did not occur, or where, although it has been satisfactorily demonstrated that one of the circumstances listed in (a) (1) did occur, it has not been established that, as a result of such circumstances, the applicant is suffering one of the types of hardship listed in (a) (2), the Office of Price Administration will issue an order denying the application.

(3) Dismissal of application. Where the application does not allege one of the circumstances listed in (a) (1) the Office of Price Administration will dismiss the application informally by letter.

5. Section 22 is added to read as follows:

SEC. 22. Certain items which may be excluded from this order—(a) What items may be excluded. You need not include prices charged for deliveries made on or after October 1, 1945 of the following items in computing your weighted average prices under this order, Provided, That the requirements of paragraph (b) which are applicable to you have been observed:

(1) Uniforms which are sold and delivered to state or municipal governments or agencies thereof, schools, common carriers, utilities, athletic associations or clubs or non-profit corporations or associations.

(2) Garments made to the individual measurements of the ultimate consumer and individually cut by the manufacturer after receipt of an order placed by the ultimate consumer with the manufacturer's customer.

(3) Items which are completely hand-knit, hand-crocheted or hand-woven (except for lining, binding or trimming).

(4) Items made wholly (except for lining, binding or trimming) from 100% cashmere yarn.

(5) Items made wholly (except for lining, binding or trimming) from 100% nylon yarn or fabric.

(6) Items made wholly (except for lining, binding or trimming) from pure silk yarn or fabric.

(7) Items made wholly (except for lining, binding or trimming) from pure Irish linen fabric.

(8) Items made wholly (except for lining, binding or trimming) from natural or synthetic straw or straw braid.

(b) Amending maximum average price chart—(1) Sellers who delivered both items listed in (a) and other items during the base period. If, during your base period, you delivered both items listed in (a) and other items in the same category and you now wish to deliver both types of items in that category but do not wish to include those listed in (a) in calculating your weighted average prices after October 1, 1945, you must refigure your MAP for that category by excluding from your base period deliveries of that category, all deliveries of items listed in (a). You must also file with your OPA District Office, on or before January 20, 1946 or the date on which you first deliver an item you wish to exclude, whichever is later, two signed copies of an amendment to your maximum average price chart showing as to each refigured category the information required by section 4 (b) of Supplementary Order 108.

(2) Sellers who delivered only items listed in (a) during the base period. If you delivered only items listed in (a) during your base period and you do not wish to include those items in calculating your weighted average price after October 1, 1945, you must file with your OPA District Office, on or before January 20, 1946 or the date on which you first deliver an item you wish to exclude, whichever is later, two signed copies of an amendment to your maximum average price chart stating the number and title of each such category and that each such category is now removed from your maximum average price chart.

(c) Special provision for persons who must amend their maximum average price charts under (b) (2) above. If you have no MAP for a category after October 1, 1945 because all of your base period deliveries in the category were items listed in (a), you must not deliver any items in the category not listed in (a) until you receive an order under section 9 of this order authorizing a MAP for that category; except that if you file your application on or before January 20, 1946 you may continue to deliver and use your former maximum average price for that category until an order of authorization is issued to you.

6. Section 18 is amended by deleting the word "and" before subdivision (f) thereof and by adding a new subdivision (g) to read as follows:

(g) Applications for adjustment under section 21,

7. Appendix C is amended by deleting the phrase "MPR 95" and substituting, therefor, the phrase "MPR 602".

An opinion accompanying this Special Order No. 10 under section 17 of Supplementary Order 108 has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

SECTION 1. Purpose of this order. If the ceiling price for any individual item delivered by you in a category during your base period has been adjusted under any of the OPA regulations or supplementary orders specified in section 2 below, this order permits you to deduct from the net amount charged for that item the amount of such adjustment (or adjustments, if more than one) in computing your weighted average price for that category for the third quarter of 1945 and all subsequent calendar quarters.

SEC. 2. What ceiling price adjustments may be deducted. In computing your weighted average price for a category for any calendar quarter, you may deduct from the net amount charged for any individual item delivered in that category during that quarter the amount by which your base period (under SO 108) ceiling price for that item has been adjusted under any one or more of the following OPA regulations or supplementary orders:

(a) Maximum Price Regulation 221,[2] § 1389.302 (e) (added by Amendment 5) and § 1389.304, (added by Amendment 6),

(b) Supplementary Regulation 14E,[3] section 1.4 (added by Amendment 9),

(c) Supplementary Order 99,[4]

(d) Revised Supplementary Order 99,[5]

(e) Supplementary Order 137,[6]

(f) Supplementary Order 133.[7]

Example 1. You manufacture style 307 men's 12 pound cotton knitted union suits (Category E-82). Your base period for that category is the year 1943. In that year your ceiling price for style 307 was $8.64 net per dozen. As of July 1, 1944 you adjusted your ceiling price 36 cents, to $9.00 net per dozen, in accordance with Amendment 6 to MPR 221. In the first calendar quarter under S. O. 108 (June through September 30, 1945) you delivered 1000 dozen of style 307, at this adjusted price of $9.00. This style was the only one you delivered in Category E-82 during that quarter. In computing your weighted average price for that category under this special order you are permitted to deduct the adjustment of 36 cents on each unit delivered. Therefore your weighted average price would be $8.64 instead of $9.00. ($9.00−36=$8.64; $8.64×1000 dozen=$8,640; $8,640÷1000=$8.64.)

Example 2. Assume that in the case set forth in example 1 in addition to the 36 cents adjustment which you obtained under Amendment 6 to MPR 221 you had received a further adjustment of 50 cents per dozen under Revised Supplementary Order 99 which increased your ceiling price from $9.00 net per dozen to $9.50 net per dozen and that during the third quarter of 1945 you delivered 1000 dozen of style 307 at this price of $9.50 per dozen. Under this special order you are permitted to deduct 86 cents (.36+.50) from the net price charged for each dozen during that quarter. Therefore, your weighted average price for Category E-82 would be $8.64 instead of $9.50 ($9.50−.86=$8.64; $8.64×1000 dozen=$8,640; $8,640÷1000 dozen=$8.64.)

SEC. 3. Corrected quarterly report for third quarter of 1945. If you adjust your weighted average price for any category for the third calendar quarter of 1945 (June 1 through September 30, 1945) under this order, you must file with your OPA District Office, on or before January 20, 1946, two copies (signed by an owner, officer or principal) of a corrected quarterly report covering each category delivered during that quarter and containing all of the information required by section 12 (b) (1) of SO 108, using your adjusted weighted average prices permitted by this order instead of your actual weighted average prices.

SEC. 4. Records. In addition to the records which you are required to maintain under section 12 of SO 108, if you adjust your weighted average price for a category under this order, you must keep available for examination by the Office of Price Administration a copy of each order issued to you by the OPA under any of the regulations or orders set forth in section 2 above adjusting the ceiling price for any item which you deliver in that category.

This special order shall become effective December 14, 1945.

NOTES: All record keeping and reporting requirements of this special order have been approved by the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Issued this 14th day of December 1945.

Administrator.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO CONTRACT TERMINATION INVENTORY

An opinion accompanying this Special Order No. 11 under section 17 of Supplementary Order 108 has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.

SECTION 1. Purpose of this order. This order permits you to exclude from the computation of the weighted average price for any category for any quarter, beginning with the fourth quarter of 1945, deliveries of items which meet the definition of "contract termination inventory" as set forth in this order. This order is permissive and not mandatory. Therefore, if you desire to continue to include your deliveries of contract termination inventory items in computing your weighted average price for a category, you may do so. However, if you desire to exclude such deliveries, you may do so in accordance with the provisions of this special order.

SEC. 2. Meaning of terms. As used in this special order:

(a) "Contract termination inventory" includes any item of apparel or any apparel accessory covered by SO 108 and related to a terminated contract with a war procurement agency. An item shall be considered to be related to a terminated contract with a war procurement agency if, (1) it was completely finished pursuant to such contract prior to its termination, or (2) it was put into process under such contract, although not completed at the termination thereof, or (3) although not put into process until after the termination of the contract, it is made of fabrics, yarns, or other basic materials which had been acquired by the manufacturer prior to termination of the contract solely for incorporation into items required to be produced by him under his contract with the war procurement agency. The manufacturer is considered to have "acquired" the materials, under this section, at the time when title to such materials passed to him or to the war procurement agency.

(b) "War procurement agency" means the War Department, the Department of the Navy, the United States Maritime Commission, the War Shipping Administration, or the Procurement Division of the Treasury of the United States, or any agency of any of the foregoing.

(c) "Contract" means a letter of intent, purchase order, or any other agreement or commitment by which a war procurement agency undertakes to purchase any item of apparel or any apparel accessory, and all amendments and supplements thereto.

(d) "Termination", "terminate", and "terminated" refer to the cancellation in whole or in part of work under a contract for the convenience or at the option of the procurement agency (except for default of the contractor).

SEC. 3. Exclusion of deliveries of contract termination inventory in computing weighted average price for a category. If, during any calendar quarter, beginning with the fourth calendar quarter of 1945, you make deliveries in any category of items which meet the definition of contract termination inventory set forth in section 2 above, you may exclude these deliveries in computing your weighted average price for that category: Provided, That you file with the OPA the report of election and the supplementary information required by section 4 below.

SEC. 4. Report of election and supplementary information. If you elect to exclude deliveries of contract termination inventory in computing your weighted average price for a category within any calendar quarter you must, within twenty days after the end of that quarter, file with your OPA District Office two copies (signed by an officer, owner, or principal) of a "Report of election under Special Order 11" containing the following:

(a) Your business name and address,

(b) The calendar quarter covered,

(c) A statement that you have elected to exclude your deliveries of contract termination inventory in computing your weighted average price for that quarter, and setting forth the category number and title of each category in which deliveries of contract termination inventory have been excluded,

(d) For each category set forth under (c) above, the style or lot number, a brief description, the net price charged, and the number of units of each item of contract termination inventory delivered during the quarter.

(e) Your report must also contain the following supplementary information:

(1) The contract number of each war procurement contract terminated during that quarter (and, for the fourth quarter of 1945, also the contract number of each contract terminated prior to that quarter) covering any contract termination inventory which you delivered during that quarter or had on hand at the end of that quarter,

(2) The war procurement agency with which each such contract was made,

(3) The date each such contract was terminated,

(4) The items of apparel or apparel accessories and the quantities thereof required to be delivered and delivered under each such contract,

(5) The quantity of contract termination inventory which you had on hand under each such war procurement contract on the date of termination thereof, setting forth for each item separately:

(i) The quantity of completely finished items

(ii) The quantity of items in process on that date

(iii) For items not yet put in process at the time of contract termination, the quantity of basic materials (i. e. yards and kind of fabric, pounds and type of yarn, number of units of other basic materials) which had been acquired by you for use under each such war procurement contract.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION.

[File No. 70–1132]

UNITED PUBLIC UTILITIES CORP. ET AL.

NOTICE REGARDING FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held in its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pa., on the 15th day of December A. D. 1945.

Notice is hereby given that a declaration or application (or both) has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by United Public Utilities Corporation ("UPU"), a registered holding company, and The Bradford and Gettysburg Electric Light & Power Company, The Brookville and Lewisburg Lighting Company, The Buckeye Light & Power Company, Citizens Heat, Light and Power Company, The Eaton Lighting Company, The Greenville Electric Light and Power Company, Indiana-Ohio Public Service Company, Lynn Natural Gas Company, The New Madison Lighting Company, Peoples Service Company, Western Ohio Public Service Company, Dakota Public Service Company and Knife River Coal Mining Company, subsidiaries of UPU.

Notice is further given that any interested person may not later than December 26, 1945 at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request and the nature of his interest, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. At any time thereafter, said declaration or application, as filed or as amended, may be granted, as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated pursuant to said act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania.

All interested persons are referred to said declaration or application which is on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which is summarized below:

The applicants-declarants propose, subject to the approval of the Commission, to allocate Federal excess profits and income taxes for 1944 among UPU, its subsidiaries and two former subsidiaries of UPU, Southern Gas Producing Company and Fort Smith Gas Company, all of which joined in the filing of a consolidated Federal income and excess profits tax return for 1944, upon a basis differing from that expressly authorized by Rule U-45 (b) (6) promulgated under the act.

It is represented by the applicants or declarants that by virtue of the filing by UPU and its subsidiaries of a consolidated tax return for 1944, the member companies obtained an aggregate tax savings of $104,726.21; that it was advantageous to all the companies in UPU's holding company system to join in the filing of a consolidated return for 1944 except Knife River, which for 1944 had an adjusted net income loss of $30,331.75; that by joining in the consolidated tax return, Knife River lost the benefit of the loss carry back available to it on the basis of the filing of a separate return; that if Knife River had filed a separate return for 1944, and had applied the loss carry back to its taxable income for 1942, it would have been entitled, on the basis of tax returns made, to a net tax refund in the sum of $13,828.18; and that the consolidated Federal excess profits and income tax return for 1944 was filed by mutual agreement pursuant to an understanding that UPU and its then subsidiaries (other than Knife River) would, if authorized by the Commission, reimburse Knife River for the loss which it would sustain by joining in such consolidated return.

It is proposed that each company which joined in the consolidated return (other than Knife River) contribute to Knife River such proportion of the total loss as the amount of each of such companies' income and excess profits taxes for the year 1944 on the basis of separate tax returns bears to the total of such taxes for that year.

The following schedule shows the ratio of the income and excess profits taxes of each company which joined in the consolidated return (other than Knife River) for the year 1944 on the basis of separate returns to the total of such taxes for that year and the amount of the proposed refund by each company to Knife River:

	Taxes on an individual basis percent to total	Amount of refund to Knife River Coal Mining Co.
The Bradford & Gettysburg Electric Light & Power Co.	Percent 1.13	$156.26

SOUTHERN NATURAL GAS CO. ET AL.

NOTICE REGARDING FILING AND HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on the 14th day of December, A. D. 1945.

In the matter of Southern Natural Gas Company, Southern Production Company, Inc. (Alabama), Southern Production Company, Inc. (Delaware); File No. 70–1185.

Notice is hereby given that a joint application and declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by Southern Natural Gas Company (Southern), a registered holding company and a subsidiary of Federal Water and Gas Corporation, also a registered holding company, Southern Production Company, Inc. of Alabama (Alabama), a subsidiary of Southern, and Southern Production Company, Inc., of Delaware (Delaware), also a subsidiary of Southern.

Notice is further given that any interested person may not later than the 21st day of December 1945 at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter stating the reasons for such request and the nature of his interest, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. At any time thereafter said application and declaration, as filed or as amended, may be approved or may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under said act or the Commission may exempt such transaction as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 18th and Locust Streets, Philadelphia 3, Pennsylvania.

All interested persons are referred to said document which is on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized as follows:

Delaware is an inactive corporation, organized by Southern in 1942 for the stated purpose of taking over the business of Alabama in order to eliminate certain taxes imposed on Alabama under laws of the State of Alabama which Alabama claims constitute an inequitable burden on its business. It is stated in the filing that since Alabama's organization in 1940 the place of conducting its operations has changed, and that substantially all of its operations are now conducted in the States of Louisiana and Texas. A statutory merger of Alabama into Delaware is contemplated, the assets of Alabama to be transferred to Delaware and Delaware to assume the liabilities of Alabama.

Delaware proposes to make an initial issue and sale to Southern of 1,000 shares of common stock at par value of $1 per share and Southern proposes to acquire said stock. Southern proposes to donate all the capital stock of Alabama to Delaware and Delaware proposes to acquire said stock. All of the assets of Alabama are proposed to be sold to Delaware, which is to assume all of Alabama's liabilities. Delaware then proposes to issue and sell and Southern proposes to acquire additional new common stock to be issued from time to time on or before March 31, 1947, in such amounts (not in excess of an aggregate of 1,499,000 shares) and at such prices (not less than $1.00 per share) as will produce a total of not less than $999,000 and not in excess of $2,099,000.

Alabama proposes to repay its outstanding 2½% serial notes owned by Southern. These notes aggregate $400,000 at the present time but may be increased by $200,000 additional face amount during December 1945.

The applicants propose to use the proceeds of the sale of Delaware's stock in a maximum amount of $1,499,000 and minimum of $1,000,000 for development and exploration (principally drilling gas wells in the Carthage field in Texas) and a maximum amount of $600,000 for the payment of the outstanding serial notes. To the extent such notes are not paid, the maximum total sales price of the stock to be issued will be reduced.

The application-declaration states that the above transactions are related to Southern's general program for the acquisition and development of additional supplies of gas.

The applicants have designated sections 6 (b), 10, 12 (c), and 12 (f) of the act, and Rules U-42 (b) (2) and U-43 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

The Commission, by order adopted on October 16, 1945, pursuant to section 19 (a) (4), having summarily suspended trading in the Common Stock, $1 Par Value, of Red Bank Oil Company on the New York Curb Exchange for a period of ten (10) days in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, and said security having been similarly suspended from trading on said exchange for additional periods of ten (10) days each by orders adopted on October 25, November 2, November 14, November 23 and December 5, 1945;

The Commission, with due regard for the public interest and the protection of investors, deeming it appropriate that trading in said Common Stock on the New York Curb Exchange be summarily suspended;

The Commission, being of the opinion further that such suspension is necessary in order to prevent fradulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, with the result that it will be unlawful under section 15 (c) (2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Commission's Rule X–15C2–2 thereunder for any broker or dealer to make use of the mails or of any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce to effect any transaction in, or to induce or attempt to induce the purchase or sale of, such security otherwise than on a national securities exchange:

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 19 (a) (4) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, that trading in such security on the New York Curb Exchange be, and it hereby is, summarily suspended in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, effective for a period of ten (10) days from the opening of the trading session on December 17, 1945.

TITLE 30—MINERAL RESOURCES

Chapter VI—Solid Fuels Administration for War

PART 602—GENERAL ORDERS AND DIRECTIVES

DIRECTION TO CERTAIN SHIPPERS OF COAL PRODUCED IN DISTRICT 8

The continued shortage of mine labor and losses of bituminous coal production during the last three months have seriously retarded scheduled shipments of coal to retail dealers located in the States of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia. Shipments to this area must be accelerated if hardship and suffering are to be avoided. Accordingly, it is necessary, pursuant to SFAW Regulation No. 1, as amended, to issue the following direction:

1. Every shipper of coal produced in District 8 (except in the Hazard subdistrict) who is obligated, pursuant to § 602.703 of SFAW Regulation No. 27, as amended, to ship coal to retail dealers located in the States of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia, shall, notwithstanding the schedules of shipments set forth in § 602.703 (d) of the regulation, as amended, make shipments as provided in paragraph 2, below.

2. During the month of December, each shipper shall ship, to the maximum extent practicable, to each such retail dealer not less than 33⅓ per cent of the balance of the tonnage which the shipper was obligated under the preference provisions of the regulation to ship, as of December 1, 1945, to the retail dealer during the period December 1, 1945, to March 31, 1946. To the maximum possible extent, such shipments shall be completed not later than midnight of Friday, December 21, 1945. The amount of such accelerated tonnage shall be deducted from the quotas which would normally be shipped to the retail dealers in the states enumerated above during the month of March 1946. Thus, shippers shall, for the balance of the fuel year, schedule their preference shipments to these dealers as follows:

December 1945—33⅓ % of the balance due as of December 1, 1945.

February 1946—25% of the balance due as of December 1, 1945.

March 1946—16⅔% of the balance due as of December 1, 1945.

This direction shall become effective immediately.

(E.O. 9332, 8 F.R. 5355; E.O. 9125, 7 F.R. 2719; Sec. 2 (a), 54 Stat. 676, as amended by 55 Stat. 236, 56 Stat. 176 and 58 Stat. 827)

Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator for War.

PART 1301—MACHINE TOOLS

[MPR 1,[1] Incl. Amdts. 1-9]

SECOND-HAND MACHINE TOOLS

This compilation of Maximum Price Regulation 1 includes Amendment 9, effective December 22, 1945. Changes made by Amendment 9 are indicated by underscoring or notes.

In the judgment of the Price Administrator the maximum prices established by this regulation are and will be generally fair and equitable and will effectuate the purposes of the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 as amended. A statement of the considerations involved in the issuance of this regulation has been issued simultaneously herewith and filed with the Division of the Federal Register.[2]

Insofar as this regulation uses specifications and standards which were not, prior to such use, in general use in the trade or industry affected, or insofar as their use was not lawfully required by another Government agency, the Administrator has determined, with respect to such standardization, that no practicable alternative exists for securing effective price control with respect to the commodities subject to this regulation.

[Preamble amended by Supplementary Order 70, 8 F.R. 12556, effective 9-11-43]

AUTHORITY: § 1301.1 issued under 56 Stat. 23, 765; 57 Stat. 566; Pub. Law 383, 78th Cong.; Pub. Law 108, 79th Cong.; E.O. 9250, 7 F.R. 7871; E.O. 9328, 8 F.R. 4681; E.O. 9599, 10 F.R. 10155; E.O. 9651, 10 F.R. 13487.

SECTION 1. Commodities and transactions covered by this regulation—(a) Transactions covered. This regulation establishes maximum prices for all sales of second-hand machine tools and second-hand extras, and all rentals and leases of second-hand machine tools and second-hand extras by all persons, except leases of such machine tools and extras by Defense Plant Corporation under a contract of lease which provides that machinery and equipment will be brought within the scope of the lease after purchase by the Defense Plant Corporation or the lessee for the account of Defense Plant Corporation, but which contract of lease does not provide for specific rental prices allocable to specific machines or parts.

(b) Definitions of second-hand machine tools and extras for the purposes of this regulation. A "second-hand machine tool" means a power driven machine (except portable machine tools) that has been used for shaping metal by cutting, abrading, straightening, forcing, forging, or forming under pressure. Machines listed in Appendices A or B of Maximum Price Regulation 136 [3], as amended, are not included. The term "second-hand tool" includes second-hand standard equipment; i. e.; those second-hand accessories normally furnished with a new machine and normally included in its price when new.

A "second-hand extra" means any used attachment for a machine tool which is standard accessory equipment normally furnished by the manufacturer at additional cost to his price of the machine tool, any used attachment for a machine tool manufactured by a person other than the manufacturer of the machine tool to which it is attached, and all used attachments sold separately as replacement.

[Sec. 1 amended by Am. 4, 9 F.R. 4229, effective 4-25-44; and Am. 7, 9 F.R. 12209, effective 10-11-44]

[NOTE: Under the provisions of Revised Supplementary Order 44 (10 F.R. 11065) MPR 1, is adopted and affirmed to be applicable to the Territory of Hawaii.]

(1) No person shall sell, offer or agree to sell, negotiate the sale of, transfer, or deliver, and no person shall buy, offer or agree to buy, or accept transfer or delivery of, any second-hand machine tool or extra at a price higher than the maximum price established by this regulation.
